CALIFORNIA "PORKERS" SQUEALING

BY KYLE D. PALMER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—An attempt will be made in the Legislature next week to prepare the way for passage over Gov. Richardson's veto of special appropriations aggregating $10,000,000.

The storm that has been going on in the Assembly and Senate because of apprehension as to the extent of general reduction in State costs contemplated by the Governor's executive budget is expected to break and deluge the legislative halls when the budget is submitted. It appears that confirmation of even the mildest fears of some of the pork-barrel legislators will result in a veritable flood of appropriation bills designed to nullify the new administration's retrenchment program.

And while the leather-lunged legislators are telling each other in impassioned language just how much and how little they will "stand for" in cost reductions, Gov. Richardson and his board of control are working night and day to prepare a budget that will not call for expenditures in excess of the State's estimated maximum income for the next two years.

BIG CUTS PROPOSED

In its tentative form the biennial budget calls for an expenditure for State functions during the next biennium of approximately $79,600,000—which represents reductions of nearly $12,000,000 under the last biennial budget of the Stephens administration.

This proposed reduction program will be fulfillment of Gov. Richardson's pledges to the people of California, but of even greater importance in view of the threat of legislators to override the gubernatorial veto, the Richardson budget will come within $1,000,000 or $1,500,000 of offsetting the estimated revenue from all sources for 1923 and 1924.

If the spenders in the Legislature succeed in mustering a two-thirds vote in both houses to pass appropriations not recommended by the Governor, the obligation also will devolve upon the Legislature to devise ways and means for raising additional taxes to meet the increased costs.

The average legislator appears to have a conviction that a popular demand throughout the State for greater economy and efficiency in

BY RAYMOND FENDRICK
[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PARIS, Jan. 27, 3 a.m.—A state of siege has been declared by the French at Treves in the Rhineland on account of the serious riots there Friday afternoon.

A dozen French soldiers and civilian officials were injured by the sudden German revolt. A troop of Algerian Spahis cleared the streets with sabres, wounding a number of Germans, some seriously.

No persons will be allowed on the streets hereafter from 9 in the evening until 7 o'clock in the morning.

Late Bulletins on Ruhr Crisis

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 26.—Gen. Degoutte issued a proclamation tonight warning Germans against further disorders, saying that in case of further trouble the French troops will shoot without warning. He advised the German police to get behind the troops in case of trouble. The Chief of Police replied that he would try to handle any situation in his district, but his police would never take refuge behind French bayonets.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The railway workers in Duesseldorf this afternoon tore up the railway lines, isolating the Ruhr main-line traffic, says a Reuter dispatch from Duesseldorf. The French organized convoys of motor lorries, some 400 of which made their way through Neuss with rations and supplies for the troops.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Of nineteen men arrested at Duesseldorf for refusal to co-operate with the French occupation authorities, fifteen are asserted by the French to be foreigners, according to Reuter's Essen correspondent. From another source it was learned that the identity of the men had not yet been established but that several Russians are believed to be among them.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 26.—The Belgian Labor party issued a manifesto today criticising the occupation of the Ruhr. The manifesto contains a proposal to solve the reparations problem by an appeal to the League of Nations, cancellation of the inter-Allied debts, an increase in the French, Belgian and Italian reparation shares by suppression of the British claims and a vast international loan with the help of America.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Reuter's Essen correspondent reports that the French have notified the Burgomaster of Essen that, as an outcome of Thursday's trouble, the troops have been ordered to fire upon any assembly exceeding 200 persons.

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A clash between French troops and inhabitants at Duesseldorf today is told of in a Central News dispatch. The inhabitants are said to have grappled with the soldiers, capturing several of their weapons.

PARIS, Jan. 27, 3 a.m.—Ambassador Fletcher to Belgium has been recalled by Washington for a consultation. He will leave the first week in February.

Held in Smuggling Case

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—William Thompson, former Chief of Police at Hoquiam, Wash., and James Hogan, formerly customs inspector at Aberdeen, Wash., were today committed by a United States commissioner here to the Pierce County Jail, Tacoma, to await action of a grand jury on a charge that they conspired to smuggle nine alien Japanese into the United States.

Sailor Kills Woman, Self

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—Emery C. Jones, a seaman, tonight shot and killed a woman registered at a hotel here as his wife and then turned the revolver upon himself, inflicting a head wound from which he died. The shooting started on the street. George Andrews, who was passing by in his automobile, saw Jones flourish the revolver. He stopped, took a wrench from his car and started to the woman's aid. Jones then pulled her in a doorway, firing three bullets into her body. Andrews said, and then rushed upstairs in a rooming-house, where he turned the revolver upon himself.

MARTIAL LAW DECLARED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUESSELDORF, Jan. 26.—What practically amounts to martial law has been declared in the occupied area. All cafes, hotels, theaters and cabarets were closed at 10 o'clock tonight, German time, which is 9 o'clock French time. The French tonight were continuing to make arrests in connection with Thursday's rioting. About twenty nationalist leaders were imprisoned during the evening.

More arrests are likely tomorrow if the Germans carry out their decision and refuse to obey the French. This decision was reached today at a meeting of all the burgomasters, the chiefs of police, prominent state officials and the directors of the Reichsbank in the Rhine provinces. The meeting was presided over by Dr. Gruetzner, president of the province of Rhenish Prussia, who later was taken into custody, but afterward released after a conference with Gen. Simmon, who informed him that he would be rearrested if he remained recalcitrant.

OPENLY DEFIANT

Quiet prevailed throughout the Ruhr today. There was no recurrence of Thursday's clashes, but the temper of the population was more openly defiant in the prevalent depressing atmosphere of hate. New forces of troops came into Duesseldorf today to meet any eventuality that may arise here or in an part of the Ruhr. The streets of Duesseldorf are under military guard, due to the absence of the German police.

The miners throughout the Ruhr continue to quit work and workmen in other industries also are leaving their jobs. Smokeless chimnies are now everywhere in evidence throughout the once prosperous valley of the Ruhr. Locomotives are stalled in shops or at stations, many pitheads from which formerly thousands of tons of coal daily were handled, show no signs of activity.

NEXT MOVE FROM PARIS

The next move will come from Paris, probably early in February after the Germans have failed to meet their January 31 payment of 500,000,000 gold marks. Germany must submit to the ultimatum which will then be sent them or further military operations, the nature of which have not yet been announced, will begin.

The economic side of the occupation of the Ruhr apparently has proved a failure and the belief prevails that it is not likely the situation will improve with the increasing of difficulties of working the industries, due to the spreading of strikes. It is understood, however, that France has decided upon a further use of force to bring Germany to terms. It is known that some of the engineers who came into the Ruhr with the mission of M. Coste, head of the French industrial delegation, are returning to France. The mission is marking time until the repara-

LAW LAXITY IS SCORED BY BUTLER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Jan. 26.—There is no likelihood that the Eighteenth Amendment ever can be enforced, "no matter at what expenditure of money or of effort," Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, declared in an address today at the annual meeting of the Ohio State Bar Association.

He linked the prohibition amendment with the fifteenth addition to the Constitution of the United States, which was proclaimed in 1870, and granted the negro suffrage, as "two important and law-made influences which now are making, and seem likely long to make, for lawlessness in American life." The subject of his address was "Law and Lawlessness."

He asserted that "methods of Czarist Russia, and of the Spanish Inquisition," are being used to enforce one provision of law and said there are a "dozen verboten signs in the United States to every one that Germany can show."

FROM HIS ADDRESS

"It is elementary," declared Mr. Butler, "that an individual or a community may not defy law in one respect without developing a habit of disregard for all law. If the American people stand idly by and see the Fifteenth Amendment unenforced and unenforceable because it runs counter to the intelligence and moral sense of large elements of the population, must they not either remove the offending cause from the law or leave off bewailing the lawlessness to which its presence naturally leads?"

REVOLT NATION-WIDE

With regard to the Eighteenth Amendment the situation is even worse, Mr. Butler believes.

"The revolt against the Eighteenth Amendment is not confined to men andwomen of intelligence and moral sensitiveness in one section alone, but is nation-wide. These men and women regard its provisions and the status based upon it as a forcible, an immoral and a tyrannical invasion of their private life and personal conduct.

"They have no possible interest in the liquor traffic, but they are opposed to making the Constitution the vehicle of a police regulation affecting the entire country. The moral sense, as well as the common sense, of very many people is affronted by a policy which

ARRESTED ON DEATH BED

Man Lying Wounded in County Hospital Charged With Being One of Bay City Hold-up Men

As he lay last night between life and death at the County Hospital, William Hollingsworth, 28 years of age, was arrested on a fugitive warrant from San Francisco charging him with complicity in a hold-up there last Saturday night.

Behind the arrest lies the story told last night by Mrs. Marie Hollingsworth, the wounded man's wife, of a breakneck drive from San Francisco, and the police report of the hold-up, in which one bandit was killed.

According to the police report, Hollingsworth and two companions started out last Sunday night in San Francisco with the intention of committing a hold-up. As their victim, they unwittingly chose a detective sergeant, who, instead of submitting, opened fire.

One of the bandits fell with a bullet near his heart. Hollingsworth was shot in the head, the bullet piercing the skull and slightly searing the brain. The third man escaped. According to the police, Hollingsworth threw the wounded man into an automobile, drove to his home and then went to his own home.

From there, he and his wife started for Los Angeles at 11a.m., Sunday, arriving here early Monday. He then applied for admission to the County Hospital, telling a story of having been held up and wounded.

Mrs. Hollingsworth last night told the story of the wild ride with her wounded husband to Detective Sergeants Cato and Cahill. She declared that she knew nothing of the hold-up, nor how her husband had been wounded. They had no money, she said, and on the way, traded a coffee percolator for gasoline.

When arrested last night at the hospital, Hollingsworth refused to make any statement. Police officials here declare that he is a notorious smuggler of narcotics, and that he now is on probation, having been tried here on a charge of stealing an automobile.

If he lives, he will be taken back to San Francisco for trial. Surgeons stated that his life now hangs in the balance. Mrs. Hollingsworth, who is 22 years of age, was found at the home of her mother, 1247 Mt. Evergreen street.

Detectives A. W. Benjamin and A. H. Casselberry worked on the case with Cato and Cahill, and were instrumental in trailing Hollingsworth down.

HARDING IS STUMPED BY RUHR TANGLE

BY ROBERT BARRY
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—There issued from the White House this afternoon a candid statement that the administration was completely stumped with respect to any plan of assisting Europe out of its current economic and political troubles. The President has no plan of action. Frequent discussion has failed to suggest a method by which the United States might be helpful.

In a discussion of an "unreasoning state of mind" among certain Americans "who seem to believe America has only to wave a magic wand to settle all the world's affairs," a White House spokesman described as "pure bunk" assertions that the whole European situation would have altered had the United States joined the League of Nations.

LEAGUE INACTIVE

It is the White House view that the advocates of the League should center their drive to have the League do something in Europe. Its failure to take any step in accordance with the preamble of its constitution "to promote the peace of the world" does not impress the administration as warranting any special faith in its efficacy.

Without wishing to reflect on those persons, in and out of Congress, who were seeking to prod the administration to affirmative action, the President was understood to feel the better thing for them to do would be to devise some specific plan. That such suggestions would receive courteous consideration was assured by the White House, but attention was called to the distinction between pronouncement in the halls of Congress and definitions of policy by the President or the Secretary of State.

There was nowhere in the expression of White House opinion

LAUSANNE MEET CRUMBLES

Riza Nur Says Failure is Certain; Russians Reject Straits Treaty; Bulgarians Recalcitrant

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LAUSANNE, Jan. 26.—Failure of the Near Eastern conference is certain, according to a statement made to the Associated Press tonight by Riza Nur, one of the members of the Turkish delegation.

Notwithstanding this pessimistic view of Riza Nur, who is the most radical of the Turkish plenipotentiaries, hope is expressed in other responsible conference quarters that things may arrange themselves at the last moment.

Ismet Pasha, chief of the Turkish delegation, called this afternoon on Richard Washburn Child, American observer, and went over with Mr. Child at great length the existing situation. Mr. Child later declined to discuss what he termed a private conversation, but in American delegation circles the impression prevailed that the Turks would seek a settlement at Lausanne, if one was possible.

The time apparently is not ripe for active American mediation, but the Americans stand ready to help in assuring a permanent peace for the Near East.

The Mosul controversy remains the thorn of the conference. The Turks may be asked to accept on this point the decision of a special arbitration commission of which an American jurist would be the neutral member.

BRISTOL IS INVITED

Ismet followed his talk with Ambassador Child by inviting Rear-Admiral Bristol, also of the American delegation, to take tea with him. The deadlock in the conference again was discussed.

Asked whether war would follow the breakdown of the conference, Riza Nur said tonight: "God only knows. I am furious that our months of hard work here should all be for nothing."

The Russian delegation issued a statement tonight to the effect that Russia would not sign the Straits treaty.

The Bulgarians threw a bomb into Balkan circles, and incidentally into the Allied ranks, by officially informing all the powers that Bulgaria flatly refused to accept the outlet to the Aegean Sea arranged by the Allies. The Allies offered Bulgaria a port near Dedeagatch under the form of a lease, with the understanding that the railroad from Bulgaria frontier would be under international control. Bulgaria, however, said she must have complete sovereignty over the port on the Aegean and also over the special corridor along the Maritza river from the Bulgarian frontier to the sea.

TURKS AND ADJOURNMENT

The Turkish delegates today answered the reported project to adjourn the conference by the end of next week, whether peace was signed or not, by announcing they were having their passports vised for their return to Turkey.

The Turkish journalists here forwarded to Constantinople a statement by Ismet Pasha that if the Allies left Lausanne, February 2, as they have stated, is their intention, his delegation would also depart the same day. If he were not given sufficient time to reply after the presentation of the Allied draft of the peace treaty next Wednesday, he would send his reply later from Angora or his army headquarters, he declared.

Ismet's statement added that unhappily divergence existed between the Turks and the Allies on many points, including disposition of the Mosul oil territory, capitulations, war damage and the disposition of the town of Karagatsch, opposite Adrianople.

BOVINE TOO VICIOUS FOR OPPONENTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) Jan. 26. The verdict "too vicious to be killed" gained freedom for a bull which made a gallant fight at the Plaza de Toros, in Matamoros. After it had injured the matador, two picadores and a banderillo, it was permitted to leave the ring without being sacrificed. This is the first time in a decade that a bull has entered the arena at Matamoros and lived.

Several thousand spectators were at the fight. As the bull entered the arena with the red flag flapping around its horns he appeared the reincarnation of fury. He killed the horse of the first picador and trampled the man. Wheeling quickly, he attacked and injured the second picador, who managed to escape with his life. After a few minutes of baiting by banderillos and capadores the matador was knocked down, trampled on and narrowly escaped goring. The bull then attacked a banderillo and the man was badly gored. The animal then created consternation among the audience by jumping the six-foot stockade around the arena. It was driven back, and finally driven to the pen. It will be return to the ranch from which it came. The edict was that the bull had earned its right to live.

LEGISLATORS IN WEEKLY RECESS

Accomplishments to Date Not Monumental

One Urgency Bill Has Been Made Law

Veterans' Welfare Board Has Submitted Budget

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—The forty-fifth session of the California Legislature adjourned today shortly after noon, to meet again Monday morning. This was the completion of the third legislative week of the session, and indications on the floor today were that one more week would precede adjournment for the thirty-day Constitutional recess.

Seven hundred and four bills have been introduced. This includes 476 in the Assembly, where on the fifteenth legislative day of the 1921 session, 1013 had been introduced at the same relative time; and 228 in the Senate where 167 had been offered on the corresponding day last session.

Members said today that the delay in introducing bills was due, in part to their desire to see what items of appropriations were included in the State Budget, which has been promised by the Board of Control for early next week. The budget, however, will not be available at once in printed form, and but one typewritten copy will be sent to each house, according to announcement on the floors today. Then it will have to be printed, and as it takes up State expenditures item by item, and name by name, the document will be so bulky that the precise date of its completion in print is unkown.

SPECIAL BILLS PLANNED

Whenever it is received, it is expected to be followed by a flood of special appropriation bills, by which means members plan to seek legislative consideration for items that may have been omitted by the Board of Control.

There are numerous bills of State-wide interest already before the Legislature; these include proposed amendments to the election laws that would in part provide a means for a return to the convention system of nominations; they provide many plans for redistricting California into Congressional equalization, Senatorial and Assembly districts; they provide for the elimination of scores of State agencies which the present administration deems needless; they provide for reductions of salaries and curtailment powers, of numerous commissions and officials; they provide for changes in municipal, county, school, irrigation, and other special laws, some of which are general in scope.

ONE LAW MADE

Complete legislative accomplishments to date included only the enactment of one law, an emergency measure for the legal relief of the Palo Verde Valley, which has been battling against flood and war damage. Several resolutions had passed both houses, and an appropriation bill for legislative expense was ready to go to the Governor, but only one bill had actually become law. This, however, was due to part of the Constitutional provision that during the first half of the session only bills carrying an urgency clause may be put on final vote."

Of the bills before the Legislature, about two-thirds are special acts of limited scope or interest, such as county government bills affecting single counties, validating acts for various improvement districts, and minor amendments to practice statutes, which were brought in by scores on behalf of the bar associations. There were also a number of proposed enactments for the repeal of obsolete statutes. The remaining third were bills of general import, and covered all sorts of subjects from the need for a runway for trainmen along railroad trestles to complete revisions of the motor vehicle laws.

The only legislative function that was proceeding tonight was the hearing before the Jones Committee of the Senate, which was seeking to determine what sums were spent, and by whom, in support of and against various measures that were on the last general election ballot.

WELFARE BOARD BUDGET

The Veterans' Welfare Board, organized under authority of an act of the Legislature of 1921, has submitted to the State Board of Control its recommendations for salaries and expenses for the approaching biennium. The recommendations include an item of $275,200 for salaries for the biennium, and $25,575 for property and equipment. These items are divided under the general heads of "general administration," "land settlement" and "farm and home aid."

The general salary list of the request, for the Welfare Board, totals $152,200 for the biennium. To this there are added other salaries for the land settlement work which add $40,200, for the farm and home aid $54,000 and for the California veterans' educational institute $28,800, bringing the grand total for salaries to $275,000.

Assemblymen Cleary and Stevenot today introduced a proposed constitutional amendment relative to legislative apportionment that would, if adopted, limit the number of Assembly districts in any city or city and county to ten, and provide that remaining Assemblymen should be distributed among the country districts. The amendment makes no reference to State Senators, as its authors believe that the retention of a number of Assemblymen in the country districts would offset the gradual trend of Senatorial representation toward the growing cities.

NEVADA APPROVES PACT ON COLORADO

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CARSON CITY (Nev.) Jan. 26. The Nevada Senate today adopted the Assembly resolution approving the Colorado River pact and the resolution goes to the Governor, who recommended its adoption. The resolution pledges Nevada to work with the Federal government and the other Western States concerned along the lines recommended by the commission headed by Secretary Hoover.

CAPITAL PORK CREW UNHAPPY

State government relates to affairs in counties and districts other than his own. This legislative type is willing to give his vote to cut down road appropriations and other expenditures in sections remote from his, but makes great outcry over starting economy at home.

MEANS DIRECT TAX

Should the pork-barrel proponents load an additional $10,000,000 on the State in the form of special appropriations, an ad valorem or direct property tax will be necessary, according to governmental experts.

One of the biggest pork-barrel enterprises of the old State machine was menaced today when the State Highway Commission took steps to cancel a contract signed by the former commission for an initial expenditure of more than $300,000 on a mountain road running through the vast estate of William R. Hearst, in Monterey county.

This highway, which runs for many miles through the Hearst ranch, "begins nowhere and ends nowhere," according to W. F. Mixon, secretary of the new highway commission, who explained that an investigation of the road showed that only four families live on it. The order canceling work on the Hearst highway, according to the commission, "is in the interest of the State at large, and will permit the more rapid carrying into execution of the policy of the commission to complete the trunk lines laid out under the first bond issue." The commission proposes to cancel in addition to the Hearst road contract, other contracts calling for a total of $1,700,000. Funds thus derived will be devoted to improving the main trunk lines of the State.

BILL HITS BOARDS

Wholesale elimination of State boards, officers and employees, with a consequent saving of thousands of dollars is contemplated in an original bill introduced in the Assembly today by Assemblyman Bromley of Los Angeles. The Bromley bill proposes the creation of a bureau of professional standards under a director and the merging into this bureau of the State board of accountancy, architecture, dental examiners, optometry, pharmacy, embalmers, library examiners, medical examiners, examiners in veterinary medicine and the dismissal of the functionaries of such boards.

According to Gilbert B. Daniels, chairman of the Board of Control, the Bromley bill not only will save the State a large sum each year, but will eliminate endless confusion and duplication of effort.

Telegrams, letters and formal resolutions demanding that the Legislature perform its duty in the matter of a constitutional reapportionment continued to arrive today from Southern California.

PASSAGE EXPECTED

Ralph Arnold, chairman of the Los Angeles Republican county Central Committee, arrived in Sacramento this morning bringing resolutions adopted in Los Angeles at a Southern county caucus on the reapportionment question. After talking with Gov. Richardson and members of the Legislature he expressed the opinion that a constitutional reapportionment bill will be passed.

Legislators who have been outspoken in their opposition to "any reapportionment" seem somewhat appalled by the vigor of Southern California's demands for justice and a move is now on foot to kill reapportionment in committee, thus avoiding the necessity of voting for or against the legislation on the floor of the Assembly and Senate.

Another outstanding development in the reapportionment contest is the sudden cessation of antireapportionment propaganda by Hearst's San Francisco Examiner.

FREE STATE ARMY SCHEME ANNOUNCED

SIXTY-FIVE INFANTRY UNITS OF 427 MEN TO BE ORGANIZED

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUBLIN, Jan. 26.—The plan of reorganization of the Irish Free State Army was announced today. The old brigade formations, under which the men served in their own districts, are abandoned, being substituted by a system of battalions and regiments. No regiments have yet been formed, but there will be sixty-five infantry battalions, each numbering 427 men.

The commands are rearranged, becoming nine in number, one each in Donegal, Claremorris, Limerick, Kerry, Cork, Waterford, Athlone, Dublin and Curragh.

The titles of the officers also are altered, the present Commandants-General becoming Colonels. It is not yet known whether the officers' commissions will be issued in the name of the King, the Governor-General or the President of the Free State Cabinet.

Patrick Cunningham, William Conroy and Colm Kelley, all of Tullamore, were executed at Birr, Kings county, today for possessing arms and ammunition and for theft from residence.

RECLAMATION BOARD FACES OPPOSITION

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—Modification of the powers of the State Reclamation Board is the aim of a bill introduced today by Senator Frank S. Boggs of Stockton. The measure is the outgrowth of a series of conferences of Sacramento and San Joaquin Delta region landowners, and would prohibit the board from undertaking any new work without the consent of the landowners who finance the work. Reclamation projects already under way would not be affected, however.

The bill also would restore the penalty on delinquent assessments to 10 per cent instead of the 20 per cent charge imposed by the last Legislature.

ESTATE INCREASES

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—An accounting by trustees of the estate of Theodore Roosevelt, approved by a referee and filed in Supreme Court today, revealed that its value has increased from $687,370 to $752,215, between January 3, 1919, the day of his death, and March 31, 1922.

Bill in Senate Provides for Filing on Sites

Power Centralization Plan is Advanced

Resolution Urges Roads Over Indian Lands

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Jan. 26.—The Colorado River situation, already buried under a mass of bills and resolutions in both houses, today was still further confused by a bill sponsored by Senators Campbell of Coconino and Roberts of Cochise, providing steps by which the State of Arizona should file upon all waters of the river not already appropriated, and should build at Glen Canyon a dam for flood control and generation of hydroelectric power.

Further, there is to be a survey of the stream for the location of other dam sites for electric generation, this to be with full consideration of the preview of the Federal Power Commission. A blank is left for insertion of the amount of money to be raised on the credit of the State.

In the bill is express recognition of the State Water Commission, whose office other legislation seeks to have abolished. All Colorado River matters are being referred to the Committee on Irrigation, whose chairman, Gilbert, already has a large file that includes even newspaper clippings, offered in the Senate whenever legislatures consider the pact.

PACT STILL IN HOUSE

It is ruled that the pact has not yet reached the Senate, as it has been sent to the House by Gov. Hunt. The Glen Canyon site is near Lee's Ferry and for a year past has been under development by the Southern California Edison Company, which has announced willingness to spend around $100,000,000 in construction of a dam and power works.

Roberts announced he would offer a bill denying the water commissioner right to issue licenses for storage or power works without the assent of the Legislature. He also offered a protest from Pisbee realty dealers against the present closed-shop condition of business.

Senators Pierce, Sims and Claypool have been appointed on a committee to investigate the construction of the Lymann Dam, near St. Johns.

In the administration plans, to centralize all authority in the Governor, may be included a bill offered by Senator Colter, increasing the membership of each of the State normal school boards to five, including the Governor, State School Superintendent and three members, to be appointed by the Governor from the school vicinity and to hold office at his pleasure.

ROAD BUILDING URGED

A resolution of length calls attention of the general government to the advisability for building roads through Arizona Indian reservations, which cover a fifth of the State's expanse. In the House was reversal of action of the previous day in providing tax exemption for the property of veterans. As passed, the bill simply exempts widows, on half of $2000 assessments and $2000 in $5000 estates.

There was final defeat of a measure that permitted divorce when husband or wife had been incurably insane for seven years. On presentation by Mrs. Ivy, the House adopted a resolution providing for display of the national colors on Mothers' Day. John R. Bradshaw, chosen the previous day by the Maricopa County Supervisors to fill a seat vacated by R. F. Payton, was sworn in. The House recessed till Monday.

CHIROPRACTORS AND OSTEOPATHS SAFE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26. — The osteopaths and the chiropractors had to fight their way through with initiative measures to get licenses and examining boards, but now they are beyond the reach of legislation that was offered today to abolish the Medical Board, the Optometrists' Board and other statutory bodies.

An administration measure to do away with the Medical Board, and numerous others was introduced today, but it omitted mention of the osteopaths and chiropractors. Inquiry developed the fact that, as these two were organized under initiative acts the Legislature is without authority to abolish them.

John A. McGilvray, legislative counsel, said tonight that initiative acts stood in a class alone, and that the Legislature could not repeal them unless the acts themselves contained authority, until such time as the constitution was amended to meet the issue.

Proud Pharaoh of Ages Past to Pose for Films

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LUXOR (Egypt) Jan. 26.—Pharaoh Tutenkhamun, the mightiest king in the world 3500 years ago, whose tomb was recently discovered in Egypt, is to be x-rayed if his mummy still lies in the tomb.

When the archaeologists now at work on the tomb carry the shrouded form into the sunlight, it will be photographed from every angle. The hundreds of yards of bandage will be unwound and for the first time in history a film of the weird sight will be made.

It has been decided that the mummy is to be x-rayed before the bandages are removed as it is expected that this will throw an important light on the ritual of embalming as practiced by the ancients.

CUBAN BONDS SOLD

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

HAVANA, Jan. 26. — The contract for the $50,000,000 exterior loan was signed today by President Alfredo Zayas, for the government of Cuba, and Elliott C. Bacon, a member of the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York, heading the banking syndicate which has floated the loan.

MORATORIUM CALLED OFF

Reparations Commission Decides it Would Be Futile to Discuss Plans at This Time

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Jan. 26.—The possibility of the Reparations Commission becoming a medium for compromise in the present difficulties between France and Germany virtually ended this afternoon so far as the immediate future is concerned.

By deciding that it would be futile to discuss the question of a moratorium with conditions as they are in the Ruhr, and declaring Germany in general default of all her reparation obligations to France and Belgium, the commission placed itself outside of the problem for some time to come.

The decision has the effect of providing for future defaults by Germany in reparation deliveries either in cash or kind, and saves the commission the trouble of declaring a new default every time one occurs.

BOYDEN PLAN BURIED

The memorandum prepared by the American unofficial representative, Roland W. Boyden, about which there has been so much discussion, now becomes in effect buried, since it was only to see the light of day when and if the French moratorium plan came up for consideration.

The likelihood of the Boyden memorandum ever being seriously discussed by the commission now is most remote. It is said, however, that Boyden has no intention of withdrawing his memorandum unless instructed to do so by Secretary of State Hughes.

It was pointed out in reparations circles today that there is no intention now, and there never has been, to press it for consideration. Mr. Boyden attended today's session but did not address the meeting.

Sir John Bradbury, the British delegate, agreed with the French representative, Louis Barthou, that the present was not the time for discussion of moratorium, but Barthou attached great importance to the fact that Sir John had offered certain technical advice in drafting the letter of notification to Germany and it was broadly intimated after the meeting that this might be taken as a sign of closer Franco-British relations on the commission.

It was made plain by the British later that such an interpretation was entirely too optimistic, since there had been no change in the British attitude. Sir John merely offered certain technical advice, it was explained.

DISPUTE POSTPONED

The anticipated Franco-British dispute over the interpretation of paragraph 18 of annex L of the peace treaty did not come up today, but Sir John Bradbury made the reservation that this afternoon's action must not be construed as an interpretation of this portion of the treaty.

The British disagree with the French who assert this paragraph justifies action such as the French have taken in the Ruhr independent of Great Britain. There is a possibility that the League of Nations may be called on to interpret the meaning of this provision of the treaty.

Today's action by the commission brings the schedule of reparations payments of May 6, 1921, into effect again, beginning February 1. It is based on Germany's refusal to continue deliveries in kind to France and Belgium as long as the Ruhr is occupied and Germany's failure to make cash payments.

Paragraph 18 of annex 2 reads:

"The measures which the Allied and associated powers shall have the right to take in case of voluntary default by Germany, and which Germany agrees not to regard as acts of war, may include economic and financial prohibitions and reprisals and in general such other measures as the respective governments may determine to be necessary in the circumstances."

BODY IS FOUND BURIED IN SAND

ago. Several days ago, after failing to appear at Blythe, Detective Sergeants Beaumont and Roberts began a search for him. The trail led to Blythe, where Campbell and Davis were arrested in a stolen automobile. The car was the property of Mr. Nichols. They were taken to Riverside County Jail.

At Riverside they confessed to the murder. G. Mueller, in charge of the local branch of the Northern Assurance Company of London, by whom Mr. Nichols was employed as a special agent, hastened to Riverside. He identified the suit worn by Campbell as belonging to the missing man. The confession was further corroborated by the recovery of a watch in San Bernardino, where the boys had pawned it for $7. The watch also was the property of Mr. Nichols.

Mr. Nichols was driving alone across the desert when he met the two youths plodding along the road. He stopped and offered to convey the strangers to the next town. For no apparent reason, other than to steal the automobile, Campbell and Davis attacked their Samaritan from the rear seat. They shot him and threw him out of the car. Mr. Nichols fought savagely to save himself, but was overpowered. He attempted to reach his revolver in a side pocket of his car, but failed. After shooting him, according to the confession of the boys, they crushed his head and shoulders with heavy rocks.

Campbell was recently discharged from the navy at San Diego. He still wore his sailor's uniform. He discarded his own clothing, stripped the body of Mr. Nichols, and donned the dead man's suit. They then drove the stolen automobile to Blythe, where they were arrested on suspicion.

Following their confession, the youthful prisoners were not certain of the exact location of the murder scene and the desert grave of their victim. They stated they believed they could find it near a sign reading "15 miles to Yuma." After an all-day search, the quest was rewarded.

Mr. Nichols was well known in San Francisco. He came here only a few weeks ago, bringing his young wife with him. At the conclusion of his investigation in Southern California he was to have returned to the northern city.

Leviathan Will Make Its Initial Trip Next June

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan 26.—America's most ambitious undertaking in world maritime affairs will be launched next June when the giant steamship Leviathan, the largest vessel flying the United States flag, and the second largest in the world will be placed in the New York-Southhampton route in competition with the six star liners of the British passenger fleet, including the Majestic of the White Star Line and the Berengaria of the Cunard Line.

Assignment of the Leviathan to the Southhampton route, under operation by the United States Lines, was officially announced today by William J. Love, vice-president and general manager of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

LET PUBLIC CENSOR, SAYS FILM LAWYER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 26. — Let the public be its own motion-picture censor and the better element will prevail, as the film producers are making every effort to meet the best demands, declared C. Pettijohn, New York, general counsel for the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of American, Incorporated, in an address before the St. Louis League of Women Voters today.

Pettijohn cited gradual improvement in the type of film plays, brought about by catering to public demand, and asserted nearly all pictures show the triumph of good over evil. Motion-picture producers, he added, would not dare to put on the screen certain stories newspapers print.

GOVERNMENT IS STUMPED

any suggestion that the administration was contemplating any step looking to intrusion of American influence in the Ruhr dispute between France and Germany. Without wishing to convey an impression that it was government policy to "let Europe stew in its own juice," inability to devise a formula for an American plan of adjustment was taken to mean the same result would obtain. The administration is alert to the mood and aspects of the situation, but candidly, according to the White House, it sees nothing that might be done.

LET MATTER REST

The Cabinet did not discuss the international situation at today's meeting, the first since the President fell a victim to Washington's grip epidemic, according to White House authority. Such a statement was taken to mean the President and members of the Cabinet were content to let the matter rest with Secretary Hughes, however much certain elements in the Senate might be disposed to the contrary.

In keeping with predictions made two weeks ago when wide opposition was revealed to the Robinson resolution for official American representation on the Reparations Commission, the Committee on Foreign Relations today gave the Arkansas Senator's proposal the pigeonhole treatment. Further consideration of it was postponed indefinitely. Senator Robinson was expected to renew discussion of the issue on the floor, most likely in association with Senator Borah's renewed attempt to have Congress request the President to convene an international economic conference.

ACTION IN HOUSE

Representative Chalmers, Republican, of Ohio, brought the House into the international equation, by proposing a Congressional committee to wait on the President with a request he call a "world peace conference." White House disapproval of the Chalmers resolution having been stated this afternoon, the measure will be killed off by the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Senator Borah indicated he would not be able to prepare a new economic conference resolution before Monday, but would bend every effort to bring it before the Senate early in the week.

Republican irreconcilables on the Foreign Relations Committee were not wholly satisfied with Secretary Hughes's explanation of the activities of Roland W. Boyden on the Reparations Commission. Senator Johnson of California, was understood to have expressed the view in committe that the Hughes explanation did not alter his opinion the American position continued to be undesirable. Other Republican Senators declared the Hughes statement had meant simply that "Mr. Boyden was alleged to have done nothing, but he was cautioned not to do it again."

RAIL COMMISSION SLASHES BUDGET

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 26.—A revised budget asking a total appropriation of $687,400 and representing a saving of $184,896 over the previous budget, submitted early in November, was placed in the hands of Gov. Richardson late today by Clyde L. Seavey, president of the State Railroad Commission. Desire to co-operate with the fiscal officers of the State in holding down expenditures on a level with probable revenues was given as the reason for the slash, in a letter accompanying the budget.

Cuts made in the budget of the rail body were itemized as follows: Materials and supplies, $10,000; salaries and wages, $120,600; services and expenses, $7000; saving for five months of 1923, $20,000; revised estimate of fund credit, $27,296. Total, $184,896.

The possibility that the commission contemplated laying off a large part of its force was seen in the item listed under salaries and wages, which constituted the principal cut.

TWO MORE ARMY CORPS

Two additional French army corps are arriving in the Ruhr and it is reported that the military operation projected is of such magnitude that the mobilization of several of the French classes will be requested for its execution. The French here are hopeful that a further show of force on the part of France will cause the Germans to give up their present plan of noncooperation.

The arrests made during the course of Thursday's demonstration tend to show that labor refrained from participating in the disorders. Out of the nineteen persons taken into custody there were seventeen State functionaries and shopkeepers. The other two were newspaper men. The labor newspapers, especially those of Communist and Socialist leaning openly today denounced the manifestations.

START COAL BARGES

But while a majority of the laborites are inclined to continue work, the effectiveness of the railroad strike gradually is forcing the miners out of the pits and the steel workers from their plants. Navigation on the Rhine is at a standstill, but French crews today succeeded in starting for Strasbourg from Ludwigshafen fourteen barges of coal. Burgomaster Schmidt and Dr. Oexle, director of police of Duesseldorf, who were arrested during the day in connection with Thursday's disorders, slept behind prison bars tonight.

They will be tried by court-martial at Mayence on a charge of failure to enforce law and order. Dr. Oexle is said to have aggravated his case by being defiant when summoned before Gen. Simon, the military governor of Duesseldorf.

"I gave official instructions to my police to remain on duty, but they disobeyed. I fully approve of their attitude," Dr. Oexle is quoted as having said.

When informed that he was under arrest, the Chief of Police is reported to have said to Gen. Simon: "You French will find the Ruhr a tough morsel to digest. Beware of Ruhr indigestion."

The train for Paris, by way of Cologne, left on schedule time today, manned by a French crew.

The French are insuring their lines of communication for supplies by way of Neuss Junction, a few miles southwest of Duesseldorf, eliminating passage through the Cologne bridgehead where the British are. They have been unable to handle trains bringing food into the Ruhr for the civilian population and have so informed the Reich president. They are placing the responsibility on the German railwaymen should a famine ensue.

CUSTOMS BARRIER UP

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

ESSEN, Jan. 26.—The customs barrier with which the French are threatening to encircle the occupied Ruhr region, was expected to become effective at midnight tonight.

The occupation authorities decline to reveal their proposed plan, or to indicate the methods they will take for enforcement. "Ask Marshal Foch" was the uniform reply to the newspaper correspondents today when they asked for information.

This is interpreted as indication that Marshall Foch will have headquarters in Essen and be in charge of the cumtoms embargo which it is presumed, will permit of exports and imports to and from occupied Germany with the consent of the French authorities. German industrialists declare that if the ring is established it will mean ultimately the definite shutting down of industry in the Ruhr.

The mine situation was reported normal today, although Germans say the traffic situation was less favorable than on previous days. The French will attempt to operate the railway lines. Already they control the stretch between Cologne and Altessen, and announce that 3500 French railway workers are due to arrive in the occupied area tomorrow.

The post and telegraph authorities have issued an ultimatum to the French demanding the evacuation of telephone, postal and telegraph quarters, abolition of mail censorship, removal of military patrols from governmental premises and noninterference with the government administration.

No mail has been sent out of Essen for two days.

WRIGLEY, JR., DENIES KLAN MEMBERSHIP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan 26.—An emphatic denial that he is a member of the Ku Klux Klan, or ever has been, is contained in a statement made by William Wrigley, Jr., chewing gum magnate, who was named in a recent issue of an anti-Klan publication as a member. The signed application supposed to be in the hands of the organization is a forgery, according to Mr. Wrigley. He says also that he holds a statement in writing from the Imperial Wizard that he is not a member of the Klan.

German Opera Singers Come to America for 50 Cents a Month in Homeland will expend millions of dollars and use the methods of Czarist Russia and of the Spanish Inquisition to enforce one provision of law, while others of far greater significance and public importance are accorded conventional treatment or less."

That the tide of lawlessness in the United States has been rising since 1890 is the belief of the well-known educator.

"It is a sorry outcome," he declared, "of our century and a half of existence as an independent nation, proclaiming to the world the discovery of the best possible method of providing for liberty under law, that we should now be pointed to as the lawbreaking nation par excellence.

MULTIPLICITY OF STATUTES

"Former Senator Thomas of Colorado pointed out that within a relatively short period of time we Americans had some 70,000 statutes, State and national, passed for our guidance and government. To state this fact is to name a powerful force making for the spread of lawlessness. When the temporary is confused with the permanent and when the unimportant and trivial is mistaken for that which has broad reference and wide implication intelligent citizens must not be expected to look seriously upon statutes and statute making or to treat all statutes with equal respect.

"Through centuries a habit of obedience to the Ten Commandments may be built up among men, but the Ten Commandments cannot be enforced by all the governments and armies in Christendom. The influence of a sound education and a true religion, if really believed in instead of being talked about, would in time build up a spirit of obedience to law, which no possible system of law enforcement can ever bring about."

TWO BUREAUS ARE INVOLVED IN CASE

MAIL FRAUD TRIAL TO SEE AGRICULTURAL REPORTS IN EVIDENCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—A clash between official experts of two branches of the Federal government—the Agricultural Department vs. the Postoffice Department—is expected to be the novel feature of the Daniel Hayes Land Company $6,000,000 fraud case in the Federal court. Fifteen defendants are on trial charged with using the mails to defraud in the sale of land. The government asserts money was collected by the company from thousands of purchasers of land in California.

The defense is expected to present in evidence a report of the Department of Agriculture showing the land to be good for farming purposes. It was this report, they will say, that induced them to buy the land. The United States government attorney will contend that only a small portion of the land is fit for farming purposes.

A report by an expert of the California Land Commission will be thrown on the side of the United States agricultural report, it is said, supporting its contention that although there was some alkali on the land it was of a light nature and could easily be treated for the raising of crops.

The government will call 382 witnesses, including Judge S. M. Weaver of the State Supreme Court of Iowa. The defense will call eighty witnesses, including some farmers who bought land and are now said to be farming it profitably. The trial will probably take eight weeks.

CREDIT EXTENSION URGED FOR FARMERS

SENATE TOLD THEY SHOULD ENJOY SAME PRIVILEGES AS BUSINESS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Extension to the farmers of the country of the same credit facilities now afforded other business was advocated in the Senate today by Senator Smith, Democrat, South Carolina, during further debate on the Lenroot-Anderson rural credit bill.

Senator Smith said he could understand the hesitancy of Congress to put the farmers on the same plane as regards credit facilities as commerce and industry generally, and advised against legislation for credit extension which would be nothing but a "chip" as compared to what the farmers should be given. He urged particularly amendment of the Federal Reserve Act to extend the eligibility for rediscount of agricultural paper from six to twelve months instead of from six to nine months as provided in the Capper rural credit bill and in the Lenroot-Anderson measure.

The extension to twelve months, coupled with such administration of the Federal Reserve Act as would appreciate fully the farmers' problems, would furnish ample relief for agriculture, Senator Smith declared.

Senator King, Democrat, Utah, discussing the pending bill, briefly cited the increase in farm mortgages as revealed by the last census and asserted that the "country has gone mad on the subject of credit." He added that the farmers needed improved marketing facilities more than additional credit.

SAURIAN GRABS KEEPER'S LEG

Member Splinters Badly Because It Was Made of Wood

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

EL PASO, Jan. 26.—When Pablo Sambrano, gardener in a downtown plaza, was feeding alligators at noon today, one of the animals turned on him and grabbed him by the leg, shattering it. Sambrano hopped out of the inclosure on one leg. The leg the alligator crushed was made of wood.

NO FUNDS AVAILABLE

Toy called particular attention to the fact that the Hollister cut-off contracts had been let last December after a warning from Richardson that no funds were available for the work.

It is expected that a full inquiry into the condition of the highway-construction work will be made public before the present session has finished.

Tension developed at the session when L. A. Nares of Fresno demanded that the Hollister cut-off be finished because it was included in the $40,000,000 bond issue.

"The $40,000,000 bond issue included roads that would cost $200,000,000 to build," Chairman Toy retorted tartly. "I resent Mr. Nares's attitude as a personal affront to the commission. This commission is not going to be run by any committees, either past or present. Neither is it going to abide by any private understandings. It is going to build roads that it deems vital after a study of the whole State. Unnecessary construction will be stopped and commercial roads will be given the preference over tourist and scenic routes."

NO BOND ISSUE NOW

Commenting upon the bond-issue possibilities, Toy said:

"There will be no bond issue asked now. A four and a half mile cut-off will be built at Gilroy to meet the demands of that section temporarily. This will cost $60,000. The Hollister cut-off would cost approximately $218,000."

At the adjournment, Toy declared that the commission intended to adopt a road-building program that would command the respect of the public when a bond issue was asked at some future date.

WILHELM WARS WITH BRIDE

Domestic Bliss of Ex-Kaiser Short-Lived; Character Said to Have Suffered From Gland Operation

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—Reports that the romance of the ex-German Emperor and Princess Hermine is at an end have been drifting into London during the past week. Domestic storms have succeeded the honeymoon and the marriage, according to the Yorkshire Evening News, is a complete failure. A correspondent of that newspaper wired from Doorn as follows:

"In spite of elaborate efforts to hide the truth, I have discovered that the second marriage of the former German Emperor has been a complete failure and that at the present moment he is living in one part of the castle, while his wife and her children are in another. I am told that a very few weeks sufficed to bring about the breakdown.

"Those who are near the ex-Kaiser have been struck by grave alteration not only in his mood, but in his character. He is said to have been affected very unfortunately by the operation for gland transference he underwent before his second marriage. His own children have not forgiven him for the second marriage and his stepchildren avoid him.

"His means are reduced and his private expenditures strictly limited. He is living today under most unhappy family conditions. He can command neither service, affection nor companionship and the breakdown in his domestic arrangements is painfully apparent to the very few who visit him."

CHICAGO POSTOFFICE TO COST MILLIONS

REPORT EXPECTED TO CALL FOR NEW $10,000,000 STRUCTURE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Postmaster-General Work and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon are expected to recommend soon a new $10,000,000 postoffice for Chicago. The report will probably be submitted to Congress within two or three weeks.

In addition, these two cabinet members will also probably recommend the expenditure of $750,000 in refitting, rearranging and equipping the present Chicago Federal Building.

The proposed new postoffice is to have about three times the floor space of the present quarters. The plan contemplates the purchase of an entire block on the West Side at an estimated cost of $2,000,000. No location has been decided on, but presumably the site will be in the vicinity of either the Northwestern or Union Stations.

Caruso's Widow Given Share in Father's Estate

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. — Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the famous tenor and daughter of the late Park Benjamin, today announced a satisfactory settlement of the contest brought by the Benjamin children to upset their father's will. The contest was begun on the ground that Anna Bolchi Benjamin, Mr. Benjamin's adopted daughter, to whom he left $60,000, had unduly influenced him.

Mrs. Caruso said the financial considerations of the settlement were considerable, but that the most gratifying aspect of the settlement was that derogatroy statements about her and her brothers and sisters would be stricken from the will. Mr. Benjamin disinherited his children, charging ingratitude.

RANCHMAN'S BODY FOUND BY ROADSIDE RIDDLED WITH BULLETS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SANTA FE (N. M.) Jan. 26.—Hunter Hobbs and A. H. Burke, employees of a mercantile store at Cauitan, Lincoln county, were arrested by the Sheriff's officers there and are held pending hearing as suspects in connection with the assassination of Robert Hurt, ranchman, whose body, riddled with bullets, was found beside his wagon, two miles out of Capitan, on the road to his ranch Wednesday afternoon.

Evidence showed that two men hid behind bushes and opened fire on Hurt with a 30-30 rifle and 12-gauge shotgun loaded with buckshot.

Five shotgun shells and five rifle shells were found on the ground. One of the horses was wounded. They did not run owing to the fact that Hurt, when he fell out of the wagon, held onto the lines, which were gripped fast in his hand.

AGREEMENT ON DEBT EXPECTED

Harding Confident England Will Approve Plans

Believe Counter Proposal Will Pass Congress

Presentation Before Close of Session Doubtful

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—President Harding has every confidence that there will be an agreement with the British government for the refunding of its huge war debt to the United States, it was stated today at the White House. Should the settlement be delayed beyond the present session of Congress, which ends March 3, there will, however, be no extra session of the new Congress to consider the matter.

The President and the American debt commissioners were declared to believe that the counter-proposition presented by the Americans after the British mission had outlined terms on behalf of its government was sound and one that might have been acceptable to Congress. The firmness of the Americans in supporting their counter-proposition was a contributing reason, it was believed, for the decision of the British to have Cabinet consideration of the whole question before proceeding further with the negotiations.

Stanley Baldwin, British Chancellor of the Exchequer, and head of the British mission to this country, is due to arrive in London tomorrow. Dispatches from there today said that he was expected to report immediately to Premier Bonar Law, but that the Cabinet probably would not take up the question before early in the coming week.

The expectation here is that after the Cabinet has acted, the negotiations with the American commission will be resumed through Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador in Washington.

The American commissioners hope for an early settlement, but some of them are rather doubtful that an agreement can be put in shape for presentation to this Congress in time for final action by the two houses before the date fixed by law for adjournment.

Ambassador Harvey, who is returning to his post at the Court of St. James, should reach London early next week. He was on the ground here during the negotiations between the British and American commissioners, and it was explained that the American government officials believed it might prove desirable for him to be in London while the British Cabinet is considering the report which the British mission will submit to it.

ENLARGED RIVER AND HARBOR AID OPPOSED

ACTION OF HOUSE SAID TO BE CONTRARY TO POLICY OF PRESIDENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. — The recent action of the House in increasing by arproximately $20,000,000 the item for river and harbor improvement in the Army appropriation bill was declared by a Presidential spokesman at the White House today to be contrary to the financial policy of the administration. The President was said to hold that Congress should adhere to the budget estimates for such work.

Mr. Harding was further declared to believe that the budget figure was ample for essential improvements for rivers and harbors, although he recognized that it was within Congressional power to appropriate whatever sum it chooses.

RAILROAD ELECTION TO DECIDE RIGHTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—A general election on the Grand Trunk Railroad to determine whether the shopmen's organization which went on strike last July or the new union formed of men who remained with the road shall represent the shopcraft employees, was ordered by the United States Railroad Labor Board in a decision issued today.

The decision was made on a hearing in which the shopmen's union contested the right of the road in terminating the agreement under which they were working on thirty days' notice. The calling of a general election was in accord with the wishes of the protesting shopmen.

HARDING PLANNING ON VISIT TO FLORIDA

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Definite announcement that the President and Mrs. Harding expect to go to Florida after Congress adjourns was made today at the White House.

For some time it has been known that because of the recent serious illness of Mrs. Harding and the attack of the grip which Mr. Harding suffered, coupled with the strain of constant attention to official business for months under which he labored, that such a rest was desired. It was not indicated what place in Florida Mr. and Mrs. Harding contemplated visiting.

WYOMING WANTS OIL REFINED IN STATE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHEYENNE (Wyo.) Jan. 26.—Without discussion the lower House of the Wyoming Legislature this afternoon adopted a resolution calling on Congress and the Secretary of the Interior to provide hereafter that all crude oil produced from government leases in Wyoming be refined in Wyoming.

The resolution criticises the Teapot Dome lease, declaring that permission given by the government to the Sinclair interests to pipe petroleum to Kansas City will enrich other States at the expense of this State.

All-Nations Rally Scheduled at Chicago in February

Gov. Parker to Speak and Gov. Smith May Appear

Imperial Wizard Says Law Must Not be Usurped

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—An all-nations rally to form the basis of a national organization to oppose the Ku Klux Klan and kindred organizations will be held at the Coliseum here beginning February 26, next, and continuing for one week, Patrick H. O'Donnell, chairman of the American Unity League, announced tonight.

Gov. Parker, of Louisiana, has accepted an invitation to make the opening address February 26 and Gov. Smith of New York, is expected to speak, Mr. O'Donnell announced.

"This is expected to mark the beginning of a national movement," he said, "to harmonize all races and religions in the common purpose of breaking down the K.K.K. and kindred organizations that undertake to overthrow the separation of Church and State, freedom of conscience, equality before law and freedom of man to act."

Following the meeting here, Mr. O'Donnell said similar meetings would be held in other principal cities of the country.

Gov. Parker's letter, accepting an invitation to address the rally, said "every right thinking man owes a patriotic duty to awaken the people of this nation to dangers which confront them when any invisible empire seeks to rise supreme to our laws and is engaged in an earnest effort to mix politics and religion, breed friction and bitterness between those of different religions and tear down the civilization that has taken us centuries to build up."

LIMITS KLAN RIGHTS

Klansmen have no right to take the laws into their own hands, Hiram Wesley Evans, Imperial Wizard of the organization, said today in a statement in which he also charged Gov. Parker with political or other motives in instigating the Mer Rouge investigation.

Asked if the Klan would defend any men who may be arrested or indicted in connection with the Louisiana case, Evans said that if a Klansman "was unable to provide defense for himself we would most certainly see that his rights as a Klansman were looked after and that he got justice" but "we would not use any effort anywhere to prevent a man from paying the just penalty for a crime committed."

Asked regarding rumors concerning the eligibility of others than Protestants to be Klansmen, he said: "There is no possibility of the eligibility of membership being changed at all within a period of two years and no change is contemplated or likely to be put into effect at all."

BROOKLYN OUSTER PLAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—A warning to members of the Ku Klux Klan that they must give up their allegiance to the "invisible empire" or get out of Brooklyn was issued today by Dist.-Atty. Dodd, of Kings county, and Magistrate Dale.

The warning was voiced at the arraignment of eight asserted members of the inner circle of the Klan, who were arrested last night by members of the bomb squad after they had attended what counsel admitted was a Klan meeting. They were held in $1500 bail for further examination — seven on charges of possessing blackjacks and one on a charge of having a bottle of whisky in the automobile in which all were arrested.

Before fixing bail, Magistrate Dale went into his private office and conferred with the District Attorney's office by telephone. When he came out, he said he had been requested by Dist.-Atty. Dodd to say the Klan had no place in Brooklyn and would be driven out.

OPERA TEMPERAMENT IS LOOSE AGAIN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Supreme Court Justice Tierney today reserved decision on a petition for a permanent injunction sought by Mme. Luella Melius, a concert singer, to prevent Jules Daiber, an agent, from managing Mme. Ganna Walska McCormick of Chicago.

Daiber's counsel contends that Mme. Melius, the wife of a New York broker, herself broke her contract with Daiber by advertising in theatrical magazines that he no longer was her manager.

A Valuable Colored Map
—SHOWING THE—
French Advance Into the Ruhr Basin

This fine colored map shows the area previously occupied, the lines of the French and Belgian advance, coal fields, and iron ore districts. At a glance, one gets a graphic presentation of the theater of the French occupation in Germany along the Rhine. There is also a smaller map which shows the industrial riches of the Ruhr region.

The leading article in THE LITERARY DIGEST this week reflects the right and wrong of the Ruhr invasion according to the opinions of the American newspaper press and prominent men such as General Charles G. Dawes; ex-Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels; Thomas A. Edison; Henry J. Allen, ex-Governor of Kansas; Dr. Henry van Dyke; President Harry Pratt Judson, of the University of Chicago; President David P. Barrows, of the University of California, and others. These men state their views in telegrams received by THE LITERARY DIGEST in answer to the question submitted to them, "Do you think the Ruhr invasion right or wrong?"

Mr. Edison, for instance, believes that "France, Belgium, and Italy have taken the right method to bring things to a focus; the Germans have no cause to complain of a return call by the French, especially when it is from the German visit, in being a business call." A directly opposite view is held by United States Senator Carter of Arkansas who says: "By the use of force to collect reparations, France puts her interests above those of humanity. In the hope of controlling the world, she is willing to imperil its safety." Other extremely interesting and important news-features in this week's DIGEST are:

"We Strive To Please"

The directors of American motion picture theaters strive to obtain the best for their patrons. From a vast celluloid library they must select what they think you will enjoy most. A feature is first. But the available stock is always large. A new reel or a novelty adds variety and interest. Then a comedy. Everybody likes to laugh but every comedy does not evoke mirth. The manager is in a constant quandary. So The Literary Digest has solved this problem for over a thousand theatrical directors by selecting the best of the world's current wit and humor for presentation on the silver screens. A new "Fun From the Press" flashes across the nation every week with the latest laugh-provokers. And where this rollicking reel is showing you can be reasonably sure the same discriminating taste is exercised in selecting the other amusement numbers for you, the best in their respective classes. For good, clean, well-balanced cinema entertainment go to theaters showing "Fun From the Press." Produced by The Literary Digest. Distributed by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

Washington Chiefs Cold on Hanihara Instructions

Yap Issue Ended Discussions Two Years Ago

Western Congressmen Oppose Softer Attitude

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Administration officials were not inclined to welcome the announcement from Tokio today that Masano Hanihara, newly appointed Ambassador to the United States, had been instructed to take up the Japanese immigration question when he reached his post next month.

Officials would rather have the problem, which raised such an acute issue in the Far East and among the Western States, should stay shelved for fear that its reintroduction into the realm of diplomatic negotiations would disturb the peaceful calm that has enveloped the Pacific since the conclusion of the Washington conference.

Congressional opposition and the rigidity of the Japanese contention that its nationals in the United States should have full citizenship status combine to create a situation too complex for the State Department to solve.

The Japanese position, privately expressed before the public announcement by Baron Uchida, is that this government must live up to its implied statement, made almost two years ago, that it would take up and attempt to dispose of the immigration problem after the more vexatious dispute over the cable rights on the Island of Yap had been adjusted.

LARGER YAP ISSUE

It was the larger issue of Yap that terminated the discussions of Roland W. Morris and Baron Shidehara, the State Department stated at the time, but actually it has been learned since that the cable controversy had enabled a "saving of face" and prevented an impasse. The nearest thing to an agreement ever reached was consideration of a Japanese proposal that all its nationals already in this country should have full citizenship and that the "gentlemen's agreement" already existing between the two countries should be redrafted and strictly observed by Japan.

It is doubtful whether a solution could have been reached along these lines if outside pressure had not been brought to bear. Mr. Morris, acting for the State Department, was not inclined to accept it without serious revision. This would have granted Japanese already resident in this country only certain civil rights and not full citizenship.

The suggestion that any compromise was to be made with Japan, however, evoked such a storm of criticism among the California delegation in Congress and those from other Far Western State that it would have been virtually impossible to obtain Senate approval to any form of treaty which Mr. Morris and Baron Shidehara might have figured on. Thus the diplomatic negotiations ended and Mr. Morris's report was shelved.

DELICACY IN SITUATION

What injects a certain amount of delicacy into the situation today is the strong conviction held in Japanese quarters that there was at least a tacit understanding, if not something more binding, that Japan's attitude in settling the question of Yap's status, and her cordial co-operation in the achievement of naval disarmament, would cause the United States to look with more favorable eyes on the immigration questions.

The administration, however, is in no better position domestically than it was two years ago as far as this problem is concerned. The Western members of Congress have not softened toward Japanese colonists. These members insist their States cannot and will not yield an inch from the present anti-Japanese legislation. Senator Hiram Johnson has announced himself ready to fight any such proposal whenever made.

In the conversations that ensue after Ambassador Hanihara's arrival, the State Department indicated today that it would make use of the service of Charles B. Warren, who has recently resigned as American Ambassador to Japan, to carry on negotiations in behalf of the United States. It also was indicated that Mr. Morris would not be recalled for such service unless it became necessary to obtain his advice on some point considered by him with Baron Shidehara on which complete information was not available in the records of the Department.

Policías que se Dejan Cohechar

El Jefe de Policía Oaks mandó aprehender ayer a J. S. Ealey, negro, de 55 años, que se titula el "rey" de la Avenida Central, por conspiración para violar la Ley Volstead. El Jefe está dándole duro a un circuito de prevaricadores cuyo cuartel general dicen se halla en la Estación Central de Policía y en el Ayuntamiento. A raíz de la aprehensión de Ealey, que fué detenido en la Avenida Central Sur, 1523, después de que hubo aceptado de otro negro, según dice la policía, $75 en billetes marcados, en pago de protección, el Policía William W. Wilson, gendarme de emergencia, fué destituido del cuerpo de policía, y encerrado en la cárcel del Condado, por un cargo de extorsión que le resulta en otro caso de violación de la referida ley. La tercera medida en esta guerra contra los prevaricadores es la creación de una escuadra especial, ideada por Lee Heath, Capitán de la División Central, para identificar a todas las personas que hacen su cuartel general de la Estación Central de Policía y de los Juzgados de Policía. Muchos de los que se dedican al cohecho han sido apercibidos de que no deben volver a la estación de policía, sino para negocios oficiales.

Cuatro Agentes Prohibicionistas Acusados

CEPHUS HENRY GETS "FLOATER"

Trick Ear Wins Him Freedom From Cell

Only Plea Is "Collapse From Hard Work"

One Gallows Only Visible Means of Support

Cephus Henry's trick ear won freedom from jail and a "floater" for its owner in Police Court yesterday afternoon.

Cephus is a highly polished member of the Ethiopian clan. With no visible means of support other than one tattered gallows that held up his overlarge trousers, he had staked out a homestead in the river bottom. And had it not been for his trick ear, the mail for the next ninety days would have been sent to the Lincoln Heights stockade.

"Cephus Henry?" called Judge Richardson.

"You're charged with being an idle and dissolute person. How do you plead—guilty—"

"Yeassh, Judge. Ah'm a hard-workin' man an' ah jes come down fum Frisco and ah stop at Big Cris' for a job and they use to me—"

"He's deaf," said a police sergeant. "He didn't hear what you said, your honor."

"Yeassh, an' ah kin get a job at ah time' ah cutch de jail house 'cause ah'm a hard-workin' man an'—"

"How do you plead?" shouted the Judge. "Guilty or not guilty?"

"THAT MR. JUDGE?"

"Yeassh, that's me, Judge — an ah cannot come down much 'cause that ol' strike in Frisco kinda made it unhealthy for me."

Cephus's trick ear was working fine. He couldn't hear a word.

"GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY!" shrieked the Judge, gasping for air.

"Yeassh — ah kin prove ah works, suh. Jes' squint at them air callouses an' ef ah only gits a chance ah'll go to work—"

"Bring him up here!" the judge told the officers. "Bring those ears up closer!"

"Yeassh—callouses fum hard work, suh—"

"Those weren't made by work," said the Judge. "You got those on the bricks pile."

"Yeassh, Judge—ah got them air callouses—"

"For God's sake—tell him what he's charged with," the judge told Deputy City Prosecutor Lucas.

Mr. Lucas inhaled a deep breath, raised on his toes, and shouted in Cephus ear—

"You're charged with being a vagrant!"

"A vagrant!" Mr. Lucas screamed.

"No—suh. Ah never rub no-buddy."

BAR IS "UNTRICKED"

Cephus's astounding ear, though previously deaf, heard the invitation which was only a whisper. Cephus smiled and stuck out his hands.

"Now, that's two mah corns, judge, an mah hand too—"

"Those aren't corns, Cephus."

"They isn't? Mah goodness, ah thought dey was."

The judge was speaking in a normal tone. Remarkably, Cephus was hearing distinctly.

"Now, Cephus, how do you plead—guilty or not guilty?"

"Well, judge, ah don't know what to plead to, judge—but ah'm a workin' man an' ah cum down fum Frisco an'—"

"Ninety days, suspended!" the judge interrupted. "Now get out of town on the next train!"

Y. W. C. A. IN DINNER SEE CHINA FETE

More Than 300 Enjoy Pageant; Progress of Organization is Told

The annual dinner of the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Association was held last evening in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association. More than 300 attended.

After the dinner a pageant was given, representing the work of the Los Angeles Y.W.C.A. in China. This was carried out by the world's fellowship groups directed by Miss Margaret Matthew.

The first episode portrayed Chinese girls at a camp meeting. The second showed the student conference at Peking, where friendships between thirty-one nations were formed through delegates. The third described the work being done by the Y.W.C.A. for industrial women of China. The fourth showed health work being done in China by Dr. Louise Morrow.

Following the pageant Miss Charlotte Davis, general secretary, spoke on "The Blue Triangle in Los Angeles." She pointed out that 840 girls between the ages of 12 and 18 were enrolled. The number of women and girls attending the gymnasium classes is 2011. The attendance in clubs and classes at the international institute numbered 9446.

R. F. Henderson spoke, extending a welcome to the Young Men's Christian Association.

A whistling solo was given by Miss Mildred Hartshorne, and songs were led by Miss Grace Ingring. Plans were formulated for the expansion of work in Los Angeles.

Additional board members were elected as follows: Mrs. George H. Clark, Mrs. S. N. Conner, Mrs. Bertram C. Stetson, Miss Lulu Ellis and Miss John W. Shore.

BUILDERS DUE TOMORROW

Five Hundred Delegates to National Convention to be Much Entertained in Los Angeles

Arrangements have been completed for the reception and entertainment of the 500 delegates to the fourth annual convention of the Associated General Contractors of America, who will spend the next week in Los Angeles as guests of the local chapter for the purpose of discussing problems confronting the construction industry, the second largest in the United States, and for the purpose of preparing a program for the year.

Many of the officials of the association have already arrived in Los Angeles and are working with the local chapter in the preparations for the reception of the main body of delegates, who will arrive Monday morning, 500 strong, according to present estimates. A special train en route from Chicago will arrive at Riverside tomorrow afternoon, where it will be met by members of the Los Angeles chapter, headed by President Arthur Best, who will welcome the delegates to California.

MANAGER DUE TODAY

Gen. Roy C. Marshall, general manager of the association, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., is expected to arrive in Los Angeles today in advance of the main delegation. Gen. Marshall accompanied the delegation on the special train as far as Riverside, but immediately proceeded to Los Angeles.

Other members of the official staff who have already arrived are G. W. Buchholz, general secretary; Howard B. Gill, publication manager, and E. J. Harding, membership manager.

William G. McAdoo, former Director-General of Railroads and at one time prominent in construction activities in the West, will be among the principal speakers. On Monday morning, following the invocation by Dean MacCormack, Mayor Cryer will open the convention with an address of welcome. Arthur Best, retiring president of the organization, will deliver his annual report. The last day of the convention, at its banquet to be held Friday evening at the Los Angeles Country Club, Frederick Warde, actor, will give a talk on "My Recollections."

Most of the sessions will be held in Berean Hall, on the second floor of the Auditorium Building. Convention headquarters have already been established at the Clark, where early arrivals are being provided for by the reception committee, composed of members of the Los Angeles chapter.

FUN ON PROGRAM

While the greater part of the program is devoted to business and to discussion of matters of interest to the constructors, a number of entertainment features have been included. Monday evening chapter presidents, members of the executive and advisory boards and members of the executive staff will be entertained at dinner at the University Club. Arthur Best will preside.

A smoker "Bohemian Night" will be given Tuesday evening to the delegates at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Wednesday afternoon an automobile trip to Long Beach and the harbor will be taken. Dinner will be served that evening at the Los Angeles Yacht Club and the evening will be devoted to a tour of inspection of the Famous Players-Lasky studio. Thursday and Friday will be given over to business affairs, but on Friday evening the banquet, which will bring the convention to a close, will be held at the Los Angeles Country Club. At this time Mr. Best will turn over his duties as chief executive to John W. Cowper of Buffalo, N. Y., president-elect.

On the return trip the delegates will visit Yosemite Valley and San Francisco, where they will be entertained by the Northern California chapter of the organization.

NO DIVORCE TO SHERWIN, WIFE SAYS

Playwright's Family Found Living in Old Mill; Minter Romance Known There

Mrs. Lodie Sherwin, wife of the dramatic critic and playwright who announced earlier this week that he hoped to get a divorce from his wife in order to marry Mary Miles Minter, former Lasky screen star, was located yesterday living in Oyster Bay, N. Y., and declares she will not consent to her husband's plan to gain his legal freedom.

Mrs. Sherwin and her three children live in a single room over an old dilapidated mill, which has been a landmark of Oyster Bay for more than two generations.

"I know all about the romance of Mr. Sherwin and Miss Minter," dispatches from the East quote her as saying, "but I see no reason why I should get a divorce. Mr. Sherwin has no grounds for bringing suit against me, and I do not intend to ask the courts for my freedom."

NEGRO BLEACHED BY WILD MAN'S ANTICS

LINCOLN PARK TREATED TO NAKED CLUB WIELDER

Bursting into the Lincoln Heights Police Station last night, a terrified negro whose carbon cheeks were pale with fright, gasped: "Dey's a wild man loose in Lincoln Park. He's got a club an' no clothes on, and He done chased me!"

Without stopping to tell his name, the negro hastened to put further distance between him and the wild man. Officers Day, Redican and Quebell started a search of Lincoln Park, which resulted in the capture of a man answering the negro's description.

He was garbed in the costume of Adam and cavorted through the park emitting weird yells and brandishing a club. Overcoming his resistance, the officers draped him with a lap robe, and took him to the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital.

STEPS UP ON LADDER OF FAME

Dagmar Godowsky Signed by Goldwyn to Take Part in "Red Lights"

Dagmar Godowsky, talented daughter of the world-famed pianist, Leopold Godowsky, yesterday signed with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation to interpret the role of "Renie" in the screen version of the famous stage success, "The Rear Car," which is to be called "Red Lights," according to word received from her special representative, Tom Read.

Miss Godowsky has attracted considerable attention of late for her screen characterizations. Notable among them have been the feminine lead with Lon Chaney in "The Trap," the role of Spanish senorita in Marshall Neilan's "The Stranger's Banquet," and the vampire lead with her husband, Frank Mayo, in the Universal production, "Altar Stairs."

It is predicted by Clarence Badger, who is to direct the feature, that Miss Godowsky's screen future will be assured after "Red Light," as she has one of the most difficult characterizations ever attempted for the silent drama.

Other members of the Goldwyn cast in "Red Lights" are Marie Prevost, Johnnie Walker and Alice Lake.

TRAFFIC'S NEEDS WILL BE STUDIED

Commission to Consider Especially Plans for New Coliseum Approaches

The matter of caring for traffic congestion incident to the handling of 75,000 persons at the Coliseum now nearing completion, is to be studied by a special committee of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission. It was decided at the meeting the commission held yesterday. Realizing the hazards of accidents and tremendous congestion that would result from an intermingling of pedestrians, autos and street cars at the close of an exhibition, serious consideration is to be given to suggested plans of one-way traffic and routing of autos and street cars in nonconflicting directions.

The merits of several suggested plans for an improved location of street signs throughout the city also is to be considered by the commission. Among plans suggested is a system of overhanging signs to insure visibility. In the downtown district signs would be suspended from trolley-span wires. Consideration also is being given to the plan of painting names of streets on curbings of all four corners in black letters on a white shield.

WOMAN RUN DOWN BY CAR; DRIVER IS HELD

AUTOIST CHARGED WITH TRYING TO ESCAPE AFTER ACCIDENT

Struck last night by an automobile at the intersection of First street and Bunker Hill, Mrs. Ada Dickson, 50 years of age of 127 North Hope street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

Frank Watkins, 131 South Grand avenue, driver of the machine, attempted to escape, but was seized by Charles Gordon and George Fels of 111 North Bunker Hill avenue, police reported.

At Central Station Watkins told Detective Sergeants Green and Carrott that the car was stolen and that he only was walking along the street when the accident occurred. Police insisted, however, that he had been drinking and locked him up.

W. R. LIGHTON DIES

Had Come to Widely Known Author in Hollywood Home

William R. Lighton, widely known author, died yesterday at his home in Hollywood.

Mr. Lighton was perhaps best known through a series of stories centering on "Billy" Fortune, a cowboy character, although he had written a number of other books, among them a history of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

He was born in Lycoming county Pennsylvania, July 13, 1860, and traveled widely throughout the West.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been announced.

HEART DISEASE CAUSE OF SPAULDING DEATH

A post-mortem examination conducted late yesterday by Autopsy Surgeon Wagner on the body of J. C. Spaulding, who died suddenly Monday, disclosed that death had been caused by acute dilation of the heart. Spaulding was found dead in a locked room in a South Main-street paint shop. The police at first believed he had committed suicide by drinking a quantity of paint remover. The autopsy, ordered by relatives of the dead man, proved this theory unfounded.

TRAINING IDEA OPPOSED

BY CONSTANCE DREXEL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Should we have military training in our schools so as to bring up every boy to be a soldier?

The War Department seems to incline to the idea; the National Council for the Prevention of War, which has its headquarters facing against all the member organizations of the council of the War Department's plans.

Through the issuance of a bulletin which has just come off the press, attention is directed to what is termed "disguised universal military training."

SECTIONS QUOTED

Sections of the report on "training the youth of the country," are quoted as proof:

14. Every effort should be made through the active co-operation of all available agencies concerned to convince students that the duties of good citizenship include some degree of exercise in the citizen forces, and they should be encouraged by every means to discharge their obligation by acceptance of commissions or by enlistment in the National Guard, or organized reserves.

15. That educational authorities should be urged to co-operate in bringing about the affiliation of the maximum number of their students and graduates with the citizens' forces.

16. That every means should be employed to give greater and continuing publicity to our present military policy.

The bulletin further calls attention to the plan of "providing for the furnishing to schools and colleges having not less than 100 physically-fit male students above the age of 14 years, of military officers, if available, and arms, tentage and equipment," under the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920.

ART CLUB'S BENEFIT IS SUCCESSFUL

Institution Hopes to Have Gallery of Its Own in the Future

An interesting and successful program was presented by the members of the California Art Club at the Philharmonic Auditorium last evening for the benefit of the building fund.

Other artists who contributed their services were the Orpheus Four in vocal selections, Ellen Beach Yaw, Conrad Nagel reciting, Thagatopsis, accompanied by Dr. Frank Nagel, and Henry Svedrofsky, violinist.

The California Art Club Gallery, the first art movement in Los Angeles, was organized by William Wendt about fourteen years ago and includes nearly all the painters and sculptors in Southern California.

At present its temporary quarters are at 1027 West Seventh street, but soon the club hopes to have its own exhibiting gallery near Exposition Park, where competitive exhibitions may be held at frequent intervals.

Los Angeles Is Smiled on Again by Old King Sol

Clear weather greeted Los Angeles yesterday morning, and remained throughout the day. A number of other Southland cities reported rain in varying quantities.

Escondido recorded .18 of an inch, making .73 for the storm. Huntington Beach was visited by a mere flurry, .06 of an inch. Redlands got .17 of an inch, bringing the storm total to a little more than one inch. San Diego got about the same amount, .14 of an inch, making the storm total .72. Yucaipa reported .17 of an inch also, bringing the storm total to 1.17.

San Francisco reports more than twelve feet of snow at the measuring station at Summit, Placer county. Some roads are blocked, but no real damage has been done. The Tahoe road was reported blocked fourteen miles east of Placerville. The deep snow is cleared a boon to irrigation and hydroelectric interests, as it will carry them over the low-water periods of late summer and early fall.

AGREEMENT ENDS SUIT FOR DAMAGES

After U. S. District Judge Bledsoe and a jury had spent a day hearing the evidence in the action brought by Dr. C. W. Lyon of Pomona against the Pullman Company, for damages for injuries asserted to have been suffered while traveling on a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train in Colorado, Aug. 13, 1921, the trial was stopped yesterday, by an agreement reached out of court.

It was claimed that by the carelessness of a colored porter on the train in allowing an upper berth to drop on Dr. Lyon, that the ulna bone in his head was injured. He sought a judgment for $50,197.50, but it is understood that about $15,000 was accepted in full payment by the plaintiff.

FIERY CROSS STIRS CITIZENS OF GLOBE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Jan. 26.—Globe has had something of a thrill in the spectacle of a blazing cross that endured for a few moments on a hill southwest of the city. Though possibly a hoax, it is regarded as intimation that the Ku Klux wishes to be considered as in evidence. Last fall an attempt was made in the district to organize a Klan branch, but the organizer was called before Sheriff Tol Kinsey and advised to leave. He left and there was stoppage of a flow of letters to citizens inviting them to join the order.

HATS REST SAFELY ON OWN BROWS

Synopsis of preceding chapters: Wednesday, Mayor Cryer attended a luncheon at the Clark Hotel. Arising to leave he discovered that his pet, brown felt hat had been taken. Only one hat remained on the rack. It was several sizes in the wrong direction but what was a hatless Mayor to do? So he wore it. Now go on with the story—

Volney Craig of San Fernando, who attended the luncheon, had a strange feeling in his head when he reached home. Examination disclosed the presence of a hat he had never seen before. "Quick Volney. The Times!" he exclaimed to himself. A perusal of The Times revealed that the Mayor's hat had staged the disappearing act.

"Solved in the nick of time!" chortled Mr. Craig.

Yesterday, an Express messenger rushed into Mayor Cryer's office. He deposited a large hat-box. There was a touching scene when the Mayor and his hat were reunited. Strong men turned aside.

Mayor Cryer then replaced Mr. Craig's hat, for it was the latter's headgear he had been compelled to wear, and sped the messenger on his return way.

The following communication from Mr. Craig winds up the drama of "Who's Got Who's Hat?"

Sir: I have the Mayor's hat. I never coveted the Mayor's hat, either the shaggy sorrel or the black-beauty type. The Mayor, or some citizen or group of citizens, removed by honest farmer's hat from off my shaggy sorrel coat and placed the Mayor's lid thereon.

Unintentionally, I wore it all the afternoon and I had a rotten time. Most of my appointments turned out unsatisfactorily. I seemed to wander in a world fast going to h——, which, though drowning, refused my helping hand as inconsequential. A dog's afternoon—when I felt that everybody saw me as I saw myself. The morning's Times has cleared the gloom and I am returning the Mayor's hat by Wells Fargo express with instructions to deliver it if and when the Mayor delivers back my honest farmer's hat, which, in my opinion, will not become him this year.

Thanking you for your timely service in clearing up this matter, I am yours very sincerely.

[Signed] VOLNEY H. CRAIG.

STREET PLANS TALKED

Hollywood Chamber Committees Discusses Improvements

John R. Prince, assistant city engineer, was the principal speaker at a meeting last night of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce street planning committee at the Assembly Tea Rooms. Plans for the improvement of various streets in central Hollywood were discussed. Projected assessment districts, widening and paving of streets and the much talked of set-back lines were also up for general discussion.

Representatives of the City Attorney's office were also present at the meeting to advise the chamber officials as to the various ordinances governing the improvement of city streets.

LABOR PEACE IS TOPIC

National Industrial Association Directors to Meet

The directors of the National Industrial Peace Association will give a luncheon on the 30th inst., at the Los Angeles City Club.

Prof. H. J. Stonier of the University of Southern California will preside and will make an address on "The Necessity of Nonpartisan Industrial Education." Prof. R. D. Hunt, political economist, will speak on industrial economics.

Other features of the luncheon include the association's plans for the amicable adjustment of all local labor disputes, with a resume of strikes and lockouts settled and prevented.

MEXICO AGAIN ON HIGH ROAD

Last Year One of Worst in History of Nation

Federal Bank Proposed and Finances Strengthened

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Mexico seems to have digested the results of the recent bank failures and once again is on the road to prosperity, according to William F. Saunders, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico City. Salesmen report increased business and merchants here are replenishing their stocks of American goods, especially those which have found a ready market with the public.

Although 1923 was one of the worst years Mexico ever passed through, prospects look better for this year in spite of the many unsatisfactory things still in the agricultural situation. The corn and wheat crops are better than they were last year, henequen is in better shape the coffee will go up to 10,000,000 pounds more than it was in 1923, and the sugar situation is steadily improving. There have been no commercial failures of consequence lately, nor is there any danger of bank troubles.

The announcement that the Mexican government is planning to open the Federal bank with a capital of 25,000,000 pesos is helping the situation. Fifty-one per cent of this stock will be held by the government and the rest by other stockholders. It will be the only bank of issue in Mexico.

Confidence in the finances of the government is strengthened by the statement of Secretary of the Treasury De La Huerta and the corroboration of the Banco Nacional that on the first payment on the Lamont-De La Huerta plan of amortizing the Mexican debt, there is now in New York 12,500,000 pesos, and 5,000,000 more in the bank here.

TRAIL OF BAD PAPER IS UNDOING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 26.—Fate again has placed in jail J. C. Thompson, said to be wanted in California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona towns for check passing. A drummer, who had assisted Thompson in New Mexico and who was coming into Phoenix on a suburban stage, saw his man on the street and promptly advised the police by phone that Thompson was in town.

About a year ago, Thompson was arrested in Southern California, but was given over on extradition from Texas, for an asserted offense in Dalhart. On the way through Arizona he escaped from the train and was apprehended in Phoenix. He was taken to Dalhart where, it is told, he "jumped" a bail bond of $500.

Then he came to Phoenix, where he identified himself by a couple of bad checks, for which, after trial, he was given a two-year penitentiary sentence. This sentence was appealed to the Supreme Court and Thompson was released on bond. Thereafter a felony warrant was issued against him for valueless checks held by Casa Grande merchants. So now there will have to be selection of the case on which he shall be held and tried.

GRATEFUL FOR SMALL FAVORS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, Jan. 26.—A little hint to district attorneys in general is contained in the experience here yesterday of Earnest R. Uhley, District Attorney for this county in company with A. B. Robbins, an assistant. Uhley was returning from Heber, where he had been to collect $800 in fines from fourteen poker players who had been arrested the evening before.

A car whizzed by them on the highway. Uhley increased his speed to fifty miles an hour and still was forced to eat dust. Arriving in El Centro, the District Attorney arrested the secretary of the Chinese mission in Calexico and Mexicali, and a companion. They pleaded guilty and were fined $15.

A few minutes after the fine was paid the secretary arrived at the District Attorney's office and with oriental grace presented Uhley with a box of fine cigars. Today Uhley pleadingly wanted to know if he might be considered a first-class blackmailer. After sampling the cigars Superior Court judges and newspaper men pronounced him such.

SHOTGUN FIRE ROUTS ROBBERS

TULARE, Jan. 26.—A second attempt to rob the hen houses of Harry B. Atkinson, north of Tulare, failed when Mr. Atkinson routed the thieves with a shotgun. The men fled and Atkinson saw them picked up by a large touring car. City officials were notified. A recent visit to the Atkinson houses cost him over 300 pure-bred Buff Orpingtons.

Poultry breeders in Tulare and Kings counties are said to have lost about 3000 birds this season, with indications pointing to an organized gang of thieves. The robbers are reported to operate with spray machines loaded with chloroform. Quiet in the yards is said to indicate that danger is near, even the dogs being put out of business. Organized protection is urged by poultry associations.

CEPHUS HENRY GETS "FLOATER"

Trick Ear Wins Him Freedom From Cell

Only Plea Is "Callouses From Hard Work"

One Gallows Only Visible Means of Support

Cephus is a highly polished member of the Ethiopian clan. With no visible means of support other than one tattered gallows that held up his overlarge trousers, he had staked out a homestead in the river bottom. And had it not been for his trick ear, his mail for the next ninety days would have been sent to the Lincoln Heights stockade.

"Cephus Henry," called Judge Richardson.

"You're charged with being an idle and dissolute person. How do you plead—guilty—"

"Yessuh, Judge. Ah'm a hahdworkin' man an' ah jes come down fum Frisco and ah stop at Big Crik fo' a job and they use to me—"

"He's deaf," said a police sergeant. "He didn't hear what you said, your honor."

"Yessuh, an' ah kin get a job at ah jes' gits outen dis jail house 'cause ah'm a hard-workin' man an'—"

"How do you plead?" shouted the judge. "Guilty or not guilty?"

"THAT'S MR. JEDGE"

"Yessuh, that's me, Jedge — as ah comes down hash 'cause that ol' strike in Frisco kinda made it onhealthy fo' me, so—"

Cephus's trick ear was working fine. He couldn't hear a word.

"GUILTY OR NOT GUILTY," shrieked the judge, gasping for air.

"Yessuh — ah kin prove ah works, suh. Jes' squint at them air callouses an' ef ah only gits a chance ah'll go to work—"

"Bring him up here!" the judge told the officers. "Bring those ears up closer!"

"Yessuh—callouses fum hahd work, suh—"

"Those weren't made by work," said the judge. "You got those on the brake rods."

"Yessuh, Jedge—ah got them air callouses—"

"For God's sake—tell him what he's charged with," the judge told Deputy City Prosecutor Lucas.

Mr. Lucas inhaled a deep breath, raised on his toes, and shouted in Cephus ear—

"You're charged with being a vagrant!"

"A vagrant!" Mr. Lucas screamed.

HAR IS "UNTRICKED"

Cephus's trick ear, though previously deaf, heard the invitation which was only a whisper. Cephus smiled and stuck out his hands.

"Now, thah's two mah corns, jedge, on mah hand fum—"

"Those aren't corns, Cephus."

"Day isn't? Mah goodness, ah thought dey was."

The judge was speaking in a normal tone. Remarkably, Cephus was hearing distinctly.

"Now, Cephus, how do you plead—guilty or not guilty?"

"Mah goodness—ah don't know what to plead to, jedge—but ah'm a workin' man an' ah cum down fum Frisco an'—"

"Ninety days, suspended!" the judge interrupted. "Now get out of town on the next train!"

More Than 300 Enjoy Pageant; Progress of Organization is Told

The annual dinner of the Los Angeles Young Women's Christian Association was held last evening in the auditorium of the Young Men's Christian Association. More than 300 attended.

After the dinner a pageant was given, representing the work of the Los Angeles Y.W.C.A. in China. This was carried out by the world's fellowship groups directed by Miss Margaret Matthew.

The first episode portrayed Chinese girls at a camp meeting. The second showed the student conference at Peking, where friendships between thirty-one nations were formed through delegates. The third described the work being done by the Y.W.C.A. for industrial women of China. The fourth showed health work being done in China by Dr. Louise Morrow.

Following the pageant Miss Charlotte Davis, general secretary, spoke on "The Blue Triangle in Los Angeles." She pointed out that 940 girls between the ages of 12 and 18 were enrolled. The number of women and girls attending the gymnasium classes is 2011. The attendance in clubs and classes at the international institute numbered 9546.

H. F. Henderson spoke, extending a welcome to the Young Men's Christian Association.

A whistling solo was given by Miss Mildred Hartshorne, and songs were led by Miss Grace Degring. Plans were formulated for the expansion of work in Los Angeles.

Additional board members were elected as follows: Mrs. George H. Clark, Mrs. S. N. Cooper, Mrs. Bertran C. Hayes, Miss Lulu Ellis and Mrs. John H. Moore.

BUILDERS DUE TOMORROW

Arrangements have been completed for the reception and entertainment of the 500 delegates to the fourth annual convention of the Associated General Contractors of America, who will spend the next week in Los Angeles as guests of the local chapter for the purpose of discussing problems confronting the construction industry, the second largest in the United States, and for the purpose of preparing a program for the year.

Many of the officials of the association have already arrived in Los Angeles and are working with the local chapter in the preparations for the reception of the main body of delegates, who will arrive Monday morning, 500 strong, according to present estimates. A special train en route from Chicago will arrive at Riverside tomorrow afternoon, where it will be met by members of the Los Angeles chapter, headed by President Arthur Bent, who will welcome the delegates to California.

MANAGER DUE TODAY

Gen. Roy C. Marshall, general manager of the association, with headquarters in Washington, D. C., is expected to arrive in Los Angeles today in advance of the main delegation. Gen. Marshall accompanied the delegation on the special train as far as Riverside, but immediately proceeded to Los Angeles.

Other members of the official staff who have already arrived are G. W. Buchholz, general secretary; Howard R. Gill, publication manager, and E. J. Harding, membership manager.

William G. McAdoo, former Director-General of Railroads and at one time prominent in construction activities in the East, will be among the principal speakers. On Monday morning, following the invocation by Dean MacCormack, Mayor Cryer will open the convention with an address of welcome. Arthur Bent, retiring president of the organization, will deliver his annual report. The last day of the convention, at the banquet to be held Friday evening at the Los Angeles Country Club, Frederick Warde, actor, will give a talk on "My Recollections."

Most of the sessions will be held in Berean Hall, on the second floor of the Auditorium Building. Convention headquarters have already been established at the Clark, where early arrivals are being provided for by the reception committee, composed of members of the Los Angeles chapter.

FUN ON PROGRAM

While the greater part of the program is devoted to business and to discussion of matters of interest to the construction, a number of entertainment features have been included. Monday evening chapter presidents, members of the executive and advisory boards and members of the executive staff will be entertained at dinner at the University Club. Arthur Bent will preside.

A smoker "Bohemian Night" will be given Tuesday evening to the delegates at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Wednesday afternoon an automobile trip to Long Beach and the harbor will be taken. Dinner will be served that evening at the Los Angeles Yacht Club and the evening will be devoted to a tour of inspection of the Famous Players-Lasky studio. Thursday and Friday will be given over to business affairs, but on Friday evening the banquet, which will bring the convention to a close, will be held at the Los Angeles Country Club. At this time Mr. Bent will turn over his duties as chief executive to John W. Cowper of Buffalo, N. Y., president-elect.

On the return trip the delegates will visit Yosemite Valley and San Francisco, where they will be entertained by the Northern California chapter of the organization.

NO DIVORCE TO SHERWIN, WIFE SAYS

Playwright's Family Found Living in Old Mill; Minter Romance Known There

Mrs. Louis Sherwin, wife of the dramatic critic and playwright who announced earlier this week that he hoped to get a divorce from his wife in order to marry Mary Miles Minter, former Lasky screen star, was located yesterday living in Oyster Bay, N. Y., and declares she will not consent to her husband's plan to gain his legal freedom.

Mrs. Sherwin and her three children live in a single room over an old dilapidated mill, which has been a landmark of Oyster Bay for more than two generations.

"I know all about the romance of Mr. Sherwin and Miss Minter," dispatches from the East quote her as saying, "but I see no reason why I should get a divorce. Mr. Sherwin has no grounds for bringing suit against me, and I do not intend to ask the courts for my freedom."

NEGRO BLEACHED BY WILD MAN'S ANTICS

LINCOLN PARK TREATED TO NAKED CLUB WIELDER

Bursting into the Lincoln Heights Police Station last night, a terrified negro whose carbon cheeks were pale with fright, gasped: "Day's a wild man loose in Lincoln Park. He's got a club an' no clothes on, and he done chased me!"

Without stopping to tell his name, the negro hastened to put further distance between him and the wild man. Officers Day, Redican and Quebell started a search of Lincoln Park, which resulted in the capture of a man answering the negro's description.

He was garbed in the costume of Adam and cavorted through the park emitting weird yells, and brandishing a club. Overcoming his resistance, the officers draped him with a lap robe, and took him to the psychopathic ward of the County Hospital.

STEPS UP ON LADDER OF FAME

Dagmar Godowsky, talented daughter of the world-famed pianist, Leopold Godowsky, yesterday signed with the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation to interpret the role of "Rosie" in the screen version of the famous stage success, "The Rear Car," which is to be called "Red Lights," according to word received from her special representative, Tom Reed.

Miss Godowsky has attracted considerable attention of late for her screen characterizations. Notable among them have been the feminine lead with Lon Chaney in "The Trap," the role of Spanish senorita in Marshall Neilan's "The Strangers' Banquet," and the vampire lead with her husband, Frank Mayo, in the Universal production, "Altar Stairs."

It is predicted by Clarence Badger, who is to direct the feature, that Miss Godowsky's screen future will be assured after "Red Light," as she has one of the most difficult characterizations ever attempted for the silent drama.

Other members of the Goldwyn cast in "Red Lights" are Marie Prevost, Johnnie Walker and Alice Lake.

TRAFFIC'S NEEDS WILL BE STUDIED

Commission to Consider Especially Plans for New Coliseum Approaches

The matter of caring for traffic congestion incident to the handling of 75,000 persons at the Coliseum now nearing completion, is to be studied by a special committee of the Los Angeles Traffic Commission, it was decided at the meeting the commission held yesterday. Realizing the hazards of accidents and tremendous congestion that would result from an intermingling of pedestrians, autos and street cars at the close of an exhibition, serious consideration is to be given to suggested plans of one-way traffic and routing of autos and street cars in nonconflicting directions.

The merits of several suggested plans for an improved location of street signs throughout the city also is to be considered by the commission. Among plans suggested is a system of overhanging signs to insure visibility. In the downtown district signs would be suspended from trolley-span wires. Consideration also is being given to the plan of painting names of streets on curbings of all four corners in black letters on a white shield.

WOMAN RUN DOWN BY CAR; DRIVER IS HELD

AUTOIST CHARGED WITH TRYING TO ESCAPE AFTER ACCIDENT

Struck last night by an automobile at the intersection of First street and Bunker Hill, Mrs. Ada Dickson, 36 years of age of 137 North Hope street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

Frank Watkins, 131 South Grand avenue, driver of the machine, attempted to escape, but was seized by Charles Gordon and George Fels of 111 North Bunker Hill avenue, police reported.

At Central Station Watkins told Detective Sergeants Green and Carrott that the car was stolen and that he only was walking along the street when the accident occurred. Police insisted, however, that he had been drinking and locked him up.

W. R. LIGHTON DIES

End Comes to Widely Known Author in Hollywood Home

William R. Lighton, widely known author, died yesterday at his home in Hollywood.

Mr. Lighton was perhaps best known through a series of stories centering on "Billy Fortune," a cowboy character, although he had written a number of other books, among them a history of the Lewis and Clark expedition.

He was born in Lycoming county Pennsylvania, July 13, 1866, and traveled widely throughout the West.

Arrangements for the funeral have not been announced.

HEART DISEASE CAUSE OF SPAULDING DEATH

"A post-mortem examination conducted late yesterday by Autopsy Surgeon Wagner on the body of J. C. Spaulding, who died suddenly Monday, disclosed that death had been caused by acute dilation of the heart. Spaulding was found dead in a locked room in a South Main-street paint shop. The police at first believed he had committed suicide by drinking a quantity of paint remover. The autopsy, ordered by relatives of the dead man, proved this theory unfounded.

TRAINING IDEA OPPOSED

BY CONSTANCE DREXEL
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Should we have military training in our schools so as to bring up every boy to be a soldier?

The War Department seems to incline to the idea; the National Council for the Prevention of War, which has its headquarters facing the War Department, says no.

Through its civilian adviser, Dr. C. R. Mann, and as a result of a conference of educators and others held in November, to which no women were invited, the War Department has worked out an elaborate plan of "training the youth of the country." Reports of various phases of the conference—three in all—now are ready for distribution. Some of the high lights are:

A badge is to be offered to those school children who conform to the War Department idea, and the public schools will be encouraged to teach the standard of physical fitness, military training and attitude toward citizenship which are the essentials of this ideal.

COUNCIL ON TRAINING

A Federal council of citizenship training is to be organized by the War Department for the purpose of bringing together all of the Federal educational agencies and using them to teach the War Department standards.

The Citizens' Training Camps, which are provided for in the National Defense Act of 1920, are to be greatly enlarged, with the ultimate object of training 100,000 young men every summer, in accordance with War Department standards.

"The War Department plans to capture our schools and colleges," warns the National Council for the Prevention of War.

At a recent meeting of the executive board it was voted to oppose all the member organizations of the council of the War Department's plans.

Through the issuance of a bulletin which has just come off the press, attention is directed to what is termed "disguised universal military training."

SECTIONS QUOTED

Sections of the report on "training the youth of the country," are quoted as proof:

14. Every effort should be made through the active co-operation of all available agencies concerned to convince students that the duties of good citizenship include some degree of exercise in the citizen forces, and they should be encouraged by every means to discharge their obligation by acceptance of commissions or by enlistment in the National Guard, or organized reserves.

15. That educational authorities should be urged to co-operate in bringing about the affiliation of the maximum number of their students and graduates with the citizens' forces.

20. That every means should be employed to give greater and continuing publicity to our present military policy.

The bulletin further calls attention to the plan of "providing for the furnishing to schools and colleges having not less than 100 physically-fit male students above the age of 14 years, of military officers, if available, and arms, tentage and equipment," under the provisions of the National Defense Act of 1920.

ART CLUB'S BENEFIT IS SUCCESSFUL

Institution Hopes to Have Gallery of Its Own in the Future

An interesting and successful program was presented by the members of the California Art Club at the Philharmonic Auditorium last evening for the benefit of the building fund.

Other artists who contributed their services were the Orpheus Four in vocal selections, Ellen Beach Yaw, Conrad Nagel reciting Thanatopsis, accompanied by Dr. Frank Nagel, and Henry Svedrofsky, violinist.

The California Art Club Gallery, the first art movement in Los Angeles, was organized by William Wentz about fourteen years ago and includes nearly all the painters and sculptors in Southern California.

At present its temporary quarters are at 1027 West Seventh street, but soon the club hopes to have its own exhibiting gallery near Exposition Park, where competitive exhibitions may be held at frequent intervals.

Los Angeles Is Smiled on Again by Old King Sol

Clear weather greeted Los Angeles yesterday morning, and remained throughout the day. A number of other Southland cities reported rain in varying quantities.

Escondido recorded .18 of an inch, making .73 for the storm. Huntington Beach was visited by a mere flurry, .06 of an inch. Redlands got .17 of an inch, bringing the storm total to a little more than one inch. San Diego got about the same amount, .14 of an inch, making the storm total .72. Yucaipa reported .17 of an inch also, bringing the storm total to 1.17.

San Francisco reports more than twelve feet of snow at the measuring station at Summit, Placer county. Some roads are blocked, but no real damage has been done. The Tahoe road was reported blocked fourteen miles east of Placerville. The deep snow is cleared a boon to irrigation and hydroelectric interests, as it will carry them over the low-water periods of late summer and early fall.

AGREEMENT ENDS SUIT FOR DAMAGES

After U. S. District Judge Bledsoe and a jury had spent a day hearing the evidence in the action brought by Dr. C. W. Lyon of Pomona against the Pullman Company, for damages for injuries asserted to have been suffered while traveling on a Chicago, Burlington and Quincy train in Colorado, Aug. 12, 1921, the trial was stopped yesterday, by an agreement reached out of court.

It was claimed that by the carelessness of a colored porter on the train in allowing an upper berth to drop on Dr. Lynn, that the atlas bone in his head was injured. He sought a judgment for $56,107.40, but it is understood that about $2500 was accepted in full payment by the plaintiff.

FIERY CROSS STIRS CITIZENS OF GLOBE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Jan. 26.—Globe has had something of a thrill in the spectacle of a blazing cross that endured for a few moments on a hill southwest of the city. Though possibly a hoax, it is regarded as intimation that the Ku Klux wishes to be considered as in evidence. Last fall an attempt was made in the district to organize a Klan branch, but the organizer was called before Sheriff Tol Kinsey and advised to leave. He left and there was stoppage of a flow of letters to citizens inviting them to join the order.

HATS REST SAFELY ON OWN BROWS

Synopsis of preceding chapter: Wednesday, Mayor Cryer attended a luncheon at the Clark Hotel. Arising to leave he discovered that his pet, brown felt hat had been taken. Only one hat remained on the rack. It was several sizes in the wrong direction but what was a hatless Mayor to do? So he wore it. Now go on with the story—

Volney Craig of San Fernando, who attended the luncheon, had a strange feeling in his head when he reached home. Examination disclosed the presence of a hat he had never seen before. "Quick Volney. The Times!" he exclaimed to himself. A perusal of The Times revealed that the Mayor's hat had stayed the disappearing act.

"Solved in the nick of time!" chortled Mr. Craig.

Yesterday, an express messenger rushed into Mayor Cryer office. He deposited a large hat-box. There was a touching scene when the Mayor and his hat were reunited. Strong men turned aside.

Mayor Cryer then replaced Mr. Craig's hat, for it was the latter's headgear he had been compelled to wear, and sped the messenger on his return way.

Sir: I have the Mayor's hat. I never coveted the Mayor's hat, either the shaggy sorrel or the black-beauty type. The Mayor, or some citizen or group of citizens, removed by honest farmer's hat from off my shaggy sorrel coat and placed the Mayor's lid thereon.

Unintentionally, I wore it all the afternoon and I had a rotten time. Most of my appointments turned out unsatisfactorily. I seemed to wander in a world fast going to h——, which, though drowning, refused my helping hand as inconsequential. A dog's afternoon—when I felt that everybody saw me as I saw myself. The morning's Times has cleared the gloom and I am returning the Mayor's hat by Wells Fargo express with instructions to deliver it if and when the Mayor delivers back my honest farmer's hat, which, in my opinion, will not become him this year.

Thanking you for your timely service in clearing up this matter, I am yours very sincerely,

[Signed] VOLNEY H. CRAIG.

Hollywood Chamber Committee Discusses Improvements

John R. Prince, assistant city engineer, was the principal speaker at a meeting last night of the Hollywood Chamber of Commerce street planning committee at the Assembly Tea Rooms. Plans for the improvement of various streets in central Hollywood were discussed. Projected assessment districts, widening and paving of streets and the much talked of set-back lines, were also up for general discussion.

Representatives of the City Attorney's office were also present at the meeting to advise the chamber officials as to the various ordinances governing the improvement of city streets.

MEXICO AGAIN ON HIGH ROAD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—Mexico seems to have digested the results of the recent bank failures and once again is on the road to prosperity, according to William F. Saunders, secretary of the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico City. Salesmen report increased business and merchants here are replenishing their stocks of American goods, especially those which have found a ready market with the public.

Although 1923 was one of the worst years Mexico ever passed through, prospects look better for this year in spite of the many unsatisfactory things still in the agricultural situation. The corn and wheat crops are better than they were last year, henequen is in better shape the coffee will go up to 10,000,000 pounds more than it was in 1922, and the sugar situation is steadily improving. There have been no commercial failures of consequence lately, nor is there any danger of bank troubles.

The announcement that the Mexican government is planning to open the Federal bank with a capital of 25,000,000 pesos is helping the situation. Fifty-one per cent of this stock will be held by the government and the rest by other stockholders. It will be the only bank of issue in Mexico.

Confidence in the finances of the government is strengthened by the statement of Secretary of the Treasury De La Huerta and the corroboration of the Banco Nacional that on the first payment on the Lamont-De La Huerta plan of amortizing the Mexican debt, there is now in New York 12,500,000 pesos, and 5,000,000 more in the bank here.

TRAIL OF BAD PAPER IS UNDOING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Jan. 26.—Fate again has placed in jail J. C. Thompson, said to be wanted in California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona towns for check passing. A drummer, who had assisted Thompson in New Mexico and who was coming into Phoenix on a suburban stage, saw his man on the street and promptly advised the police by phone that Thompson was in town.

About a year ago, Thompson was arrested in Southern California, but was given over on extradition from Texas, for an asserted offense in Dalhart. On the way through Arizona he escaped from the train and was apprehended in Phoenix. He was taken to Dalhart where, it is told, he "jumped" a bail bond of $500.

Then he came to Phoenix, where he identified himself by a couple of bad checks, for which, after trial, he was given a two-year penitentiary sentence. This sentence was appealed to the Supreme Court and Thompson was released on bond. Thereafter a felony warrant was issued against him for valueless checks held by Casa Grande merchants. So now there will have to be selection of the case on which he shall be held and tried.

GRATEFUL FOR SMALL FAVORS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

EL CENTRO, Jan. 26.—A little hint to district attorneys in general is contained in the experience here yesterday of Earnest R. Utley, District Attorney for this county in company with A. B. Robbins, an assistant. Utley was returning from Heber, where he had been to collect $500 in fines from fourteen poker players who had been arrested the evening before.

A car whizzed by them on the highway. Utley increased his speed to fifty miles an hour and still was forced to eat dust. Arriving in El Centro, the District Attorney arrested the secretary of the Chinese mission in Calexico and Mexicali, and a companion. They pleaded guilty and were fined $15.

A few minutes after the fine was paid the secretary arrived at the District Attorney's office and with oriental grace presented Utley with a box of fine cigars. Today Utley pleadingly wanted to know if he might be considered a first-class blackmailer. After sampling the cigars Superior Court Judges and newspaper men pronounced him swift.

SHOTGUN FIRE ROUTS ROBBERS

TULARE, Jan. 26.—A second attempt to rob the hen houses of Harry B. Atkinson, north of Tulare, failed when Mr. Atkinson routed the thieves with a shotgun. The men fled and Atkinson saw them picked up by a large touring car. City officials were notified. A recent visit to the Atkinson houses cost him over 300 pure-bred Buff Orpingtons.

Poultry breeders in Tulare and Kings counties are said to have lost about 3000 birds this season, with indications pointing to an organized gang of thieves. The robbers are reported to operate with spray machines loaded with chloroform. Quiet in the yards is said to indicate that danger is near, even the dogs being put out of business. Organized protection is urged by poultry associations.

MORENO SIGNS CONTRACT

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Engages Film Star Under Five-Year Contract

Antonio Moreno late yesterday affixed his signature to a contract whereby he will play leading roles in Paramount Pictures for the next five years.

The announcement of this event, setting at rest numerous rumors which have been circulated, was made by Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, holders of the new contract, at Paramount's West Coast Studio, where Moreno has been engaged for several months.

"In signing Antonio Moreno we have acquired the services of one of the foremost figures of the screen," said Mr. Lasky in making his announcement. "I have followed his work for several years, and I am convinced that he has a brilliant future. We have wanted him as a permanent addition to Paramount Pictures for some time, but negotiations were only concluded today.

"In proof of the high regard in which we hold Mr. Moreno and his work we are planning to entrust to him many of the biggest roles in our forthcoming special pictures. The first picture to be made under the new contract will co-star Mr. Moreno with Bebe Daniels in 'The Exciters,' which Richard Ordinski will direct in New York in the near future. The story is from the famous stage success of the same name by Martin Brown. Edmund Goulding has prepared the adaptation.

"Antonio Moreno recently completed two leading roles for this organization—with Gloria Swanson in 'My American Wife' and with Mary Miles Minter in 'The Trail of the Lonesome Pine.' The first of these was awarded the honor of opening Grauman's new Metropolitan Theater in Los Angeles. Mr. Moreno's work in this picture was one of the contributing reasons to the picture's success. His work in both of these screen plays was of such high caliber that this organization redoubled its efforts to secure his exclusive services for the next five years."

COPS USE REAL STRATEGY

One Joins Waiters' Union to Mop Up Damp Spot in Town; Others Play Plumbers to Get Evidence

Open season on bootleggers being afforded by the Wright Act, the police metropolitan squad is displaying rare finesse, not unmingled with strategy, in trapping the elusive agent of Bacchus & Barleycorn, Inc.

Rumors that the Waiters Union, 432 South Main street, had a wet spot on the menu, was the basis for Officer Partin joining Local No. 17. He asked W. C. Booth where a new-fledged member could quench his thirst, and asserts that Booth offered to sell him a pint of liquor.

"The new member wants to treat," Booth announced, according to Partin, whereupon those in the room flocked round and drank up the entire contents.

GOT SECOND PINT

This necessitated the purchase of another pint for evidence. Booth is said to have sent J. P. Reynolds out on the mission. Partin said he paid Booth and that Booth paid Reynolds. Officers Stay, Hill and Partin then arrested Booth and Reynolds on charges of violating the Wright Act.

A knack for emergency plumbing often comes in handy in a booze raid, as shown by the following verbatim report of Officers Johnson and Hoy:

"We have had complaints of the Miller Apartments, 1116 South Flower street. Last night we went to this place and found the janitor, W. C. Howard, selling a drink of liquor to a customer. He was in the basement. We arrested this man and took him up to the landlady's room to let her know he was going to jail.

"DITCH THAT STUFF"

"When she answered the knock at the door and saw who we were, she yelled 'Cops—ditch that stuff,' and a girl in the room threw a pitcher of liquor in the sink. We got a wrench, took the pipes apart and got about a cup of liquor out of the 'U.' We placed Mrs. Lillian Brown in jail under the Wright Act."

Officer Johnson nearly spoiled the evidence in one instance while standing on a chair to peer over the transom into a room at 206 San Pedro street. The chair gave way under the 200 pound of law enforcement with a terrific crash. Five pints of liquor was found, however, and Hoy and Johnson arrested H. Wright, a negro, under the Wright Act, and L. DeVos on a vagrancy charge.

WRECK OF LOST GLANDS

George Zoghibe Surrenders at Pasadena and Says He Passed Bad Checks and Robbed Store

A bit of human flotsam, the wreckage of a gland operation, was washed up on the shore of the Pasadena Police Station yesterday when George Zoghibe surrendered to the authorities and confessed he had passed scores of forged checks in various Southern California towns and had held up a small store in Sacramento last year. Zoghibe declared he had found his soul through the study of the Bible while at the Midnight Mission here and wished to make reparation.

December 2, last, Zoghibe appeared in the Police Court of Justice Lile T. Jacks in San Francisco, where he was charged with being a vagrant. The complaint was dismissed after Zoghibe told a story of having sold vital tissues to a Seattle millionaire, in Del Mar, March 4, last. He repeated the story yesterday at Pasadena and an examination by police officers revealed the scars left by the operation.

Dispatches from Del Mar, confirming Zoghibe's statement, said J. F. Duthie, millionaire shipbuilder of Seattle, had purchased the youth's glands for $1000, and that they had been grafted on the 21-year-old son of the rich man, Wallace F. Duthie, in a last desperate attempt to forestall the ravages of tuberculosis. The operation was unsuccessful. Young Duthie died the following week.

The operation was said to have been performed by Dr. J. L. Cousineau, of the Virginia Hotel, Long Beach, the scene being the Stratford Inn at Del Mar.

Zoghibe declares that his health has failed since his glands were removed, that he has lost weight, that his eyesight has dimmed and that he forged checks to gain the money to retrieve his bodily well-being.

Students Open Campaign for University Fund

Organization of the University of Southern California student body in the campaign to raise $10,000,000 for endowments and development work was practically completed Thursday evening at a meeting of more than 100 student leaders. Practically every class, student activity and campus organization was represented at the rally.

Harry Silke, student chairman, presided at the meeting. He declared that "this campaign is the biggest thing this student body has ever undertaken," and pointed out that even though the students now at the university will not profit directly, they will have the satisfaction of knowing they have materially aided their alma mater.

President Rufus B. von Kleinsmid also spoke, urging a 100 per cent response from the campus because the moral effect of such support will go far toward insuring the success of the campaign in the city-wide drive. Even though student subscriptions be of small sums, he said, a general response will carry great weight with the business men of the community. Short addresses were also made by members of the student speakers' bureau.

Student officers of the campaign are Harry Silke, chairman; Miss Evelyn Griffin, vice-chairman; Miss Helen Tobie, secretary; Guy Claire, treasurer; Miss Muriel Arkley, features; Dudley Hayes, speakers; Lowell Jessen, publicity, and W. A. Engalls, L. E. Thomas, Howard Pease and Harry Hardin, representatives of the colleges.

Women Injured at Long Beach as Cars Crash

Miss Sadie Van Aken, 35 years of age, Tenth and Pacific streets, Long Beach, may die as the result of injuries received yesterday afternoon in an automobile collision at Wilmington. Hurled from the machine when it turned over, Miss Van Aken received a fractured skull, broken right arm, and internal injuries.

Mrs. Mary Green, 47 years of age, 125 Anaheim street, Long Beach, who was with Miss Van Aken, was also injured in the crash.

The collision was at the intersection of Fries avenue and B street, Wilmington, when Miss Van Aken's machine collided with a car driven by Thomas Wood, 1052 Pine avenue, Long Beach. Both cars were wrecked.

LONG PROBATION FOR BIGAMIST WARD

Jasper W. Ward, self-confessed bigamist, was placed on probation by Judge Shenk in Superior Court yesterday for a period of five years. Judge Shenk warned Ward to watch his step and stipulated that he must start a bank account for the four-months-old baby of which he is the father.

Ward recently pleaded guilty to marrying Mary Ina Mercer of 1014 Dakota street while the husband of Mary McClarey Ward of St. Louis. His defense was that his wife in St. Louis had informed him she had obtained a divorce and acting on the supposition that she was a free man he married again.

EXTRAS TO HAVE OWN COMPANY

Much-Maligned Bureaus Will Lose Out as Players Start Casting Offices

Following the account in yesterday's Times regarding the investigation of certain asserted abuses in the employment of extras at the motion-picture studios, comes the announcement of the formation of the Extra Motion-Picture Players' Association, which has applied to the Secretary of State for a charter.

Headquarters for the new organization will be at 921 West Sixth street, where a five-year lease has been obtained on an entire floor, including executive and casting offices, dressing and waiting rooms and dressing rooms.

Formation of the organization has been under way for some time, and it is stated that numerous independent producers have promised their co-operation in the employment of association members. No commissions are to be charged members by the association for obtaining employment. The organization will be maintained by the payment of dues.

Only the better class of extra players, those who are able to furnish a reasonably complete wardrobe, will be asked to become active members. The floating type, of which there are thousands who appear in big mob scenes, will be eliminated as far as possible. However, the association has arranged for a large vacant lot where, as a free service to producers, its casting director will assemble such crowds without charge to producer or player. As a means of remaining in touch with this class of extras it is planned to contract for permanent and specific newspaper space where either the number and description of types wanted will be given daily, or simply the words "nothing doing tomorrow." Copies of the page carrying these announcements will be posted each evening on bulletin boards placed in those parts of the city where they are easily accessible to extras.

This plan is sponsored by Wycliffe A. Hill, one of the organizers of the association, who has been an independent producer.

JUDGE ASKS YOUNG PAIR TO MAKE UP

Ex-Sailor's Wife Says He Flirted; Spies Him, and He's Called to Stand

"Are you a flirt?" inquired Judge Summerfield yesterday in Superior Court of Samuel Edward Brown, an ex-sailor.

"No, I'm a law student," Brown replied.

Brown was being sued for divorce by Mrs. Frances Brown, who declared he spent his evenings trying to pick up girls with his automobile, of a type commonly known as a "chicken coop." Once he told her he was going to lodge and went to a park flirting instead, she asserted.

Mrs. Brown produced a picture of a young woman whom she described as Maud Barnett, and a letter. Brown was asked about these when he came to the stand.

"She's one of them," he said with a wave of the hand, "but if she said I didn't tell her I was married she's not telling the truth."

Brown did not contest the suit, but came to court apparently to enjoy it. Mrs. Brown espied him while she was testifying, and pointed him out to Judge Summerfield.

"There he is now," she said. "He thinks it's a great joke and he's grinning about it."

Judge Summerfield called Brown to the stand, where the ex-sailor declared he spent most of his evenings in study, but admitted he had done some flirting.

The court postponed decision for three months, urging the couple to try to get together.

TO DECIDE FUTURE OF UNIVERSITY

Regents of Institution to be Guests of Alumni at February 13 Banquet

That the future of the University of California, Southern Branch, located in Hollywood, would be definitely decided by the Regents of the State Institution at a banquet of the California Alumni Association at the Ambassador on the evening of February 13, was the announcement made yesterday by Clinton Miller, president of the association.

Mr. Miller, by virtue of his office, is a member of the State Board and he has pointed out, in support of his assertion, the significant fact that this year's banquet is to be held in Los Angeles.

The monthly meeting of the Alumni Association will be February 13 in conjunction with the regular Spring meeting of the Board of Regents. Guests who have been invited to attend the banquet include Dr. David P. Barrows, retiring President of the University, Director Ernest O. Moore, Dr. W. W. Campbell, president-elect, and C. S. Stearns, prominent Los Angeles banker, who will act as toastmaster.

Regents of the University who are to attend the meeting and banquet are: Alden Anderson, Mrs. Mary Sartori, George L. Cochran, M. A. Dickson, Garrett W. McEnerney, Guy Chaffee Earl, Charles F. Wheeler, John A. Britton, William H. Crocker, James K. Moffitt, James Mills, Chester H. Rowell, Mortimer Fleishacker and Dr. John R. Haynes. The Regents will be the guests of the Alumni Association at the banquet.

Charter Election Worrying Staid Citizens

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

WHITTIER, Jan. 26.—Whittier is in the throes of the campaign for a charter election to be held Tuesday the 30th inst. Both factions, those for and those opposed to the new charter and othe management form of city government are claiming the election before it is held.

So intense has become the feeling that speakers are heard at the City Hall, churches, the Woman's Club and other places where people congregate, whenever an audience can be induced to listen. Resolutions for or against the proposed charter are passed on the slightest provocation.

Fifteen representative men and women were chosen as freeholders to draft the charter, which was completed some weeks ago. Some ten years ago, a city charter was proposed and voted down and those opposed to the charter are prophesying a like fate for the present proposal, while those in favor are declaring that the city has outgrown its present city government.

Hotel Manager Held on Liquor Charge, Freed

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

VENICE, Jan. 26.—E. W. Clarke, manager of the Antler Hotel, charged with having liquor in his possession, was released and the case dismissed, when a verdict was returned late last night after a trial lasting several hours.

Frank West, owner of a soft-drink parlor on Ocean Front walk, who was charged with selling liquor, was to have stood jury trial yesterday, but at the last moment entered a plea of guilty and was fined $50.

Both cases were heard before City Judge Rennie at his court chambers in the Venice City Hall.

PLANS FOR SCHOOL MAY BE MODIFIED

LOWEST BIDS FOUND ABOVE BOND ISSUE VOTED LAST SUMMER.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

ALHAMBRA, Jan. 26.—At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last night bids were opened for the construction of the new high-school building. No action was taken by the board, however, as the lowest combination of proposals was in excess of the bond issue for $350,000, which was voted last June. The lowest figures submitted were $371,216.35, which, with the architect's fees, would bring the total cost to over $400,000.

The matter will be taken up again by the board at the next meeting, and a decision will probably be made to revise the present plans and specifications and readvertise for bids.

There were two bids made on the entire construction job, tap on the contract for concrete, masonry, carpentry, iron and steel and thirty-nine on other work.

TRAFFIC POLICE AND JUSTICES DECLARE BOOTLEGGER AND SPEEDER WAR

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Jan. 26.—Motorcycle officers of the county and Justices of the Peace from the various courts in the county met here yesterday and declared war together on speeders and bootleggers. Dist.-Atty. Henderson was also present and offered to defend free of charge an officer overstepping the letter of the law in upholding the laws. Jail sentences are to be the rule rather than the exception in dealing with law-breakers. A set of uniform rules were drawn up covering fines for speeders. These range from $10 to $50 and five days in jail.

Residents' Dispute Ends By Official Choice of Peace Title

[By a Times Staff Correspondent.]

LONG BEACH, Jan. 26.—The discord between residents near an alley leading west from Pasadena avenue, Twentieth and Twenty-fifth streets, has been ended by the City Planning Commission.

The residents simply couldn't agree what the alley should be called. Some wanted one name, some another, others still another, and the squabbles they indulged in sounded often like forensic jazz.

The City Planning Commission threw all of the suggested names into the waste-basket.

Then they called the alley "Harmony Way."

San Diego Bond Issues Total Large Amount

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 26. — Bond issues to be submitted at the primary election March 20, total $1,570,500, according to the City Attorney's office, where the ordinance is being prepared for Council action next Monday.

The city's present bonding margin is $3,000,000. The $16,000,000 worth of improvements in the city last year will increase the assessment, so the $1,570,500 bond to be voted this spring will, comparatively, be wiped out, leaving the city's margin still $3,000,000, with which to begin development of an additional water supply.

The bond proportions to be submitted to the voters are: Pier, $495,500; water-main extensions, $325,000; library enlargement, $250,000; new paving, $100,000; Otay pipe line, $400,000.

Beach Police Turn Skeptics When Evidence Conflicts

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 26.—The Long Beach police are getting so suspicious nowadays they look even gift horses over very carefully before they give them stable room.

Frank Stewart, alias Frank West, went into the police station today and declared he could point out the two men who held up a street car conductor a couple of nights ago. He led officers to a tent on Venetian Square, and indicated two men who did not answer the description given by the robbed conductor, and who proved alibis promptly.

Then they set to work on Stewart, and discovered, they assert, that he is a deserter from the Navy, is out on bail because of an asserted hold-up at Monrovia, and had pawnticketa and clippings about hold-ups in his pocket. A naval officer was in the police station when they returned with the man.

"I'm a deserter and want to surrender to you," they say Stewart said to him.

EIGHT QUEENS TO REIGN

Seven Counties and Part of San Joaquin Valley Will Choose Fairest Daughters for Revue

Seven counties of Southern California and the lower portion of the San Joaquin Valley extending as far north as Fresno will be given an opportunity to select queens, each to reign for a day, to be set apart and advertised as her day, at the first annual American Historical Revue and Motion Picture Exposition, to be given in Exposition Park, Los Angeles, next summer in commemoration of the hundredth anniversary of the enunciation of the Monroe Doctrine.

The seven counties asked to select, from among their fairest daughters, queens to preside at the Revue and Exposition on the days given over to feting each respective county, are San Diego, Imperial, San Bernardino, Riverside, Orange, Ventura and Santa Barbara. The lower portion of the San Joaquin Valley is the eighth district from which a queen is to be chosen to preside at the big celebration on the day given over to that district.

RIVALRY EXPECTED

The keenest competition is anticipated in this contest, for in addition to the honor attached to its winning, a cash prize of $200 will be given the girl elected queen in each of these eight districts. Prizes of $100 and $50 also will be given respectively to those who are second and third in each district. Each queen may give a ball in honor of the geographical district she represents. She also will be eligible for the grand prize of $500, competition for which is open to the winners of all classes, although the girl winning this grand prize will not be given a class prize.

The queen of the premiere, or formal opening of the Revue and Exposition, will be chosen from within the motion-picture industry, since the industry is sponsoring the entire event. Those of the film industry who have subscribed for patron certificates will select the most popular motion-picture star from their numbers.

STUDIOS TO CHOOSE

A great deal of rivalry among the various studios is expected in this contest. While the queen of the premiere will not be eligible for any of the cash prizes, she will be highly honored on the opening night.

Plans now are taking form for the operation of from three to seven transcontinental trains to bring theater owners to the Revue and Exposition from all parts of the United States. In addition to this there will be a special train running from Washington to Los Angeles and return, via many of the principal cities of the United States, bringing to the premiere the presidential party, Latin-American diplomats, and the United States Marine Band. The coming event is expected to attract the greatest congregation of world-famous men and women that Southern California has ever seen.

JAIL CELL YET WAITS OCCUPANT

Bakersfield Attorney Who Was Sentenced to Serve Day Fails to Show Up

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 26.—W. C. Dorris, Bakersfield lawyer and husband of Mrs. Grace S. Dorris, now serving her second term in the State Assembly from Kern county, late today did not show up at the County Jail to start serving a one-day sentence imposed on him by Police Judge Noble of Taft in lieu of a $10 fine imposed for contempt. Dorris elected to take the jail sentence in preference to paying. Dorris was released on his own recognisance following his decision to "do the time."

The contempt proceedings arose when Attorney T. M. McNamara of Taft endeavored ot call Dorris before Judge Noble to tell what he did with money given him by William Cheesebrough, formerly of this city, and who furnished a few thrills several months ago for New York police when he was taken from a liner bound for Europe.

Cheesebrough's wife brought suit against him for divorce, and an order from the court had been served on him as soon as he was returned to Kern county to prevent disposal of any property.

Cheesebrough, however, gave Attorney Dorris $500 as a retainer fee and $400 to be used as expenses. The contempt proceedings arose when Dorris refused to obey a summons to appear here when McNamara, attorney for the wife, was endeavoring to learn just how the $400 had been expended.

Dorris refused to give this information in court and held that Cheesebrough, who was released from jail about a month ago without the case coming to trial, and who is gone from the county, still owes him money on this case. McNamara intimated that his next step would be a civil suit to collect at least a portion of the $400 expense money.

COLLEGE PRESIDENTS DISCUSS STANFORD, U.S.C., OXY SQUABBLE

GAME RUMPUS STARTED BY MISQUOTED MISSIVE

BY LEE PSON BOWNES

The misunderstanding that has resulted from the publication in several newspapers of a badly garbled version of Coach A. Pipal's celebrated letter to Coach Elmer Henderson announcing Occidental's intention to play Stanford University rather than U.S.C. this fall has reached the point where the attention of the presidents of Occidental College, Stanford University and the University of Southern California has been drawn to the affair for the purpose of staving off the near-war-like threats Presidents Bird, Wilbur and Von KleinSmid are in communication regarding the affair.

The letter that Coach Pipal wrote Coach Henderson a letter on January 4, congratulating him on the victories of the Trojans and informing him that the Tigers would play the Trojans this fall. A few days later the news that the Trojans and Trojans would meet on the gridiron was published in several newspapers, together with some supposed excerpts from Pipal's letter which were complimentary to either U.S.C. or Occidental.

CLEARS UP MATTER

Following the publication of the garbled quotations from Pipal's letter, Daily Trojan of the University of Southern California and the Daily Palo Alto of Stanford University came out with some caustic remarks based on the supposed letter. To clear up and make plain the matter, Pipal's letter, a copy of which was handed to the writer for Dempsey's inspection, is reproduced:

"January 4, 1923.

"Dear Henderson:

"Allow me, at the outset, accept my sincere congratulations on the splendid victory of last Saturday. You have indeed reason to feel proud of your splendid team put up. Everything considered, it was a real high-class exhibition of coaching.

"In connection with this I desire to state that there is no opposition here at Occidental to play your team this fall. The reason is that the University has not offered a very fair offer in the matter of guarantee, and in addition to this, considering the fact that Occidental's football season closes on the 17th of November this year, and that the Stanford game comes on the 24th, which is only one week later, and we will be compelled to play the Stanford game next year, and we do not wish to arrange for us to play two hard games in one year. I regret this exceedingly, but I see no way to do justice to our campaign with the Southern California games. I want you to know, however, that there is no opposition whatever on the part of Occidental to play U.S.C., in fact the Occidental has never been opposed to playing U.S.C. as it is at present. You are simply getting too heavy for us and I expect that Stanford will no doubt shoot us to pieces, and I am planning not to have any games at all following the Stanford game.

"Wishing you all success for 1923, I am

"Most sincerely yours, [Signed] "J. L. PIPAL,
"Athletic Director."

"Occidental College is an institution with a total of approximately 600 students. The University of Southern California has in the neighborhood of 7000 students. Occidental College is one of the smaller schools of the Southern California conference and we believe that our first objective in athletics is to win the conference championship if possible," said a prominent Tiger athlete yesterday.

NEED ALL ATHLETES

"In a school as small as ours the same handful of athletes compete in nearly all branches of sport. If we string out our track season into the baseball season we simply handicap our baseball team and lose all chance of winning, just as we did last year. That's why we cannot offer U.S.C. any date for a track meet other than February 10. When the conference track season is over our track athletes must put on their baseball cleats and get busy on the diamond.

"Occidental doesn't feel that U.S.C. is a natural rival. Simply because we always have given them a good run for their money and beat them several times doesn't make us natural rivals. We feel that we will be doing more good for Southern California athletics by playing Stanford or California than we would by playing U.S.C., even though the northern schools might beat us worse, and probably will.

NO HARD FEELINGS

"Occidental has no hard feelings toward U.S.C. other than those caused by the giving out of such garbled news items as the recent publication of what was supposedly Coach Pipal's letter. What's more, we aren't afraid of U.S.C. and expect to hand them an occasional trimming in the future, just as we have in the past. And that's that."

Del Monte Juniors Bowl Over Midwick Poloists 11 Goals to 5

SOUTHERN FOUR IN STIFF FIGHT

Visiting Quartet Too Strong for Local Squad

Northerners Surpass Locals in Team Work

Throngs Witness Spectacular Play on Field

A crowd almost as big as last Sunday's watched a hotly contested match at Midwick Country Club between the Del Monte Junior Polo Team and the Midwick Juniors yesterday which was won by the former by 11 goals to 5. In spite of the soft ground the play was exceedingly fast and the pole of a very high standard throughout. The team work and the finesse of the game was well carried out and there was hardly one miss in twenty shots.

The visitors were undoubtedly too strong for the home team, who put up a good defense, but the Del Monte men had speedier horses and played better polo; this is not to say as individuals, but as a combination.

Pedley was the spectacular player for Del Monte and Hunt also stood out for his shooting and good horsemanship, but he, of course, is an old timer at the No. 1 place. Of the home team Carlton Burke ran true to farm and was as steady as ever; Wigmore's game was remarkable for its dash and nerve, not intermittently, but all the way through, and Teddy Miller played brilliantly in spite of his injured hand. Jack Holt backed them up with true shooting and good riding. The play of the Midwick team improved noticeably toward the end of the game.

Although the scoring was even up to half-time, the Del Monte men seemed to get wise to the weaknesses of their opponents and played a more aggressive game afterward.

Details of the game follow:

First chukker—The game opened with fast stabling and hard riding. Carlton Burke got the ball to himself and took it down field, but finally passed and Schwerin shot it back with a king back-hander. Crocker took it up and Del Monte pressed down to the home goal. Miller saved it with a pretty side shot, Burke took it up and passed but broke his stick. There was a lot of play by the sides then, up and down, both teams working hard and galloping like fury. Then Burke got it to himself again and though ridden hard by Schwerin and Crocker, he carried it right down the field, with Miller backing him. Miller shot twice, once a hard backhander should have made goal, but the defense was good. However, the offense was better and presently Wigmore shot and scored.

Midwick pressed again, and in exactly 45 seconds from the last goal, Burke scored another. Del Monte now began to look alive and Schwerin put in some amazing back-handers. Pedley, always famous for his long reach and for shooting in impossible positions, began to make himself felt.

Score—Del Monte, 2; Midwick, 2.

Second chukker—Schwerin and Crocker did some very pretty passing between them, ridden by Miller, who, backed by Jack Holt, got the ball and made a dash for Del Monte's goal, but Crocker's defense was good. The visitors got it again and the whole field took part in a wild gallop down to the Midwick goal, ending in a final shot by Hunt that made the first goal for the visitors. They pressed hard and only some of Burke's particular defense saved another goal. Schwerin broke away and did a marvellous race, with the field after him; ridden hard he passed by Midwick's goal, but Miller got it back and it was Teddy Miller's turn for a grand dash across, with Pedley after him like the wind. Pedley got it away and raced back, but Wigmore was too fast for them and stopped it with a very clever back-hander.

Score—Del Monte, 3; Midwick, 2.

Third chukker—The Del Monte men began to press and the home team had hard work to hold their own. The play was slow and careful. Burke and Miller did some clever passing work and Miller picked it up and rushed through with it, but Pedley was too fast for him, got it away and passed to Hunt, who, though worried by Holt, scored. There was a lot of play around Midwick's goal, until Miller lifted the ball right over their heads, and the field thundered down in retire after it. One of Schwerin's back-handers sent it back, but Wigmore picked it up and after a great race with the field after him, he shot and would have scored had the ball not hit the goal-post and a Del Monte man put it outside.

Score—Del Monte, 3; Midwick, 2.

Fourth chukker—Soon after the play began, Pedley's horse tripped and he took a tumble. Meanwhile the game went on and Schwerin scored for Del Monte. The visitors were their stride and pressed again, Hunt scoring for them again, almost at once. Then the play was hard and fast, Miller and Holt, up and away raced up field together, and Holt scored. Burke, ridden off by Hunt, took the ball into the enemy's country, but Pedley came to the rescue again and took it down along the sideline with some really marvelous sight-shotting, but it went outside. Then Wigmore dashed away, with Hunt after him, but the latter's horse was a demon for speed and he saved a goal.

Score—Del Monte, 4; Midwick, 2.

Fifth chukker—Hunt's shot from behind goal was neatly stopped by Schwerin, but Del Monte men got it away and the whole field raced down to Del Monte's goal. After some very hard play, Holt shot through to Wigmore, who scored with a straight, clean shot. More effective work by Midwick and Miller shot twice in vain. Pedley was marking Wigmore, who was a dangerous man, and the ball raced back and forth from goal to goal without score. Presently Holt got his chance and galloped away, but Crocker rode him right hard. Pedley scored another before the whistle blew.

Score—Del Monte, 5; Midwick, 4.

Sixth chukker—Pedley was back on his pinto, riding like a maniac. Del Monte had got into their stride and Midwick was defending for all it was worth. The play grew better than ever. So did the players. Both did the impossible. Presently Crocker scored with a long shot in spite of Burke's habit of riding over everywhere at once. Schwerin broke through and scored another, with a beautiful shot from the quarter-line, true and straight. Then Wigmore got hold of the ball, made a dash for Del Monte's goal, and Pedley, riding like a demon, got it away and passed to Hunt, who, though worried by Holt, scored. There was a lot of play around Midwick's goal, until Miller lifted the ball right over their heads, and the field thundered down in retire after it. One of Schwerin's back-handers sent it back, but Wigmore picked it up and after a great race with the field after him, he shot and would have scored had the ball not hit the goal-post and a Del Monte man put it outside.

Score—Del Monte, 3; Midwick, 2.

Fourth chukker—Soon after the play began, Pedley's horse tripped and he took a tumble. Meanwhile the game went on and Schwerin scored for Del Monte. The visitors were their stride and pressed again, Hunt scoring for them again, almost at once. Then the play was hard and fast, Miller and Holt, up and away raced up field together, and Holt scored. Burke, ridden off by Hunt, took the ball into the enemy's country, but Pedley came to the rescue again and took it down along the sideline with some really marvelous sight-shotting, but it went outside. Then Wigmore dashed away, with Hunt after him, but the latter's horse was a demon for speed and he saved a goal.

Score—Del Monte, 4; Midwick, 2.

Fifth chukker—Burke's shot from behind goal was neatly stopped by Schwerin, but Del Monte men got it away and the whole field raced down to Del Monte's goal. After some very hard play, Holt shot through to Wigmore, who scored with a straight, clean shot. More effective work by Midwick and Miller shot twice in vain. Pedley was marking Wigmore, who was a dangerous man, and the ball raced back and forth from goal to goal without score. Presently Holt got his chance and galloped away, but Crocker rode him right hard. Pedley scored another before the whistle blew.

Score—Del Monte, 5; Midwick, 4.

Sixth chukker—Pedley was back on his pinto, riding like a maniac. Del Monte had got into their stride and Midwick was defending for all it was worth. The play grew better than ever. So did the players. Both did the impossible. Presently Crocker scored with a long shot in spite of Burke's habit of riding over everywhere at once. Schwerin broke through and scored another, with a beautiful shot from the quarter-line, true and straight. Then Wigmore got hold of the ball, made a dash for Del Monte's goal, and Pedley, riding like a demon, got it away and passed to Hunt, who, though worried by Holt, scored. There was a lot of play around Midwick's goal, until Miller lifted the ball right over their heads, and the field thundered down in retire after it. One of Schwerin's back-handers sent it back, but Wigmore picked it up and after a great race with the field after him, he shot and would have scored had the ball not hit the goal-post and a Del Monte man put it outside.

Score—Del Monte, 5; Midwick, 5.

GAMES TONIGHT

U.S.C. and Cal at Pasadena High gym.
Pomona at Whittier.
Occidental at Caltech.

Occidental and Southern Branch, only undefeated fives in the Southern California conference basketball league, meet tonight in the feature game of the third round of play on the court in the Franklin High gymnasium. Redlands tackles Whittier on the Poet court and Pomona takes on Caltech in the Pasadena "Y" gym in the other conference games for tonight.

Coach Caddy Works's speedy Cubs are favored to step on the toiling Tigers from Occidental when they clash for their segue-leading position. The Occidental five's strong point is its defense. But twenty-six points have been scored upon the Tigers in two games, six of these digits coming by the free-throw route, and this is one reason for the Tigers being tied for first place.

On the other hand, the Cubs have built up one of the strongest offensives in the South and have had no trouble disposing of their first two opponents. However, the Bruin five has not neglected its defense and has managed to hold the enemy safe at all times.

The Whittier-Redlands game should be full of fight and a close game should result. Taking points in the Whittier gym is a tough job and most of the games played in it end up in football fashion. Both of these teams play good basketball, and no walkaway for either five is expected. Pomona and Caltech meet in a game for the cellar honors. Neither squad has been blessed with a victory to date and both quintets will be fighting to get into the "win class." A close score is also predicted for this tilt.

SPORT SHRAPNEL

By HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Unquestionably the spring thaw is close at hand, figuratively speaking. Like a swallow the following fluttered onto my desk from Santa Paula with the name of George E. Outland appended. It is an all-star Coast League team, to Mr. Outland's way of thinking the best which could be selected on the basis of last season's work. As seldom do two or more baseball fans agree when gathered together in one place, this means argument and dissension. But we permit the Santa Paula citizen to shoot:

Mollwitz, Sacramento, first base; Kilduff, San Francisco, second base; Deal, Los Angeles, third base; French, Vernon, shortstop; Lewis, Salt Lake, left field; O'Connell, San Francisco, center field; Bodie, Vernon, right field; Agnew, San Francisco, catcher; Scott, San Francisco; May, Vernon; Mitchell, San Francisco, pitchers; Essick, Vernon, manager. Substitutes, Ellison, San Francisco; Rod Murphy, Vernon; McCabe, Los Angeles; Sheehan, Sacramento, utility; Daly, Los Angeles, catcher; Dumovich, Los Angeles; Dell, Vernon; Jacobs, Seattle; Geary, San Francisco, pitchers.

Neat little team of ball players, but main point is that this communication shows that the sap is beginning to flow. In less than a month the first echelon of the Chicago Cubs will have arrived in these parts. Killefer will have the advance guard of Angels opening their pores at Elsinore, and Essick will be putting a flock of Vernon players through their well-known paces.

* * *

Just how these clubs which were not fortunate enough to put through early deals will shape up in face of the new order is problematical. No team, under this rule, can accept players from the majors who are subject to draft. And the majors have resolved to send no players except under the draft restriction. Fortunately, most of the P.C.L. teams had enough athletes held over from last year to struggle through another season although some of the owners may be unable to bring their clubs up to the standard which they had planned. Later results, the results of succeeding seasons, however, will provide the real test. One need only look over the roster of last season's clubs to observe how completely they were recruited from the majors, and speculate on how they are to be replaced when the present crop is exhausted; also, by what legerdemain the owners will obtain the men with which to strengthen a slumping team in midseason. Developing rookies will in a measure supply this demand, but only about one in twenty rookies makes good. Recruits may be obtained from the minors, but the other two big big minors, the only ones with players of a class which would help, instead of having anybody to spare, probably will find themselves in need of strengthening. Then there is the rather embarrassing plight of the majors with a surplus of good salable talent. To carry them would prove a heavy expense. True, they can place some of them with the draft minors and pay part of their salaries. This alone will not solve their problems. It strikes one that the majors and minors need each other.

Perhaps before the embarrassment becomes unendurable the two parties to the agreement can reach a workable understanding.

Meantime President Ed R. Maier, in signing a regular scout, has made what appears to be a sensible and far-seeing move.

* * *

Among the forty Los Angeles players who will report for spring training are the well-known regulars, plus a large squad of rookies. Incidentally, there will be a flock of seventeen pitchers. Red Killefer says he would like to sign Babe Ellis as an assistant to look over the rookies. This would be a good move. But even more import, it strikes one, would be still another assistant to analyse and coach the pitchers. No manager ever lived who could get an actual line on seventeen pitchers in a month or six weeks. This hint is thrown out because we have seen so many really promising young pitchers discarded in spring training. One spring the Angels had about the same number of pitchers in camp. Howard Ehmke and Frank Schillenback, the youngsters, were among the lot, but finished among the discards. Why? Because it was a physical impossibility for one man to ascertain the ability of every man, or even every other man, in so large a congeries of pitching talent.

MARTY FARRELL WILL MIX WITH BARRIEAU

Marty Farrell, the middleweight champion of the Pacific Coast, will stage a comeback at the Lyceum A. C. show tonight when he meets Frank Barrieau in the main event. Farrell claims the middleweight title by virtue of a win over Bart Collina at Jack Doyle's Arena some months ago.

The first of a series of heavyweight bouts to determine the best contender in the city will be used as a semi-windup. Dick Mayo of Texas will clash with Martin O'Gardy of Jersey City, a protege of Al McCoy, former middleweight champion. The rest of the card is as follows: Billy Maxwell vs. George Gilmore, 138 pounds; Earl Little vs. Henry Kaltian, 150 pounds; Jack Lind vs. Herb Miller, 142 pounds; and a curtain raiser.

MANY MATMEN EN ROUTE HERE

Sport Excellent if It is Run on the Square

L.A.A.C. is Getting Up a Big Tournament

Middleweight Elimination Bouts Planned

BY DE WITT VAN COURT

What will become of all the wrestlers when Los Angeles is worked out? It seems that about all the wrestlers in America are headed this way. Are the wrestling fans going to fall for them? Every iceman, piano mover and breweryman who knows a few holds of the mat game are headed for this town.

Each and every one of them holds or declares he holds a championship of some kind. About thrity-five years ago San Francisco was worked good and plenty by a bunch of fake wrestlers. Muldoon, Bauer, Miller of Australia, Whistler and a bunch of lighter men got so raw with their work that the game was not patronized for many years. Not, in fact, until a few years ago, when they got another hold on the wrestling fans and worked them again for several years.

GAME IS DEAD

The mat game is dead there again. Ad Santel, who advertises himself as the light-heavyweight champion, worked the same men over several times. He lately was defeated by Earl Craddock, but still signs himself champion of that class. He and Jim Londos also exchanged that title several times, and it is maintained by some of the knowing ones that neither can make 175 pounds, the light-heavyweight limit. They are working for another match down here.

Gardini beat Santel, and several middleweights are willing to bet that they can beat Gardini. Strangler Lewis and Zybyszko have wrestled in nearly every big city in the country and are soon to wrestle here again. Dr. Roller worked over the Northwest country several years ago in the same manner.

MUST BE SQUARE

The wrestling game is a good game, but until something is done to prove that all wrestling matches are on the square, it should be eliminated from professional sports.

The Los Angeles Athletic Club has started a middleweight tournament in which eight of the best middleweights in the country will enter, if the plans are carried out. It will take several months to finish the tournament. The idea is to eliminate the first four losers, then match the remaining two pair and bring it down to the finals, when the winner of the finals will be declared the middleweight champion. This is the only way to settle a legitimate championship. The men to be selected are all recognized high-class men in that class, and the tournament should prove a very attractive one to all lovers of the mat game.

MANUAL WINS

Coach Motts Blair's coherts of the basketball court downed the fast, fighting Jefferson quintet, 32 to 6, in the third round of the City League basketball play yesterday on the Democrats' court. Although the score was a bit one-sided, the Toiler five had to fight all the way through the game to make points and keep the fast Democrat forwards from scoring.

Max Miller, captain of the Artisan team, stood out as the feature of the contest. Miller scored sixteen of the Manual's thirty-two points. He was covered at all times by DeHaas of the Jefferson team, but he managed to elude this pursuer and ring the bell for eight field goals.

Rice stood out from the rest of the Democrat team. He was a hard man to guard and added two points to the Green and Gold score.

As an opener, the Manual lightweights defeated the Jefferson team by a 15-to-8 score. This

OLD GOLFERS ARE BEST

BY BOB LOCKE

With the Southern California open championship safely tucked away in one corner of the South it seems inevitable and proper that a post mortem be held over the dear and late departed. So with fitness we will take for our text for the day, "Is golf for age or beauty?"

In looking over the field and results of the past tournament it seems to me that age still has its hold upon leading honors, but that youth has equally a great chance to supercede it. For several years past golf has been known as an old man's game, but in more recent years, with youngsters coming to the front in rapid succession, the term has begun to take on another meaning and threatens to become a young man's game.

YOUNGSTERS FLASH

In my opinion the old men of the game are still the best players and the children, although they flash for the time being and win some great tournament, cannot, or at least do not, play as good golf as their elders. Take, for instance, the result of the Southern California tournament. Gene Sarazen, young and national champion, played miserable golf, while John Black, Jock Hutchison and Dave Findlay, all men of more than 40, and Findlay a man of 50, were right up in the money.

Like all youth, the children of golf can pull themselves together for a time, just long enough to win a tournament, but after victory they may or may not play good golf. It takes an older man to play the consistent and almost perfect "day in and day out" golf that Hutchison did in the last tournament. It is a case of erraticism against dependability, and in the greater number of trips the consistent player will win out.

GREAT MATERIAL

However, these young players, after they have had the long training of the older men, will undoubtedly play a brand of golf that has never been seen in the country before, and by the time they are as old as the present grand old men they will be world-beaters.

PASADENA LOSES

Coach Whittle's fast L. A. High cage squad jumped back into the thick of the City League pennant fight by crowning the cellar-bound Pasadena High crew in a speedy, clean-cut game, played on the Millionaires' home floor yesterday afternoon, 18 to 12.

The Crown City boys were hardly able to penetrate the Pioneers' strong defense, while the L. A. gang swept down floor in a four-man phalanx that generally ended up with the ball arching through the netted circle.

Roy Dennis, star all-around L. A. athlete, put in a classy day's work for his team at the center position. Beck and Hendrixson were L. A.'s other shining lights. Collins and Downs were the Pasadena stars.

L. A. made the day perfect by grabbing the preliminary lightweight game, 13 to 11, in an encounter that had the respective vertebrae of the assembled multitude doing an Irish toddle throughout forty minutes of play. The line-ups:

In a close, exciting game played yesterday afternoon on the Franklin High School courts, Coach Daugherty's high-powered basketball squad put themselves in the precentage column by defeating the Poly High School unlimited five, 26 to 21. The game was close all the way resulting in victory for the Kitefiyers only when the timer's gun went off.

At the half score stood 13 to 9 in favor of the Printers, but during the second period the shooting of Wren, star forward for the Mechanics, tied the count, 15 to 15. Franklin forged ahead and kept in front 'till the finish. Pruett, Franklin forward, was the star of the game, accounting for fourteen of his team's points.

AMATEUR ATHLETIC BODIES IN CONFAB

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Committees representing the National Amateur Athletic Federation and Amateur Athletic Union will meet here tomorrow night to seek a basis of amicable relations in the conduct and administration of amateur athletics.

Soccer Squads Promise Much Pep Tomorrow

Fighting to strengthen their precarious hold on first position, the L. A. A. C. soccer club will tackle the Overseas in the first game of a dauble header at Maier Park, Vernon tomrrow afternoon. And according to Manager Reinhold, the battle promises to be bitterly contested. The clubmen are crippled through injuries, but it is expected that Howarth will be able to take his position in backfield. His return will bolster the club defense greatly and will be welcomed by Club boosters.

The second half of the twin bill brings together the Sons and Samsons timed for 3 p. m. in a game that promises to be full of zip and action. The tiremen are extremely anxious to register a win and remain in the heels of the leaders. Wearers of the Rose however have secured much valuable material in the Brown Brothers and Laurence Elliot who started with the L. A. United last season, and their acquisition will give punch to the Sons attack.

L. A. United test their skill against Rangers at Ross-Snyder playgrounds with the kick off at 2:30 p. m. while the schedule sends the Scots to Long Beach.

Favorites at Tijuana Split With Outsiders

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 26.—After favorites had been beaten in the first four races, form finally predominated in the final races at Tijuana today and popular choices came over.

Paisley in the fifth, and Catherine Marone in the sixth, both trained by Lon Tryon, and ridden by Ralls, won without extending themselves. Paisley showed dazzling speed in the sloppy going and though carrying top weight of 118 pounds, covered the five-eighths of a mile in 1:01 to win by four lengths.

The one-mile feature event went to Catharine Marona, who never was headed. In this race the outsider, Dorius, managed to come in second, beating the redoubtable Bowsprit.

The results:

First race, six furlongs—Double Ere (Thompson,) won; Lone Pine (Ralls,) second; Maudie Wilson (Jones,) third. Time, 1:18 2-5.

Second race, six furlongs — Veiled Collson (Long,) won; Carrasbach (Slaughter,) second; Marina Pluhe (Dean,) third. Time, 1:18 1-5.

Third race, six furlongs—Fiddle Fussy (Rose,) won; View (Stevens,) second; Brazilian (Thompson,) third. Time, 1:18.

Fourth race, one mile—Pinecone (Martin,) won; Silver Maid (Jellerick,) second; Four Fuss (Long,) third. Time, 1:47.

Seventh race, five and one-half furlongs—Commuter (Long,) won; North Shore (Baker,) second; Ere Bright (Gargan,) third. Time, 1:09 4-5.

Eighth race, five and one-half furlongs—Due De Guise (Ralls,) won; Feed Box (Martin,) second; Count Bros. (Thompson,) third. Time, 1:09 2-5.

GIANTS TAKE TEMPLE CUP

"MY THIRTY YEARS IN BASEBALL"
ARTICLE XX
BY JOHN J. McGRAW,

[Copyright, 1922, by the Christy Walsh Syndicate.]

The first germ of the world's series idea—the suggestion that led to the winding up of the baseball season with a classic climax—came from William Temple, a prominent citizen of Pittsburg and a baseball enthusiast of the highest and most helpful type. It came at the end of the 1894 season when the Orioles made their first sensational win of the National League championship.

For several years at the end of each championship fight there had been wide discussions as to whether the best club had won the flag. Obviously it had. Still, there were hundreds who held the belief that if the second team had got a good start, for instance, it would have won.

Mr. Temple suggested that the first and second teams play a series of games to determine which was the superior club at the moment. As a trophy to the club he gave a beautiful and expensive cup, known as the Temple Cup. As a consequence, the post-season classic took the name of the Temple cup series.

This was regarded as a bit of genuine sportsmanship and four series were played—1894-5-6-7. While these games were fully as interesting at the time as the world's-series affairs are now, it dawned upon baseball people then that such a test was unfair to the winner of the championship. It took the edge off a victory that had been the result of a whole season's hard work. To permit a short series to rob a club of such glory did not seem right. There was a lapse of several years before another series was played. After Brooklyn and Pittsburg fought it out in 1900, Brooklyn winning, the Temple-cup series idea was abandoned. The cup was given to Joe McGinnity by the players. I have heard that he still has it.

TAKES FIRST CUP

The New York Giants took the first cup from us in 1894 in four straight games. This rather took the edge off the enthusiasm of Baltimore fans and somewhat dulled the luster of our capture of the season's pennant.

At that, we managed to win the Temple cup the next three times, though we did not win the pennant in 1897. Our post-season victory took the limelight away from the championship Boston team just as the Giants had hurt us in 1894.

I shall never forget that first Temple cut series. To be sure that the Giants finished second so as to get a chance at the cup, Jouett Meekin and Amos Rusie pitched every other game for New York for the last month of the season. Can you imagine pitchers going through a strain like that in this day and time?

STEPPED RIGHT IN

Not only that, but they stepped right in and pitched all the games against us in the series, winning the famous cup in four straight games, each winning two.

New York rooters came down on us in a great flurry. Such old fans as De Wolf Hopper, Digby Bell, Nick Engel and Harry Stevens went crazy with delight over the success of Johnny Ward and his Giants. After that series Ward retired from baseball, by the way, leaving a wonderful record behind him, due to his work with the Providence and New York clubs for sixteen years.

John Ward was an outstanding character in the game and his personality was admired by fans and baseball people throughout the country. He became a lawyer, and has been my personal attorney for years. Though we had many scraps on the ball field he was an opponent that one could warm up to. He had both fighting spirit and rare playing ability.

GOOD SUPPORT

While Jouett Meekin and Amos Rusie pitched wonderful ball in that first series they could not have won but for the great support given them by the Giant players, especially Ward, Mike Tiernan and Eddie Burke.

I do not offer this as an alibi, but, to tell the truth, Hughey Jennings and myself were about the only Oriole players who were in proper condition to put up the kind of game we had shown all season. We were very young and knew little of the joys of all-night affairs. At that time, and for a long time after, neither of us had ever taken a drink. I had never smoked. In fact, I have never smoked to this day.

But the Baltimore fans and others were determined to show how much they appreciated what we had done to bring a championship to the old town. With all the banquets and other affairs arranged to celebrate our winning of the flag—and several days elapsing before beginning the big series—it is not to be wondered that most of the boys were knocked out of their stride. Naturally, the players thought they were entitled to break training for a short spell. So did their Baltimore friends, evidently.

DIVIDE RECEIPTS

Just as is the case now, the receipts for the Temple Cup Series were divided among the players. Right away considerable feeling was aroused among the players over the discovery that several members of the contesting clubs had agreed to pool their shares and divide fifty-fifty, no matter which side won. In other words, some of the players had decided not to take a chance.

Quite a fe wof the victorious team, after having made such a despicable agreement, refused to abide by it. There were many quarrels over this and the friction lasted for years. In fact, this feeling lasted as long as the welchers continued in baseball.

I had no particular sympathy with either side to the argument—it was a degrading arrangement at all times—but I took particular pains to let the welching players know what I thought of them by verbal shot during and after every game that I played with them. So did the rest of the Orioles. Still the Giants refused to loosen up and settle. After so much talk about it I don't believe our players would have accepted the money, anyway.

TALKED IT OVER

Jennings and I returned to St. Bonaventure College when the Temple cup series was over and remained there all winter. Night after night we thrashed over our defeat at the hands of the Giants, between study hours. It soon became an obsession with us to win the pennant again so that we could have one more crack at them. We were determined that we would not lose another series through lack of condition of any of the players, even if both of us had to constitute ourselves policemen.

The next spring, 1895, the question that is always uppermost in a ballplayer's mind after winning a pennant arose. We wanted more money. We had many arguments with Manager Hanlon over the salary question, but finally all came to terms and we reported to the training camp, which had been changed from New Orleans to Macon, Ga. Due to our school work we were ten days late, but both were in splendid condition, almost fit and ready for the championship season to begin right then.

NO LAGGARDS

The whole team went at the training conscientiously. There were no laggards. Never was there such a bunch out for morning practice. That post-season defeat at the hands of the Giants had taught everybody a lesson.

Our success of the precious year in winning the pennant by united and aggressive methods had been a lasting inspiration. Confidence oozed out of us. We knew that we had to be in the best possible condition, though, and that became our main aim.

As a result this strenuous work and determination we had no trouble in winning the 1895 pennant.

The Boston club was the contender and we played them for the cup. It was just before that series that I heard for the first time in my life rumors of ball games having been fixed. Though I did not believe it, the mere idea sort of sickened me.

PORT NOTES

The first American vessel to arrive here in more than two years from Australia and New Zealand is due into today to load 10,000 cases of gasoline for Auckland. She is the Swayne & Hoyt liner Yanta, and her highly volatile cargo will be the first shipment of its kind in that trade since the Australian Labor party came into power. Swayne & Hoyt have announced plans for the shipment of large consignments of gasoline to the Antipodes.

Hugh Gallagher, general manager on the Pacific Coast of the Admiral Line, is here from San Francisco to supervise the loading, discharging and overhauling of the giant passenger liner Ruth Alexander at the local Bethlehem plant. The vessel lost a propeller while coming down the coast on her last voyage and will omit one trip to San Diego while being repaired.

On her first trip in the regularized service of the Pacific Steamship Lines, the British freighter Prince Ja due late Monday from Middlesbrough, England, with a shipment of coke and pig iron.

The old park Narrotal, active for a long time at Los Angeles Harbor in the motion-picture industry, has been sold to the Mutual Trading Company, Ltd., a trading concern of the South Seas. The famous old craft, which was a unit of the whaling fleet thirty years ago, will be commanded on the cruise by Capt. Charles Arey.

Capt. E. A. Ahlin, commander of the Shipping Board liner President Hayes, upon his arrival here last night reported that the ship was shaken but not disabled by a typhoon in the vicinity of Pinnle Gorda in lat. 19.50 N., long. 134.50 W. Radiograms received at Ohlo base from the U.S.S. Texas and the Standard Oil tanker Sarnado reported that these vessels also experienced the typhoon at the same time.

INQUIRY BY GRAND JURY CONTINUED

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 26. — The grand jury this afternoon continued its investigation of the death of Fritzi Mann and examined a number of friends of the young dancer, whose half-clad body was found nearly two weeks ago on the Torrey Pines Beach north of here.

Among the last witnesses summoned was Miss Helen Whitney, close friend of Miss Mann, and with whom the latter spent the night preceding her death. Miss Whitney gave much valuable information to the police in the early days of the investigation, and it was believed the grand jury would obtain any additional facts not previously divulged by the young woman.

When the grand jury adjourned for the day at 5 o'clock it was understood another session would be held tomorrow. As virtually all evidence in the case has been presented, it is expected a decision in regard to an indictment will be made known tomorrow.

Dr. Louis Jacobs, one of two suspects held for several days after the finding of the body, was not called before the grand jury.

ADMINISTRATION AND TARIFF LAW INDORSED

NATIONAL WOOL GROWERS FAVOR TAX REFORM AND STRIKE SETTLEMENTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SPOKANE (Wash.) Jan. 26.—Indorsement of President Harding's administration and the present tariff law, and recommendations for legislation to permit State tax reforms and to prevent strikes, were included in resolutions adopted here this afternoon at the closing session of the fifty-eighth annual convention of the National Wool Growers' Association.

The convention refused to adopt a resolution indorsing President Harding's attitude on the soldiers' bonus bill, but praised the Executive for having the "courage of his convictions." The wool growers commended his attitude toward agriculture.

The Internal Revenue Department was scored for "sending out incompetent agents" to aid in making out income-tax returns.

Congress was urged to take early favorable action on the Capper farm credits bill. Amendments were indorsed to permit the government to subscribe at least 50 per cent of the initial capital of loan banks, with Federal participation to be retired within five years.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 26.—The Shaw Cutts, the first electrically driven vessel of its kind to operate in the Pacific, is due to arrive here to-morrow morning from New York. It is planned to give her a rousing greeting with a whistle salute from all craft in the harbor as she comes down the bay. The vessel will be open for inspection by the general public Monday and Tuesday.

With a silk cargo of approximately 4000 bales, one of the largest single shipments to come through this port, the Pacific Mail liner President Taft is due to arrive tomorrow from the Orient.

Twelve prominent freight brokers and forwarders of San Francisco have formed an organization to be known as the Freight Brokers' Association, according to a pronouncement today by Cyrus Andadour, who was elected secretary. Harry Brown was chosen president. The association, it is said, will be governed along lines similar to other organizations of its kind in New York, Chicago and New Orleans.

PORTLAND (Ore.) Jan. 26.—The steamer Hoyt Kline, which is en route from San Francisco to Portland, will enter the Portland-Alaska steamship trade. She was purchased by the Alaska Portland Packers' Association to replace the tug Fortuna, which was wrecked last year. She will be the first steam-driven vessel to enter this trade, out of Portland. Heretofore sailing vessels have been used.

R. Stanley Dollar, vice-president of the Pacific Steamship Company and manager of its interests in coastal service, was here today conferring with the local agent.

Not more than $34,000 insurance had been written on the missing steamer Delhome, which has been declared by her owners, Swayne & Hoyt, Limited, to be a total loss, according to underwriters. Shipping men here expressed doubts today that the fire which destroyed the Delhome was started by gasoline fumes in the cargo of coal. They said coals had not heretofore been known to heat.

SEATTLE, Jan. 26.—Co-operative and eastern movement of timber by barge tugboat will continue for a considerable period, in the opinion of Thomas Crowley, San Francisco, head of the Merchants' and Shipowners' Protective Company, here on business. Mr. and Mrs. Crowley had inspected their holdings. Shipping men here expressed doubts today that the fire which destroyed the Delhome was started by gasoline fumes in the cargo of coal. They said coals had not heretofore been known to heat.

Retirement of W. C. Dunean & Co. as agent here for the Charles Nelson Company of San Francisco, operators of a fleet of steam schooners in coastwise service, was announced today. It was stated that owing to increasing traffic the Nelson Company will establish a branch office here, with T. B. Mellars, now of San Francisco, in charge.

GOSSIP IN WASHINGTON

Senate Takes Profiteering Case Straight to Daugherty; New Scheme to Make Harbor Dredging Cheaper; Campaign Promises Prove Dangerous

BY THE OBSERVER
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.— If Harry M. Daugherty and his staff need any practice in the conduct of profiteering cases they have an example close to home that will give them plenty to do, in the opinion of the Senate, which is much concerned over the rent demanded for the building in which the department is housed at present. The Senate's concern is so great, in fact, that it has appropriated about one-fourth of the amount asked by the landlord and announced that if he thinks he can get any more he is welcome to carry the case to the United States Supreme Court.

The building in which the department is established is one of those taken over during the war. The government signed a lease for five years at a rental of $87,500 annually. The lease has expired and the owner of the building is said to be asking something in the neighborhood of $300,000 a year. When Senator Smoot was asked if this was correct, he replied that "there is something in the report." The Senate has voted $75,000 for another year's rental and is making every effort to find other quarters in government-owned property for the department.

Brig.-Gen. Harry Taylor, assistant chief of engineers, who was testifying yesterday before a Senate committee on the rivers and harbors appropriation bill, suggested a method of co-operation between the prohibition office and the War Department, which might make harbor dredging work a good deal cheaper than it now is, but the chances are that volunteer dredgers would relieve the government of the necessity of doing any work at all.

The inquiries of the committee were directed toward the amount of refuse that is being dumped into New York Harbor by the city of New York and adjacent municipalities.

"Isn't it true," asked Senator Duncan U. Fletcher of Florida, "that a great deal of this refuse consists of empty cases, straw packing, cardboard containers and empty bottles?"

Gen. Taylor acknowledged that some of the refuse was of this character.

"If the prohibition authorities get so active that people start throwing full cases and bottles away," added Gen. Taylor, "it is highly probable that the department will not have to ask Congress for so much money to carry on dredging operations."

You don't have to tell Washington politicians that campaign promises are full of dynamite and kicklacks. They all have learned their lesson in the school of experience. Investigation of the status of the Isle of Pines brought to light one of the lessons that James M. Cox, Democratic Presidential candidate in 1920, was given.

During his swing through the country, Mr. Cox, in the course of time, reached California. He was anxious to maintain the Democratic majority that State returned in 1916. Senator Hiram Johnson, speaking in behalf of the Republican ticket, had promised the citrus growers of the State that a Republican President would mean a high tariff on oranges, lemons and grapefruit. Mr. Cox played around with the idea himself. He intimated in Southern California that he would be in favor of legislation benefitting the citrus growers.

His belief lasted until he got back to Ohio, where he discovered, much to his surprise, that a great many residents of Ohio had financial interests in the Isle of Pines, and were fully as interested in seeing that the tariff on citrus fruits was kept down as the Californians were in seeing that a barrier was erected. Ohio is for improving the Isle of Pines, which explains also why Senators Pomerene and George are for the "oppressed" citizens of the island.

But for the appearance of Emile Coue in Washington, "beaver" probably would have been dead in the national capital by now. There aren't a terrific lot of "beavers" in Washington, and enthusiasts were getting a little bit tired of having to extend their matches over a period of days before the best two of three sets could be decided. The Coue type was something slightly different, and while he was here the little Frenchman was classed as "nuts" beaver, and scored a love set for the person that spotted him first.

When Coue departed, "beaver" stock slumped again, but a diligent player discovered that in the person of Brig.-Gen. Charles E. Sawyer and Rear-Admiral E. R. Stitt, surgeon-general of the United States Navy, there existed two beards that matched Mr. Coue's down to the last hair. Gen. Sawyer has been the means of several triumphs since that time, because he is about the White House enough to be an easy target, but Admiral Stitt is a rare prize that only a few frequenters of the Potomac Park section of Washington have captured.

STABILIZATION IS OUR CREED

Business Dates on the Word in Daily Trade

Silver Again Coyly Enters Limelight Flood

Uncle Sam Holds World's Biggest Gold Bag

BY C. B. EVANS
[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—There is more talk about "stabilization" in these days than we have had in any year since America was born. It applies particularly to the European currencies, but is by no means absent from our own American policies. If any economic entity, such as a currency, is below its par, and if immediate assets are not available to restore it, the only thing to do is to bring in the future, that is, to make probability of prosperity in time come in and do the work properly belonging to present resources. This is clear enough with regard to Europe, but then we turn to the declaration of the late Max Nordau during the war that "whichever party wins, Europe will be destroyed." The rest of us are hoping that not Europe, but its evils, will be destroyed.

We are fortunate in this country in having none of the ranker misfortunes of the Old World, but we have in a large percentage of our population, notably legislators, a tremendous itch for stabilizing something. Among those legislators who are comparatively little informed on economic matters, something of the sort, or some project for regulating a stockyard or telling a board of trade how to run its business so there won't be so many fluctuations in prices, or trying to present some enterprising man from getting too rich, is always in hand. These plans are usually restrictive, certainly not constructive.

Occasionally some man of real learning, but with a theory of his own wedged firmly into his prejudice department, has a scheme, as in the case of Prof. Fisher of Yale, who actually undertakes to stabilize prices. This idea certainly has the merit of comprehensiveness, for he is dealing with the whole world, with prices in New York and Hongkong and everywhere else.

SILVER AGAIN

This country has been saved from certain of the most serious misfortune in that line, but we are hearing from silver once more, that graceless vixen who caused us so much trouble in the last century with her antics from half a dollar to above a dollar for an ounce of her, and who testily refused to be stabilized anywhere. It was a long struggle to establish in our currency the truth that the virtue of the silver dollar consisted in the market value of the metal it contained, the remainder of the value in exchange being credit.

Now it is proposed in an act presently to be presented in Congress to establish a commission for stabilizing silver. The work of such a commission will, of

Roger W. Babson in a talk to Philadelphia business men yesterday emphasized his summarization of conditions by these high spots:

Business is good or bad according to the motives and purposes of the people.

Feelings and not figures rule the world.

Well managed chain stores have a brilliant future for the next few years, but eventually they will become so strong and dictatorial to both the producer and consumer that the resultant upheaval will shake the country.

This year will see more money spent for automobiles and accessories than for clothing.

European demand for copper will return.

There are 10 per cent more farmers than there should be.

If history repeats itself good domestic bonds will strengthen throughout the year.

The stock market will continue a slight gaining movement for some time.

THE ORIENT AND "WE"

There is much similarity between the economic situation in the Orient and that of the Pacific Southwest, according to an analysis just made by E. H. Tucker, director of research for the First National Bank of Los Angeles and its subsidiaries. Co-operation, for the mutual benefit of both parties, says this economist, should be the watchword both of this portion of the United States, and of the Orient.

Both territories are just entering their stage of modern economic development. Each lies at a vantage point on the Pacific, the ocean which is recognized as the future trade carrier of the world, the Orient on the east and the Pacific Southwest upon the west. One is the vanguard of an old civilization, which is just commencing to make the power of its enormous natural resources felt in the modern economic world. The other is the last bulwark of the Anglo-Saxon civilization, and is just commencing to come into its own as the commercial, industrial and financing community.

With each in its infancy economically, it is possible to develop understanding and a spirit of co-operation with maximum ease and without the necessity of either district adjusting itself too greatly to the commercial and industrial practices of the other.

In last analysis, commerce is but the exchange of goods and the exchange of goods is created by the desire on the part of one people to trade the commodities which they produce in excess quantities for those which they desire to consume, but do not produce. The products of the Orient and the Pacific Southwest are entirely different and through their exchange can so supplement those items available for consumption in each territory as to improve the general economic welfare of both.

As the financial capital of the Pacific Southwest the city of Los Angeles is rapidly becoming a financing community, financing its own developments and looking afield for new connections whereby it can build its commerce and prosperity, not at the expense of others but for the mutual advantage of all parties concerned.

There can be no question but that the Pacific is the ocean of the future and that the trend of modern economic tendencies will be toward the development of those districts and countries contiguous to the Pacific. The greatest advantage to be obtained from such a tendency can be best secured through friendly co-operation between those territories which will most directly benefit from this tendency.

Los Angeles and the Pacific Southwest have extended to the Orient the right hand of fellowship in the hope that the development of a spirit of friendly understanding and co-operation will accelerate this tendency for the benefit of all parties concerned.

CONFIDENCE RETURNING

John J. Mitchell, chairman of the board of the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank of Chicago is quoted in Albert Frank & Co's. Business Review to the effect that for the first time in four years merchants, manufacturers and investors approached their inventories this year with confidence. For the first time in this period, he said, inventories would show satisfactory profits instead of heavy losses to be written off later on.

"These things give confidence," Mr. Mitchell added, "and as confidence is the life of trade they augur well for business in 1923."

"However," continued Mr. Mitchell, "nothing in the nature of a boom either is to be desired or anticipated. For that matter, any real prosperity with industry at capacity production is not likely until Europe, our best customer, has materially improved her financial and economic situation. We need the European market for our surplus production and Europe needs our merchandise and foodstuffs. But until at least a basis for a settlement of the reparations question and the war debts has been determined Europe has neither the cash nor the credit to purchase the supplies she needs and we wish to sell."

SPECULATING IN MARKS

It is a curious twist of human nature which sometimes manifests itself in speculative incoherency, finding expression in a belief which still persists here and there that there is still a chance to make money in German marks, and although many hundreds of thousands of good Los Angeles dollars have been absorbed in this worthless currency an occasional customer presents himself to the foreign-exchange departments of our banks. The advice of department heads, when it is asked, is always against such purchases.

A limit of 5,000,000 marks (about $300) has been set by some institutions as the lowest amount they will handle, and these only in cables. What few transactions there are, in the main, are for commercial purposes. Most persons desiring to send money to friends and relatives in Germany are forwarding it in dollars.

RETAIL TRADE

The following summary of the reports from six representative department stores in Los Angeles, covering their business for the month of December, is made public by John Perrin, chairman of the board, and Federal reserve agent, Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco:

Percentage increase of net sales during December, 1922, compared with net sales during November, 1922, 48.5.

General Petroleum Reports Prosperous Year

An angle of the enviable business and industrial progress that Los Angeles has been enjoying for over two years was presented yesterday by S. L. Kreider, who, as one of the largest international steamship operators in the Southwest, visions the reciprocal prosperity that this city and contiguous territory has distributed over all parts of the world. Communities of varying size and importance, located in the United States, Europe, Asia and Australasia have been dependent to an extent not generally recognized, according to Mr. Kreider, on the enormous demand here for goods of all description, as well as upon the appreciable surplus that Los Angeles industries are able to export.

Beginning with the international commercial slump in 1921, Mr. Kreider asserts that by reason of the maintenance here of remarkable building activity, the demand for lumber practically supported the city of Portland, Or., when all other markets for Portland lumber were quiescent. This phase of industry has grown until Los Angeles is recognized in shipping circles as the greatest receiving lumber port in the world.

Correlative with the building expansion, a demand for other articles has been created which has contributed unquestionably to the support of thousands of men, women and children in the manufacturing centers of the East. In substantiating this statement, Mr. Kreider cited Pittsburg, where an inestimable amount of steel has been transported across the country, and at a time when the steel foundries needed the business, and the steel workers needed employment. Similarly, manufacturing centers producing sewing machines, locks, safes, furniture, and numerous other items relative to the requirements of the home builders have received invaluable benefits from the sound and cumulative expansion of the Southwest.

Tracing the economic dependence of communities upon Los Angeles across the Atlantic, Mr. Kreider said: "Think of the thousands of tons of coke and pig iron that come direct to this harbor from Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng.; the thousands of tons of window glass, glass sand, steel billets, etc., from Antwerp; the cotton of highest quality that we send to Havre, Liverpool, Manchester, Mexico and Genoa, Italy, and the countless shiploads of nitrate we absorb from Chile. Oil, beans, and manufactured products of Japan are coming from the Orient in every ship. Sulphur for agricultural and industrial uses is unloaded in heavy volume from Gulf ports, and millions of tons of pipe for the great oil industry are constantly arriving from Europe and the Gulf. This enormous exchange of goods is significant of indubitable prosperity to the distant cities whence they come or go, as well as to Los Angeles.

The South Sea Islands are also included in the list of traders, sending innumerable tons of copra to this port, from which soaps and other products are made. Borax from the famous deposits on the California-Nevada line, California canned fruits, dried fruits and fresh deciduous and citrus shipments are directed to all parts of the world where receptive markets are in existence.

The place Los Angeles Harbor holds as a center for the export of petroleum is startlingly prominent, declared Mr. Kreider. Oil companies are spending millions in improvements at the port in order to adequately provide for the transportation of oil and oil products to the peoples in all parts of the globe.

The interchange of the raw and finished products is carried on by steamships owned by all nations, who make Los Angeles Harbor a regular port of call. Examples are the Toyo Kisen Kaisha (Japanese,) Compagnie Generale Transatlantique (French,) Trans-Atlantic Steamship Company of Sweden (Swedish,) General Steamship Corporation (American,) and several other British, Holland and American lines. In addition to these steamship companies are the numerous systems participating in the important intercoastal trade. It is estimated that on an average all merchant ships arriving and departing to or from this port spend $10,000 per ship.

OIL EARNINGS INCREASED

As prophesied in brokerage circles, the earnings of the General Petroleum Corporation and the General Pipe Line Company of California for the six months ended Dec. 31, 1922, released yesterday, afford a pleasing comparison with the previous period of 1921, showing net earnings after all charges with the exception of Federal income taxes of $4,248,144.72, an increase of 156 per cent over the corresponding period a year ago, and amounting to $4.55 per share on the common stock after preferred dividends. This is at the rate of over $9 a year and is evidence of the satisfactory progress on the part of the corporation.

Gross earnings, including revenues from oil, transportation and other sources, and after deductions for depletion of oil lands, depreciation of equipment and current expenses, totaled $5,964,031.91, an increase of $3,490,333.51, or 70 per cent. Earnings from oil operations came from the production of 5,829,762 barrels of oil during the six months from wells ranging between 276 and 266. This is a gain of 2,995,180 barrels of oil as compared with the first six months of 1922.

On Dec. 31, 1922, approximately 6000 barrels per day of potential production were shut in. The number of wells shut in during 1922 totaled over 200, of which more than one-half were closed in during the last six months. Oil in storage on the Pacific Coast at December

MARKET REVIEW

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—The only market which moved to any purpose today was foreign exchange. The stock market, though with somewhat more of irregularity than the day before, made the same display of underlying strength with the same evident diversion of interest from the European disputes; but the movement was narrow and the amount of business relatively small. European exchange rates, however, were distinctly weak again. Sterling went to the lowest point of the week, francs almost to the week's low figure and the German mark again touched forty-two ten-thousandths of a cent, its previous low level of depreciation, with reports of small transactions even lower.

At London, where the mark is quoted more sensibly under present condition than on Wall street, the pound sterling exchanged today for 111,000 marks. The highest previous figure was 110,000 a fortnight ago.

Considering the current reports on output of paper marks and the economic situation created for Germany by the deadlock in the Ruhr, it can hardly be said that the renewed depreciation is surprising. At the moment it is not clear how Germany is financing her necessary foreign purchases, which in this country alone foot up $20,000,000 to $30,000,000 a month. That the government or the German merchants are still selling marks abroad in quantity for whatever they will bring seems hardly credible. Probably they are drawing on previously accumulated balances, the longer outcome even of that process not being easy to see.

Transactions on the stock exchange were not much above the daily average of this inactive week, and nearly one-fourth of the total business was in half a dozen industrial shares, evidently reflecting the energies of a few groups of professional speculators. The bond market was generally steady, but the French republic bonds went lower. Thus far these bonds have shown more sensitiveness to the Ruhr rumors and the pessimistic predictions than anything else in the market.

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The American farmer again is buying goods freely. Advancing prices for agricultural products have improved his financial position and his disposition to make purchases.

This is one of the illuminating features of the annual report of Montgomery Ward & Co., the Chicago mail-order house. Furthermore, the company appears to have taken full advantage of the improved situation. Net sales for 1922 were $84,738,826, an increase of nearly 24 per cent over 1921. Net profits last year were $4,562,607, compared with an operating loss of $9,887,396 in 1921. The full year's dividends on the preferred stock were paid and also the dividend in arrears from the last quarter of 1921. Arrears in sinking fund and other charter requirements for 1921 and 1920 aggregating $1,000,000 also were cleared up from 1922 earnings.

After all these provisions there was a balance of $2,717,988 for the class A and common stocks, but this was added to surplus. No dividends were paid on the 205,000 class A shares, but it is cumulative and entitled to 7 per cent, or $1,435,000. This would leave $1,282,988, or about $1.12 a share for the 1,141,251 shares of common stock of $10 par value outstanding.

But for payment of the preferred dividend in arrears and the arrearages of 1921 and 1920, the balance for the common stock would figure out $2,320,121, or about $2.04 a share. Cumulative dividends in arrears on the class A stock at the end of 1922 totaled $3,228,750, or $15.75 a share. Current assets increased $3,297,548 over 1921, while current liabilities declined $294,490. The company has no bank loans. Working capital increased $3,562,036.

"Improving agricultural and business conditions were partly responsible for the increased volume of sales," President Merseles reports. "During the year we made over 1,000,000 new customers, which is a good barometer of the substantial increase in the buying power developed in the agricultural districts. The chief complaint of the farmer has been that his trading ratio is unfair, that he sells his products at deflated prices, but must buy in markets at much higher levels. This is a condition that has shown improvement within the last few months.

"There is nothing in the nature of the business we have been getting that would indicate the farmers are buying merely to supply necessities that they have been doing without for the last year or two. Apparently they are supplying current needs. Last year they found it necessary to buy in smaller quantities, which resulted in more frequent and smaller orders. It is my opinion that business in general in 1923 will be better than in 1922."

LONDON MARKET

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—A further reduction in business was noted on the stock exchange today. Quotations generally were inclined to sag, leading a timid appearance. The exceptions were foreign securities and industrials which had some support. Rubbers were in a bad state, reacting on the reduction of the raw commodity price. British funds dwindled in the gilt-edge market. Canadian Pacific was marked back one-half and British American Tobacco fell to 25s 9d; oils were quiet, Shells, 4 12-16; Mexican Eagle, 1 15-16; American Mines were active. Credit was still plentiful. Overnight funds were 1 per cent and under, day to day, 1¼. Discounts softened. Three-month bills were 3 5-8. Foreign exchanges: New York, 4.64½; Paris, 72.40; Berlin, 150,000 to 160,000.

NEW WOOL PRICES ARE MARKED HIGHER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BOSTON, Jan. 26.—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say:

"The opening of prices on heavyweight goods for the 1923 season at advances of about 10 per cent over those which shows the prices of a year ago is regarded by the wool trade as conducive to good business and this is reported to be the actual result. Early withdrawal of linest and repricing of a higher level are looked upon as inevitable.

"The local wool market is stronger, in sympathy with the foreign markets, which show a high tendency. London opened on a parity with the prices established last week at Liverpool; that is at an advance of 2 to 7½ per cent on merinos and 10 per cent generally on crossbreds over the closing rates on December 15. The primary markets continue to lead the way and grades are being cleared rapidly.

"Mohair is strong without material change in quotations for the week."

Scoured basis: California, northern, 1.30@1.35; middle county, 1.15@1.20; southern, 85@1.00. Mohairs, best combing, 78@85; best carding, 70 @75.

"If I Had Funds for Investment Today!" Said the Man Who Owns Many Bonds

"I should study carefully the further diversification of my investments and would buy, with at least a part of my surplus funds, the San Diego County Water Company Bonds, which you are recommending."

Why was he impressed with water company bonds? Why should such an experienced investor select this issue?

In the first place he recognizes that the business of supplying water to a regular demand is one of the most dependable of all industries, and the dependability is characteristic of investment in that industry.

Secondly, his analysis of this particular bond shows him a first mortgage security of more than 2½ times the amount of his investment. As further protection, he would have a personal guarantee worth $2000 for $1000 invested.

Third, in the earnings of the company he sees full protection for his investment paid promptly when due.

Fourth, the specific provisions of this water company bond are attractive. It matures in 40 years, giving a long-term investment. For the next 10 years it cannot be called at less than 10 points above its present price.

At today's price of 97 it will yield 6.20% on the funds invested.

This is an attractive bond to buy today. Surplus funds you have will be invested advantageously in this bond. Your request for details about the "San Diego County Water Company First Mortgage Bonds" will bring full information at once.

DURANT MAKES OFFER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—W. C. Durant, president of the Durant Motors Corporation, today answered attacks on his dealings in Fisher Body common stock by sending letters to all investors in shares sold by his company offering to purchase back the stock at an advance over the prices paid in.

Fisher Body, listed on the market around $170 a share, has been sold by Durant in units representing one-fifth of a share. These he sold at $40 a unit, or at the rate of $200 a share.

In answer to recent attacks on this procedure, he today offered to buy back stock of all who may desire to sell at the rate of $40 a unit, or $200 a share.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. — Unfavorable news developments abroad continued to curtail trading in today's stock market, in which a number of industrials were pushed up on reports of large current earnings, while others yielded to week-end profit-taking, giving the market a somewhat spotty appearance at the close. Movements in the market are still dominated by domestic business conditions, activity centering largely in shares of companies likely to resume or increase dividends.

The European financial community's reaction to the latest developments in the Ruhr was reflected in lower foreign-exchange rates, demand sterling dropping from $4.65 3-8 to $4.64½, French francs from 6.48½ cents to 6.38 and Belgian francs from 5.96½ to 5.76½. German marks were quoted as only a very small fraction above their extreme low record, which was .0043 cent.

Consolidated Gas was again the most active stock on the "big board," touching 69 3-8, or nearly a point above yesterday's best price, and then reacting to 67 3-4 for a net loss of 3-4. Studebaker, which was the next most active stock, was unchanged, while Baldwin closed ⅛ higher at 134.

Independent steels were strong during the early part of the session but early gains were canceled or materially reduced later. Bethlehem and Republic closed at fractional losses and Crucible and Gulf States moved to slightly higher ground, while U. S. Steel common was unchanged.

Kreage was the individual feature, establishing a new high record at 208 1-4, a net gain of 9½ points. This advance discounted the 1922 earnings report, made public after the market closed, which showed net earnings of $6,616,417, equivalent to $35.52, a share on $18,128,200 common stock outstanding, as against net earnings of $3,402,033 in 1921, equivalent to $20.16 a share on $16,101,200 shares of common stock outstanding.

Fisher Body jumped 11 points to 186 on publication of an offer of W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, to buy the entire outstanding stock at $200 a share, despite the financial community's belief that the offer would not be accepted. The stock closed at 184. At the close of the market, Mr. Durant, who has been selling Fisher Body stock on a partial-payment plan, announced that he was ready to cancel the contracts of frightened investors, paying them $40 a unit or the equivalent of $215 a share, as against the purchasing price of $40 a unit.

Western Union was pushed up 4½ points on reports of highly improved earnings, while gains of 2 points or more also were recorded by Conley Tinfoil, Beechnut, Stewart Warner Speedometer, White Motor, Postum Cereal, Brooklyn Edison, Van Raalte Silk, Bethlehem Steel A, American Cottonseed Oil and Chicago Pneumatic Tool. Pierce-Arrow issues slumped on the announcement of new financing, the common dropping 1 3-8 points and the preferred 3. Realizing sales caused recessions of 3½ in Woolworth and 1 3-4 in United Fruit.

Rail shares were inclined to ease. Baltimore and Ohio was in good demand, closing nearly a point higher on speculative expectation of a good December-earnings report. Southern Railway also was active, closing at 30, a net decline of 3-8. Gains of 1 to 2 points were registered by Frisco preferred, Lackawanna, Delaware and Hudson, and Reading first preferred. Jersey Central dropped 4½ points.

Call money held at 4½ per cent throughout the day. There was a lessening of activity in the time-money market, brokers bidding 4½ per cent for all dates but being obliged to pay 4 3-4 for the longer maturities. Little business was transacted in the shorter maturities. Commercial paper is moving in fair volume, the bulk of prime names commanding 4½ per cent for fuor and six-months maturities.

Day's total sales 712,000. Twenty industrials averaged 98.15. Net gain .36. High 1922, 103.43. Low 78.59. Twenty railroads averaged 86.43. Net loss .03. High 1922, 93.99. Low, 73.43.

WHOLESALE BUSINESS BROADENS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]
[Copyright, 1923, Public Ledger.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—The wholesale dry goods business continues to broaden with a constantly lengthening and enlarging commitment schedule into the fall. Buyers have been in the market in larger numbers during the week. Interest is focused on opening mills which averaged around 16 prices made by leading woolen per cent above a year ago. Wool shortage is having its effect on all classes of woolen yarns and materials. Gray constructions of fine-combed yarn white goods are now beginning to advance. Prices on cotton flannel gloves and mittens are considerably higher on account of the high price of cotton.

Small price advances were very generally distributed throughout staple cotton lines in Chicago wholesale markets the last few days. Present indications are that still further advances will occur soon on many lines which are not on a parity with replaced cotton goods.

While business continues to be represented by small orders there is more notable tendency toward anticipation than was current during last year. This action on the retailer's part seems wise only on lines where the movement is known to be active. Plunging on the present market is discouraged.

One feature of the present situation is the adding of brands in many lines of staples which have been withdrawn for some time. This condition reflects the better deliveries which are now being made by the mills. Shortages are not all apparent at present. The present market is stimulating activity in lines for spring. A great deal of this buying has been delayed past the usual period of anticipation, which is bringing the actual selling season very close to that of the buying.

Much interest is being manifested regarding the protest of contracting firms and employees against a ruling of the United States Railroad Labor Board enjoining railroads from contracting various classes of railroad work.

HOLLAND LAND COMPANY

Hunter, Dulin & Co. announced yesterday that J. V. Mendenhall, president of the Holland Land Company, is authority for the statement that the entire issue of the Holland Land Company, first mortgage, 6 per cent fifteen-year bonds will be called for payment, or for sinking fund operations, at 102 some time during the present year, the exact date having not yet been definitely determined. These bonds comprise a $2,500,000 issue originally underwritten by Hunter, Dulin & Co., in December, 1919, of which approximately $1,186,300 have already been retired, leaving $1,313,700 now outstanding in the hands of the public. Affairs of the Holland Land Company are reported in excellent shape and President Mendenhall is proud of the fact that the company would pay off its entire funded debt eleven years in advance of the date the bonds are due.

COUNTY BONDS

The First Securities Company has been notified by the clerk of San Luis Obispo county that the bond issue of San Luis Obispo county, Cayucos Wharf 6 per cent bonds dated July 1, 1906, have been called for redemption in advance of maturity as of January 1, 1923. This is one of the few issues of its kind outstanding carrying the callable feature. The bonds were issued in connection with an election held October 14, 1905.

course, be wasted. The markets of the world "stabilize" silver momentarily ever business day in the year and then "stabilize" it at some other price shortly after. This experiment will, however, do little harm because we now have a definite and unquestioned unit of value and the country generally is well satisfied with our currency, not caring to have silver or iron or turpentine stabilized.

OUR BAG OF GOLD

We are now sitting on the biggest bag of gold that ever was bagged in the world. The danger to us now is in our very prosperity, in a smugness and confidence which traditionally has preceded a downfall in an inflation which implies the presumption of unending good luck. The possession of this gold is in its amount unprecedented, and we look up to it as a sort of deity that will protect us from the vicissitudes of life.

If anybody feels, as some conservative men do, that we are in danger, he may strengthen that state of mind by falling back on the doctrine of averages, though he must not think too hard on this point for he might overestimate its importance and get into a panic. But it is a fact that the extraordinary apparent wealth of the United States establishes a disparity between ourselves and other peoples of the world that, one would say, cannot last. True, we have natural and undeveloped wealth that should prove a great protection to us, and probably our movement toward the average will not be a violent one for that reason, but there will be a natural tendency to level off our mountains of wealth and other parts of the world. When we are disposed to get a little giddy, let us think of these things.

BOND QUOTATIONS

STEEL LIENS ABSORBED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26. — Oversubscription of the $25,000,000 issue of 5½ per cent consolidated mortgage bonds of the Bethlehem Steel Company and $10,000,000 refunding and general mortgage bonds of the Republic Iron and Steel Company; new low records in some of the French bonds, irregularly in the general list, were the chief developments in today's bond market.

Selling of French 7½s, which dropped point to 35¾, a new low record, and French 8s, which duplicated their previous low at 92, was predicted on the latest developments in the Ruhr, including the publishing of estimates of the cost of French occupation. These bonds suffered from lack of buying power rather than froni pressure of liquidation. Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s established a new low at 66½ and Czecho-Slovakian 8s at 82, while Bordeaux 6s and Marseilles 6s each sold at 70½, their previous low. Prague 7½s and Franco-American 7½s moved up a point each, and Jurgen 6s 1¾.

Liens of copper companies were strong on reports of an advance in the price of the red metal to 14⅞ cents a pound. American Smelting 6s and Chile Copper 7s gaining 1⅛ points, respectively. Listed bonds of independent steel companies reacted on the announcement of new financing. Bethlehem Steel refunding 5s and purchase money 5s dropped 1⅜ and 1½ points, respectively.

Speculative railroad mortgages were firm, gains of a point or more being recorded by St. Paul convertible 4½s; Chicago and Great Western 4s and International and Great Northern adjustment certificate 6s. Brooklyn Rapid Transit issues, particularly the 5s, were strong. United States government issues, were irregular, moving within a radius of 4 cents on $100.

Total sales, par value, were $10,697,000.

TEXAS BILL IS AIMED AT SECRECY OF KLAN

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

AUSTIN (Tex.) Jan. 26.—The Burkett bill, which would require all secret organizations in Texas to file membership lists annually with the County Clerk of each county, was unanimously reported favorably by the State Senate Committee on Civil Jurisprudence today. The measure is directed particularly against the K.K.K., according to Burkett.

LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Irregular trading, marked by occasional bursts of strength in leading stocks, prevailed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday. General Petroleum stood out as the dominant petroleum issue, advancing to 34 on the strength of the favorable showing made by the six months' report, and later yielding to a close at 33, up 1-8 of a point on the day. Tom Reed acquired 3 cents on a substantial volume of trading, closing at 1.03.

Aside from General Petroleum, oil stocks were inclined to reaction. Union Oil Associates lost 1-4 of a point at 47 and United States Royalties at 68 was off 2 cents. Republic Petroleum declined ½ cent to 28.

Richmond was an active stock in the mining group, gaining 2 cents on a final price of 26. Telluride moved forward ½ cent to 28 and Oatman United, although dealt in heavily, remained firm at 12 cents. Oatman Combination was unchanged at 9 cents, and Simon Silver Lead lost 1 cent at 32.

Twenty shares of First National Bank stock went at 375 and Southern California Edison common remained even at 105 3-4.

FILIPINO RUBBER AID FAVORED BY CABINET

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The question of facilitating establishment of an American rubber industry in the Philippines was considered at today's Cabinet meeting, it was disclosed at the White House. The Cabinet was said to be favorably inclined to such a project, which has been advocated by American rubber consumers, in view of the control of 85 per cent of the world's crude rubber production by foreign interests under government protection, while 70 per cent of the total output is used by manufacturers in the United States.

Development of rubber plantations in South America under American control, also advocated by large consumers, has not been considered by the Cabinet, it was said.

The question of the British export tax on rubber, which also has been called to the government's attention by American consumers, is the subject of negotiations pending with the British government, it was said. This tax and the British policy of limiting rubber production in the colonies when prices decline, were understood to form the basis of American complaints.

OREGON RELIGIOUS GARB BILL PASSED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SALEM (Or.) Jan. 26.—After elimination of the clause that would impose penalty of fine and imprisonment upon teachers violating the act, the State Senate today passed without dissent the bill introduced by Representative W. F. Woodward, forbidding public school teachers wearing religious garb. The bill, which was one of the first passed by the House will come before the Senate for third reading Monday and then go back to the House for concurrence in the amendment. Should the House refuse to concur the measure would go to conference.

The Senate today adopted the joint resolution suggesting a constitutional amendment requiring aliens to read and write the English language as requisite for citizenship.

INDICTED BANKER APPEARS IN COURT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—For the first time since his indictment last April, Charles W. Morse, banker and shipping man, appeared in Federal court today in connection with charges that he engaged in a conspiracy to defraud investors in the sale of the stock of the United States Steamship Company.

Morse offered no plea to the indictment, his attorney obtaining postponement from Judge Winslow on the plea that a motion to quash the indictment, a plea in abatement and a demurrer awaited argument and decision. The banker was released on $30,000 bail.

Morse's three sons are among those indicted.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALLMENTS

John Philip Wingate, a prominent figure in New York's Wall street, has an enemy of years' standing in Peter Phipps, who heads British and Imperial Granaries in England. The E. and I., as Phipps's company is known in the stock market, has for its purpose the cornering of the country's wheat, and to date has succeeded, with a consequent shortage of bread throughout England. Wingate comes to England, meets Kendrick, his London broker, and announces his intention of breaking Phipps on the market. At a social gathering, Wingate renews a war-time friendship with Lady Dredlington, whom he had met in France. The fact that Lady Dredlington is unhappy does not escape the attention of Wingate, and he muses he secretly loves her no matter for the cause, and finds it is Lord Dredlington, her husband, a member of the E. and I. board. Wingate meets Andrew Bain, a friend of his college days, whose business of law practice is confined to the manipulation and division of questionable characters, and obtains him as part of his future plans. Next day Lady Dredlington calls at Wingate's apartment to discuss with him the part she is to play in the undoing of Phipps and the E. and I. The visit provides Wingate with an opportunity to make known his true regard for her. Phipps finds he is losing favor with Lady Dredlington and employs his money in arranging a surprise function to be held for seeing Wingate. The following evening she fails to appear at Wingate's theater party, but "sends later to his apartment.

"There is some trouble?" he asked slowly.

"There is always trouble," she replied, with a shrug of the shoulders. "Tonight seems to me as though it may be the climax. You won't be horrified if I sit down and smoke one of your cigarettes? And may I remind you that your attitude is not entirely hospitable."

Wingate had recovered from his first stupor. His eyes were very bright, he was filled with the sense of wonderful happenings.

"Oh, I'll be as hospitable as you like," he assured her. "You shan't have any cause to reproach me so far as that is concerned. This easy chair, please. It is by far the most comfortable one. And now some cushions," he added, slipping them behind her. "The cigarettes are here, and I have some excellent book. Just a half a glass? Good! Miss Baldwin has been praising my sandwiches. You'll have one, won't you?"

She sighed with content, almost with happiness. The strained look had gone from her face. She took off her hat and he laid it upon the table.

"You are very good, very kind, indeed," she murmured.

"And yet not so kind as I would like to be."

He came and stood by her side. She was eating one of the sandwiches and had already tasted the wine. Somehow, he knew quite well that she had had no dinner.

"If want you to understand," he began, "that you are free to tell me what has happened tonight or not—just as you please. Don't feel obliged to explain. I'll be quite frank. I am a curious person as regards you. I want to know—everything. I should like to know how it was that you were unable to come to dinner or join us at the theater tonight. I should like to know what has brought you out of your house to a hotel at midnight—but don't tell me unless you want to."

"I do want to," she assured him. "I want to tell you everything. I think—somehow I almost feel that you have the right to know."

"Cultivate that feeling," he begged her. "I like it."

She smiled, a wan little smile that passed very soon. Her face grew sad again. She was thinking.

"I dare say you can guess," she began presently, "something of what my daily life is like when my husband is in town. It is little less than torture, especially since he became mixed up with Mr. Phipps, that horrible person Martin, and their friends."

"Abominable!" Wingate muttered.

"He is all the while trying to induce me to receive their women friends," she continued. "I need not tell you that I have refused, as I always should refuse."

"Naturally!"

"Tonight, however," she went on, "he has surpassed himself. First of all, he telephoned to say that he was bringing home friends for dinner, and if I had any other engagement he requested me to cancel it. As you know, I did so. Notwithstanding his message, he did not arrive at the house until 11 o'clock, barely an hour ago."

"And kept you waiting all that time?"

"That is nothing. Let me explain something before I conclude. Before the war I had an Austrian maid, a woman whom I turned out of the house, and whom my husband at that time did not dare to ask me to reinstate. He had not then spent quite the whole of my fortune. Besides an undoubted intrigue with my husband, I heard afterward that she only escaped imprisonment as a spy by leaving the country hurriedly just before war was declared. Tonight, my husband, having kept me waiting three hours while he dined with her in Soho, brought her back to the house, announcing that he had engaged her as his secretary."

"Damn the fellow!" Wingate muttered.

"Naturally," she continued, "I declined to sleep under the same roof. The woman remained—and here am I."

"You are here," he repeated. "Thank God for that!"

"It was perhaps imprudent of me," she sighed, "to choose this hotel, but I had a curious feeling of weakness. I felt that I must see some one to whom I could tell what had happened—some friend—before I slept. Perhaps my nerves are going. So I came to you. Did I do wrong?"

She patted his hand. "Dear friend!"

"The room I will arrange for in a minute or two," he promised. "That is quite easy. But tomorrow—what then?"

"I shall telephone home," she replied. "If that woman is still in the house, I shall go down into the country, and from there I shall write my lawyers and apply for a separation."

"So those are your plans," he remarked calmly.

"Yes. Can you suggest anything better?"

"I can suggest something a thousand times better."

She hesitated for a moment. Perhaps she was conscious of a certain alteration in his deportment, the ring of his last words, the slight but unusual air of emotional fervor with which he seemed somehow to have become endowed. A woman of curiously strong virginal instincts, she realized, perhaps for the first time, the approach of a great change in Wingate's attitude toward her. Yet she could not keep from her lips the words which must bring his avowal.

"What do you mean?" she faltered.

"That you end it all," he advised firmly, "that you take your courage in both hands, that you do not return to your husband at all."

"That you come to me," he went on, bending over the side of her chair. "Needless, wonderful words, but I love you. You were the first woman in my life. You will be the last. I have been silent, as you know. I have waited for something like this and I think the time has come."

"The time can never come," she cried despairingly.

"The time has come at least for me to tell you that I love you more than any woman on earth," he declared, "that I want to take care of you, to take you into my life, to build a wall of passionate devotion around you, to keep you free from every trouble and every harm."

"Ah, dear friend, if it were but possible!" she murmured, holding his hands tightly.

"But it is possible," he insisted. "All that we need is courage. You owe nothing to your husband. You can leave him without remorse or a moment's shame. Your life just now is wasted—a precious human life. I want you, Josephine. God knows how I want you!"

"You have my friendship—even my love. There, I have said it!" she repeated, with a little sob, "my love."

His arms were suddenly around her. She shrank back in her chair. Her terrified eyes invited and yet reproached him.

"Remember—oh, please remember!" she cried.

"What can I remember except one thing?" he whispered.

She held him away from her.

"You talk as though everything were possible between us. How can that be? I have no joy in my husband, nor he in me—but I am married. We are not in America."

He rose to his feet, a strong man trembling in every limb. He stood before her, trying to talk reasonably, trying to plead his cause behind the shelter of reasonable words.

"Let me tell you," he began, "why our divorce laws are so different from yours. We believe that the worst breach of the seventh commandment is the sin of an unloving kiss, the unwillingly given arms of a shuddering wife, striving to keep the canons of the prayer book and besmirching thereby her life with evil. We believe, on the other hand, that there is no sin in love."

"If you and I were alone in the world!"

"If you are thinking of your friends," he pleaded, "they are more likely to be proud of the woman who had the courage to break away from a debasing union. Every one realizes—what your husband is. He has been unfaithful not only to you, but to every friend he has ever had."

"Do I not know it!" she moaned. "Isn't the pain of it there in my heart, hour by hour!"

His reasonableness was deserting him. Again he was the lover, begging for his rights.

"Wipe him out of your mind, sweetheart," he begged. "I'll buy you from him, if you like, or fight him for you, or steal you—I don't care which. Anything sooner than let you go."

"I don't want to go," she confessed, afraid of her own words, shivering with the meaning of them.

"You never shall," he continued, his voice gaining strength with his rising hopes. "You've opened my lips and you must hear what is in my heart. You are the one love of my life. My hours and days are empty. I want you always by my side.

PRINTING SHAKE-UP REASONS DISCLOSED

HARDING DECLARES THOUSANDS IN BONDS WERE DUPLICATED

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—An "individual investigation" of employees of civil-service status who were dismissed from the Bureau of Engraving and Printing last April by executive order of President Harding to effect a reorganization of the plant is now under way, it was declared today at the White House by an administration spokesman, who added that those who "deserve it will be restored to the pay roll."

It was said to be the belief of President Harding that not more than three or four days will be required to complete this investigation.

Announcement was made recently at the Treasury that three of the former employees had been reinstated. It was emphasized at the White House, however, that although ratings of the individual employees of civil service who were dismissed would be preserved, the President was not ready to say that any would be restored to their former positions in the bureau.

Several investigations by department officials and secret service men were conducted at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing after the dismissal of Director James L. Wilmeth and twenty-eight chiefs, superintendents and foremen, but it was understood at the time that they developed no evidence of serious irregularities or of shortages of other than a minor character.

It was said at the White House, however, that although the full facts could not be disclosed at this time, general conditions were found which were then believed to be a menace. Literally hundreds of cases were found, it was declared, of duplications of bonds from $50 to $10,000 in denomination. There were 400 duplicates of $1000 bonds alone, it was added.

President Harding was said not yet to be convinced that he had been wrong in directing the dismissal of the officials and the reorganization.

"TRUTH NEEDS HELP," CLEMENCEAU SAYS

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

PARIS, Jan. 26.—"Truth needs some help to get about these days and you can give it," said Georges Clemenceau today in receiving a delegation of fellows of the American Field Service Fellowships.

The delegation handed M. Clemenceau resolutions signed by the leading members of the Fellowship Association, establishing fellowships for one American in France and one Frenchman in America with the proceeds of the Tiger's recent tour of the United States.

The delegation included the former Premier's godson, Jacques Clemenceau Leclercq. M. Clemenceau said the proceeds of his tour at the disposition of the Fellowship Association amounts to $40,000.

Other resolutions urged adoption of uniform marriage, divorce and desertion laws and repeal of the monthly quota clause of the present immigration laws.

It was decided to hold the union's next convention in St. Louis in 1925.

STEALS SO HUSBAND COULD GET DIVORCE

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Jan. 26.—"My husband wants this other woman and I love him too much to stand in his way."

Judge Schulman in the South Clark Street Court sprang to his feet and court attaches gazed in wonder at the pale slip of a 19-year-old bride who uttered the words between sobs.

"When my husband, E. P. Bernard, told me on Aug. 1, 1922, that he loved another woman and wanted to be free, I left him. Since than both of us have been trying to get a divorce. But all the lawyers told us to go back to each other as we had no grounds for divorce. But my husband wanted the other woman. So I thought if I were caught stealing, it would give him grounds on which to sue."

The girl-bride has been supporting herself by working at a soda-fountain in a department store. She was arrested after she had stolen a dress. Her act was so crude that she was easily caught and bears out her statement that she committed the theft purely for the purpose of getting herself arrested.

"I want to see that husband of your," snapped the judge. "I want to see what manner of man it is that will permit you to get yourself in a mess like this. Case continued to February 7 and I want the police to bring this husband in here. I am going to get at the bottom of this thing."

DECLARES ALL GIRLS SHOULD BE CAGED

NEW YORK JUDGE ROILED BY MANY ANNULMENT SUITS HEARD

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—"Every girl when she gets to be about 15 or 16 years of age ought to be put in a cage and shut up until she is 25," declared Justice Ford from the bench in the midst of a series of annulment suits which he heard today.

In the annulment cases either the boy or girl must be under age when the marriage knot was tied. Justice Ford had listened to a half-dozen young women tell how they consented to marry when they were around 16 years of age. And in most cases disillusionment and separation follow within a few days or weeks. It was a continuation of such testimony that brought the jurista's remarks concerning caging youngsters until they reached a more sensible age.

Justice Ford also expressed his opinion in court today on the new so-called "Enoch Arden law," which permits the dissolution of marriage on either party being absent and of unknown whereabouts for a period of five years.

When Fred L. Hackenburg, counsel for Mary Fanning, informed the court that he also was a member of the Legislature, Justice Ford said:

"You may tell your colleagues in the Legislature that in my opinion this law was passed to fit the case of some friend and good fellow."

LAWYER DISBARMENT ASKED IN GOULD FIGHT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 26.—Charges that Thomas L. Chadbourne, Jr., prominent corporation lawyer, had connived with George J. Gould to make large commissions out of the administration of the $73,000,000 estate of the late Jay Gould, were laid before the Appellate division of the Supreme Court today by the grievance committee of the New York Bar Association.

Disbarment was asked.

F OAKS IN WAR ON POLICE STATION 'FIXERS'

...man Is Fired and Held on ...tion Charge; Asserted Rum Ring Leader is Seized

...g as a ring of asserted "fixers", said to have head-...Central Police Station and the City Hall, Chief of ... yesterday ordered the arrest of J. S. Ealey, 55 ... negro and self-styled "king" of Central avenue, ...y to violate the Volstead Act.

Following the arrest of Ealey, who was taken into custody at 1523 South Central avenue after he had accepted, the police say, $75 in marked currency from another negro as protection money, Policeman William W. Wilson, an emergency officer, was discharged from the force and locked in the County Jail on an extortion charge growing out of another case of a Volstead violation.

The third move on the war against the "fixers" came when a special squad was organized late yesterday afternoon by Lee Heath, captain of Central Division, to check up on all persons making Central Police Station and the Police Courts their headquarters. Numbers of the suspected "fixers" were warned not to return to the police station excepting on official business.

COMPLAINTS NUMEROUS

The arrest of Ealey came after scores of complaints regarding his transactions on Central avenue had been received by Chief Oaks and Capt. Heath. According to the reports, Capt. Heath yesterday stated Ealey for months has been a go-between on Central avenue for bootleggers and others wishing special favors from the police department and officials at the City Hall.

When Ealey was taken into custody by Sergt. Massey and Detective Lane the officers say he had just completed a deal with B. D. Perry, a negro, to open a bootlegging dive at 1523 South Central avenue. Concealed in the establishment the police say they heard Ealey offer Perry protection for $75 down and $50 a month as a license. The money, police say, was paid by Perry and the arrest was then made.

In addition to the charge on which Ealey was arrested, Capt. Heath asserts a number of other charges of like character are under investigation against the man and other complaints may be asked for from Federal and county authorities.

EX-PATROLMAN ARRESTED

Patrolman Wilson was dismissed from the force and arrested after the charge of extortion had been placed against him by Max Z. King of 1039 North Bonnie Brae street. According to King, Wilson, with two other police officers, was called to his home by a stranger who claimed to have purchased a drink of whisky from him. Wilson negotiated with King in the presence of several witnesses for the payment of $100, threatening to arrest him if the payment was not made, according to evidence in the hands of the police. The payment

LENIENCY PLEA KICKING BACK

Letter Signed by Justice Richardson Stirs Ire

Country Judge Asked to Swap Clemency for "Friends"

Flatly Refuses; "Error," Says Our Magistrate

City Recorder J. H. Murray of Lynwood yesterday made public a letter to him signed by Police Judge George S. Richardson of this city, in which the latter requests leniency for a personal friend cited to appear for trial in Recorder Murray's court, and offering to reciprocate the favor "at all times."

Recorder Murray likewise gave out his reply in which he declares the proposal to be part of a spirit of favoritism calculated to break down respect for law and constituted authority and declining to accede to the request.

When the matter was brought to his attention yesterday, Justice Richardson declared that his stenographer had misunderstood his instructions, stating that he merely intended to ask the amount of bail and the time set for trial. He said he does not remember signing the letter.

The incident arose through the arrest of G. E. Berkson, who resides at the Alexandria, by Traffic Officer E. M. Erkfitz, on the 11th inst., charged with speeding through Lynwood at thirty-six miles an hour.

THE LETTER

Justice Richardson's letter is dated the 15th inst. and is on his official stationery. Bearing the heading, "Police Court, Los Angeles City, Department Four," and carrying the city seal, it reads as follows:

City Recorder,
Lynwood, Cal.

Dear Sir: In Re: G. E. Berkson.

Regarding the above case which comes up in your court January 17th:

Mr. Berkson is a personal friend of mine and any leniency you may extend in the matter will be appreciated.

Thanking you for the courtesy of your attention to this and assuring you that I am at all times ready to reciprocate likewise, I beg to remain

Yours very truly,
[Signed]
GEO. S. RICHARDSON,
Police Judge.

THE REPLY

Recorder Murray replied as follows:

Jan. 24, 1923.

Hon. George S. Richardson
Dept. Four, Police Court,
Los Angeles, Cal.

In re G. E. Berkson.

Dear Judge Richardson:

I have your letter of the 15th inst., asking clemency in behalf of Mr. Berkson.

Now Judge Richardson, first of all I want to say to you that if there were anything that I could do that would be of assistance to you or that would be pleasing to you without stultifying myself or insulting the court with which you and I are connected, it is needless to say to you that I would be pleased in so doing. In this matter, however, my conviction is that notwithstanding the fact that both you and myself are temporarily presiding in a court usually referred to and denominated as an inferior court, still it is a fact that both you and I have taken the same oath to perform our duties to the best of our abilities as though we occupied the position of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court. My conception of the carrying out of

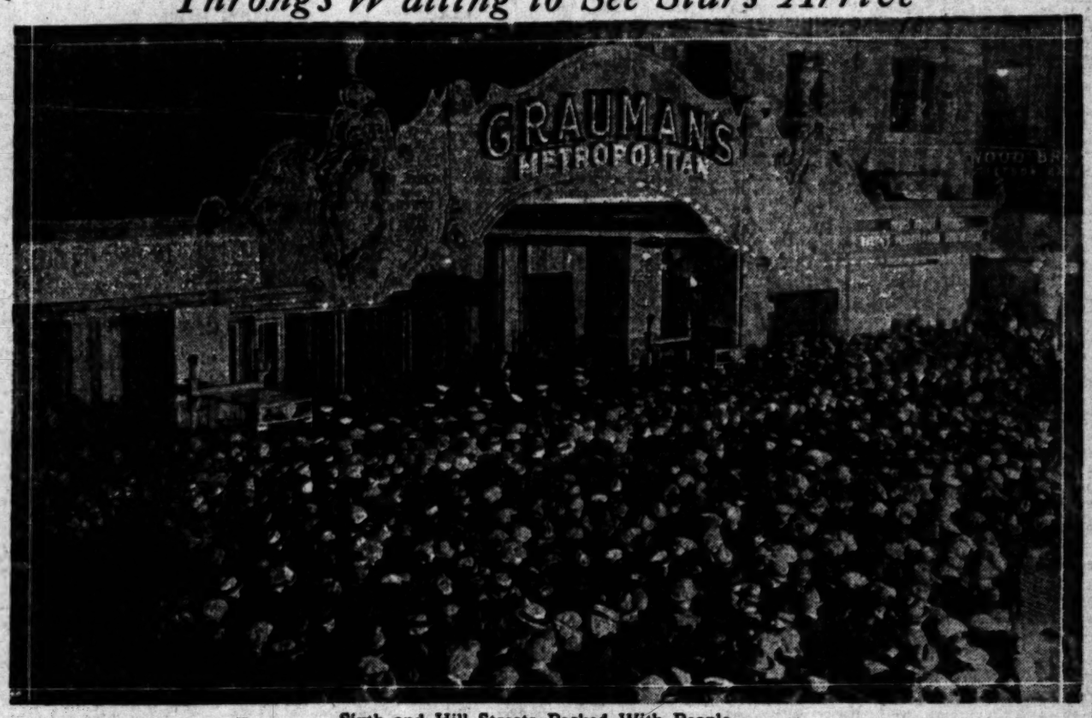
Throngs Waiting to See Stars Arrive



Sixth and Hill Streets—Packed With People

A crowd numbering many thousands crowded the thoroughfares last night for blocks around Grauman's Metropolitan Theater when it was first opened to the public.

ATHLETIC PLANT TO BE BUILT

Twelve-Story, Up-to-Date Building is Planned by Mt. Elsinore Country Club

Arrangements are being completed for a new twelve-story athletic club building in Los Angeles to be operated in conjunction with the Mount Elsinore Country Club which has been recently incorporated as the Southern California Athletic and Country Club.

A building committee has been appointed and architects are busy on plans for the proposed structure.

Decision to erect an athletic club in conjunction with the country club was taken by the directorate recently. It had been first intended to operate exclusively as a country club but numerous requests to enlarge its activities caused the officials to change their plans to include the athletic club.

One of the features of the new athletic club will be a department for women and children members of the organization. This department will be designed and equipped for their exclusive use and will be created to meet the growing demand for facilities to be used by women and children in improving themselves physically.

It is planned to make the club "the last word" in such structures. One of the largest swimming pools in the country is planned in addition to golf practice courts. It is expected to complete the new club by 1924. Membership in the club will be by invitation and no stock is to be sold.

CROWD SURGES AT THEATER

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

With a huge crowd surging around the entrances, almost demanding admission, and one of the most brilliant assemblages of stars ever gathered for a premiere within the doors of a theater, Grauman's Metropolitan opened with a dazzling splendor last night. The long-awaited occasion attracted more excitement than any similar event in the history of the city. It had been heralded for months and the culmination brought between 20,000 and 30,000 persons to the vicinity of the theater.

The crowds stretched from the entrances down the street for a block each way from the intersection of Sixth and Hill streets. They centered at the entrance and it required the united force of both the police and the militia to hold them back.

The crowd which attended the opening received ample demonstration of the fact that Sid Grauman has a theater which is perhaps unrivaled in the country. The massive magnificence of the construction, the fountains of beautifully colored light that play over the interior and the ensemble of settings, music and pictures luring the eye to the stage promise to excel all past efforts.

NOT GLAMOUROUS OPENING

The premiere of the theater was not a glamourous one in the commonly accepted sense. Speeches by the prominent were heard, ending with a tribute to Sid Grauman himself, and a brief statement was made by him to the effect that the theater belonged to the public and that the greatest happiness that he could have would be his knowledge of the public's enjoyment of it.

Following his talk a number of stars appeared on the stage, among them being Jackie Coogan, whom Mr. Grauman took in his arms and hugged, and Ruth Roland, who planted a kiss on Mr. Grauman's lips that brought a wave of applause from the audience.

Other players who appeared upon the stage included Richard Dix, Jack Holt, Larry Semon, Bryant Washburn, Antonio Moreno, Hobart Bosworth, Douglas MacLean, Walter Long and Bull Montana. Bull's appearance was one of the climaxes of the affair, for Bull made a speech during which he affirmed: "I never see such a big theater in my life."

The various stars and speakers were introduced by Theodore Roberts, Famous Players-Lasky character actor, whose first words, when he reached the stage, probably expressed a sentiment that was general among those who were actually appearing: "I feel about an inch high."

VASTNESS OF THEATER

The vastness of the theater undoubtedly gives this effect and it promises to be especially fine as

VENGEANCE IS BLAMED FOR ATTACK

Bay City Detective Says Herb Wilson's Friends Are Responsible

Efforts of friends of Herbert Wilson, convicted murderer and accused robber, to revenge his capture on E. B. Shewbridge, were declared responsible for an attack on Shewbridge at his San Francisco home Thursday night, according to dispatches from that city yesterday.

Shewbridge, detective for the Retail Merchants' Protective Association, was responsible for the capture of Wilson and of Herbert Cox on charges of burglary at Hale's Department Store, San Francisco, where a safe was opened and $15,000 taken. It is asserted Wilson accused Cox of "squealing" about the Hale job and shot him in consequence.

Shewbridge declared yesterday he had received several threatening letters recently, one of which said he "would get what Cox got." A machine drove up to his house Thursday night the detective said, and while three men remained in it two got out and tried to puck the lock of his front door.

A pistol battle followed, in which Shewbridge wounded one of the men, he asserts. This man was dragged away by companions, who then fled, the detective declares. He believes the men were friends of Wilson's. Shewbridge lives at 101 Sussex avenue, San Francisco.

Court Revives Divorce Decree of Palmerstons

Declaring she had been coerced into consenting that her interlocutory decree of divorce be set aside, Mrs. Elsie Palmerston obtained from Judge Keetch in Superior Court yesterday an order reinstating the decree. She declared she was very much afraid of her husband, Lorenzo C. Palmerston, and denied that a reconciliation had taken place or that they were living together.

Judge Craft, who set the decree aside at Palmerston's request, was a witness before Judge Keetch and declared he did so because of the apparent reconciliation.

Mrs. Palmerston produced a letter from her husband in which he said he did not want the decree to stand for business reasons, and that if she would permit it to be set aside he would never bother her again.

Mrs. Palmerston's divorce was granted on the ground of cruelty. She said her husband, described as an "ex-prize fighter," struck and kicked her.

FOR NORTH DAKOTANS

All who have lived in North Dakota are invited to a picnic-reunion, all day Saturday, February 3, in Sycamore Grove Park. Being baskets well-filled and share with friends. JURY SAYS DEFENDANT IS GUILTY

"Little Mac" Pleads He Was Insane When Crimes Were Committed

William Lenehan, alias "Little Mac," was convicted by a jury in Judge McCormick's department of Superior Court yesterday on two counts of robbery and one count of attempted robbery. He was found not guilty on a fourth charge of assault, with intent to commit murder. "Little Mac" spoke in his own defense, pleading insanity.

"I didn't know when I was pulling off those jobs," he said. "I'd take a jolt and we'd start out.

"Little Mac" was the chief figure in a series of fur robberies in which loot valued at $200,000 was taken more than a year ago. He engineered the return of the furs to secure immunity and later assisted police in trapping "Red" Lambertson, who attempted to derail the Coast Line Limited near Burbank.

While on the stand he told of being placed in a tank with I.W.W. prisoners at the County Jail.

"They were told that I had killed a Wobbly," he said. "But Lambertson wasn't a Wobbly. He an anarchist. Do you know what those Wobblies did? They elected me secretary and treasurer of their outfit."

CONVICT MEMBER BANDIT GANG

The last of the Wheaton-Rowell gang of bandits, who more than a year ago shot Patrolmen Chester and Brett to death in a gun duel, was sentenced to a period of from one to fourteen years at San Quentin yesterday by Judge Avery in Superior Court.

He was Edward Patterson, and was found guilty of perjury in furnishing a false alibi for James Wheaton and Calvin Rowell, who now are awaiting execution at San Quentin for the murder of the two patrolmen.

Two other members of the band also are serving life sentences at San Quentin for the same crime.

Chambers of Commerce Back Reapportionment Plan

Women Enter Lists to Compel Legislative Enactment

City governments, civic societies, clubs and individuals in Southern California should address their letters or telegrams demanding our rights in reapportionment to their respective Senators and Assemblymen or to Senator Charles W. Lyon, chairman of the Southern California delegation at Sacramento, asking him to bring the matter to the attention of his colleagues.

"Loyal Americans who didn't believe in the Eighteenth Amendment are living up to that Amendment because it is a part of the fundamental law of the nation, so what can we expect from the average citizen if members of the State Legislature deliberately ignore the Constitution of the State which they have taken a solemn oath to uphold and support?" Frank A. Miller of Riverside, member of the Riverside County Republican Central Committee, said yesterday in commenting on the refusal of the Legislature to make the long-due reapportionment of Assembly districts. "There is only one thing in fairness that California can do in the reapportionment of Assembly and Senatorial districts and that is to carry out the provisions of the Constitution as nearly as conditions will permit."

Indignation at the attitude of the northern legislators and the suggestion that a compromise measure might carry continue to spread throughout Southern California, whose population gains make it entitled to nine additional Assemblymen and two more Senators.

The editorial of a week ago in "The Times," which was the signal for a general protest against the reapportionment delay and talk of compromise, has been widely quoted by the press of other southern cities.

SANTA ANA ACTION

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce directors have adopted unanimously resolutions favoring reapportionment and endorsing the campaign of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and the other local business organizations. Strong sentiment prevails in favor of immediate action on that part of the State and it is felt that Orange county should comprise a Senatorial district on the basis of population, as provided for in all the reapportionment plans so far advanced.

At Santa Barbara the Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday and, it is assured, will adopt resolutions similar to those of the Santa Ana chamber.

The Glendora Chamber of Commerce Thursday night adopted resolutions calling for immediate legislation to provide for reapportionment. The chamber stands behind the indorsement with any effort it can exert to obtain such a reapportionment, said a news dispatch from Glendora last night.

The Pomona Chamber of Commerce yesterday sent a telegram to Gov. Richardson requesting that a Reapportionment Act be adopted. The telegram follows:

B. L. COOPER, president,

Telegrams also were dispatched to both Senator Joseph A.

TACTICS OF INQUISITION

Four Dry Agents, Including C. H. Wheeler, Accused in Testimony of Year-old Case Trial

Inquisition tactics to force confessions of bootlegging were charged against C. H. Wheeler, James Krumhansel, J. A. Doyle and James Pierce, prohibition agents, in testimony given before Justice Baird yesterday by James Fiore, a rancher, and Bartola Ferraro, 11 years of age, 2418½ East First street.

Wheeler, whose headquarters is now San Francisco, is under $20,000 bond on another charge of assault by means likely to do great bodily harm brought in behalf of Mrs. Margarita D'Aiuto, whom he is asserted to have beaten during a raid Wednesday.

The case heard yesterday dates back to January, 1922, when the dry agents are accused of having hung Fiore and Ferraro by means of handcuffs and to have assaulted the latter violently "with hands and feet and the use of a billy and other weapons described as the butt-ends of revolvers."

TESTIMONY OF FERRARO

Testimony given by young Ferraro was to the effect that he was riding in an automobile with his uncle, Joe Tierce, near Palms, Jan. 30, 1922, and that the prohibition agents stopped them on the boulevard and compelled them to drive to the Fiore ranch. Assertions that the boy had a revolver were explained by him when he said he was merely playing with an empty weapon. He said the agents handcuffed him, that Doyle slapped him and that he was raised above the floor by the handcuffs in an attempt to force him to give information.

Fiore took the stand and gave

HIGHER PAY FOR POLICE

Crime Commission's Work Bears Fruit; Firemen Included in Rise

Mayor Cryer, Chief of Police Oaks and Fire Chief Scott yesterday expressed their appreciation of the unanimous action of the City Council in increasing the salaries of 2006 members of the city's police and fire departments, to take effect March 1. The increase will cost the city $140,000 for the remainder of the fiscal year ending June 30 and will add an expense of $420,000 to the city for the entire fiscal year, 1923-24.

The Crime Commission of the Community Development Association, which has devoted a considerable time to a consideration of the problem of police pay and has held several conferences with city officials on the subject, recommended an entrance pay of $150 per month for patrolmen and the addition of 500 men to the police department. The new schedule adopted provides for an entrance pay of $140 per month with yearly increases of $10 per month for four years. An increase in the number of patrolmen will be considered with the budget for the ensuing year.

More firemen will be required next year to man the fourteen new firehouses to be built under the $2,500,000 fire bond issue authorized by the voters at the November election. The Councilmen are hopeful that with the increases in salaries authorized yesterday efficient men can be obtained and held in the police and fire departments.

GENERAL INCREASE $20

In general, the increases granted yesterday amounted to $20 a month for each policeman and fireman included in the ordinance, which was recommended by the Finance Committee, of which Councilman Mushet is chairman. Councilman Mushet has long fought for increases in salaries for policemen and firemen and for additions to the personnel of the departments.

IMMENSE CROWD OPENS THEATER

Grauman's Metropolitan Has Dazzling Premiere

The real beauty of the stage background was disclosed in a dance production, directed and supervised by Anita Peter Wright, and described as a terpsichorean "Fantasy of the Woods." In this a luminous and shimmering white expanse was viewed by the spectators. In front of this the dancers passed with colored lights playing upon their lithe bodies as they dashed too and fro and pantomimed a lyric story.

The projection on the Grauman screen is another remarkable feature. Never, I believe, has a view of films been less sensible of eyestrain. There is, I believe, practically none. The softness of the silver sheet's disclosure is such that one is hardly conscious of the fact that he is looking at a motion-picture.

The theater was appropriately dedicated to the public white the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner," by the orchestra. When the music started the musicians were invisible. But gradually they came into sight in front of the stage as the platform on which they were seated was raised.

BOXES FOR PERFORMERS

On each side of the house, in boxes, appeared a figure of "Uncle Sam." One of the figures in red-white-and-blue was accompanied by a marine and a sailor; the other by a soldier and a Red Cross nurse. They sang a portion of the National Anthem.

The boxes for the performers are an innovation. They were used with excellent effect several times during the evening.

Especially striking was the trumpet prelude, played by ten musicians, just prior to the "Grand March" from "Tannhauser," which constituted the orchestral overture.

To add to the music effect, Mr. Grauman has introduced an elaborate jazz band in Waring's Pennsylvanians. The members have all the latest syncopated wrinkles in jazz playing.

Henry Murtagh also pleased the audience with his rendering of "Pilgrim's Chorus" from "Tannhauser" on the organ, which has an extraordinarily mellow tone.

Many novelties were on the program, which culminated with the photoplay, "My American Wife," starring Gloria Swanson and Antonio Moreno, a feature that is a veritable fashion display in itself and that offers interesting semblance of the Latin-American atmosphere.

CROWD IS UNRULY

The early part of the program was punctuated at intervals by shouts from the crowds outside. At one time, due to the way they crowded around the door, signs of a riot appeared. The militia was forced to hold the crowd back with their rifles and several times struggles for the possession of the guns between members of the mob and the soldiers were seen. The police had to be continually on guard to keep the crowd from storming the theater, so great was the spectators' desire to obtain a glimpse of the stars and of the interior of the house.

A critical survey of the opening performance can only take into account the permanent features of the show. In a way the opening presentation was a disappointment to those within the house who had paid their $5 sums for the privilege of being among those present, in that they did not witness as large a parade of stars as might be expected for such an occasion.

Several calls were issued from the stage for celebrities to come forth and present themselves, but most of them remained stolidly in their seats. The group that did rise to the exigencies of the moment, both literally and figuratively, were chiefly men and the glitter of the screen luminary's gown was singularly absent. It was not the best evidence possible of good fellowship toward Mr. Grauman, in view of the magnificent domicile that he has provided for films in the motion-picture center, but at the same time there was lacking some of that clever management in bringing the stars before the public that is usually to be observed.

HAVE TO BE COAXED

Stars, like most other human beings, have to be urged to do things and one cannot exactly blame them for not giving up a comfortable seat for the sake of putting themselves on parade, unless a generous amount of verbal bouquets stimulate their interest and excitement.

In this one respect, speaking critically, it might, therefore, be remarked that the opening show could have been somewhat more dazzling.

Much pleasure is no doubt felt by the habitual first-nighter in being present at any opening affair and the grandeur of Mr. Grauman's theater, as first revealed with all the radiance of the first audience, is not soon to be forgotten. The usual formulae of openings, the speeches, were cut short. The principal talks of the evening were made by Judge Bledsoe and Jesse L. Lasky, vice-president of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, the concern that will supply the film entertainment for the theater.

Musically, future presentations promise to be exceedingly alluring. The orchestra will exceed in size at least any that can be heard in the film theaters in this locality. There is opportunity for a real symphonic quality in the theater. Ulderico Marcelli has a chance to make a name for himself with such facilities as are provided him as conductor.

STAGE IS LARGE ONE

The stage is the first of sufficient amplitude to permit large dancing acts. The one at the opening was in fact a revelation of finer and larger beauty.

A musical feature that was colossal in its spiritualized beauty was the ensemble of forty violins and eight harps. The "Ave Maria" was an especially appropriate selection for this group and the playing was warmly applauded.

Primarily, of course, the Metropolitan is a theater for motion pictures. It will undoubtedly be one of the premier homes for films long after the industry has passed out of its everlasting infancy. Mr. Grauman has built for the future with an indomitable faith. He has a theater that will endure for several and perhaps many generations.

Everything is designed to give the eye of the beholder full and complete freedom. Even the foundation of the balcony is built at an upward instead of the customary downward incline, thus giving a better view of the screen.

The theater is in a tremendous architectural panorama, with something to attract the eye in each separate portion when the spectators' attention is not focused on the performance.

THROUGH MAIN ENTRANCE

Of course, the house is ornate beyond any one's conception. One gets the most striking effect by coming in through the main entrance on Sixth street. Here all the massiveness of the mezzanine floor's decorative scheme strikes the vision. One gazes upon an elaborate blending of color on all sides and, above, finds that these assume shape in sculpture and fresco and painting at every turn.

Truly the pictorial note is sounded in every part of the theater, yet without distraction to the audience.

The building as a whole has a primitive massiveness and sweep. It is not quite free from draughts as yet but this slight detriment can probably be easily obviated and when it is, the theater will be a glorious and perfect example of the palatial and magnificent that harks back tos medieval era and yet is filled with the spirit of the present day.

"My American Wife," the present feature, is not the grand opening attraction that one might be led to expect but in the first weeks of the presentations the main interest will revolve around the theater itself. Other features on the program are to come.

Gloria Swanson is one of the most favored film stars and, for the reason that she offers a resplendent presence in her beautiful gowns, she is a most desirable luminary to shine on the beginning of a playhouse's career. Antonio Moreno is appearing in his first role of opportunity in years and the feature will mean a big return for him.

LOCAL OF THE PICTURE

The romantic local of "My American Wife," will attract the theatergoer. It offers a horse race in fashionable South America, a dual and some other items of excitement. Gloria plays detective in the picture and routs the faction that is rival to that of her lover.

"My American Wife" is therefore entertaining, though not altogether believable and offers a cast of rather exceptional interest.

Most of all, though, the public will want to see the theater and that it will flock there during the next few weeks the mob surging around the doors last night gave ample evidence.

OAKS WARS ON POLICE "FIXERS"

of the protection money was made several days later and all of it went to Wilson, according to detectives.

"I am going to clean out all the men in this department who are not up to standard," said Chief Oaks yesterday afternoon. "With the commanding officers of the various police divisions I am declaring war on all 'fixers' and am going to attempt to drive the professional go-between and 'fixers' out of the police station and out of the city."

Why are people interested in these things?
Do they merely harm folks or help them?
Should the Church be indifferent, antagonistic, or sympathetic with them?
Do we have to join a new cult to cultivate a new idea?
Why do these systems claims a sort of omnipotent quality?
How sympathetic was Jesus with the distresses of the people?

PAYING THE PENALTY

Now they are fining speeders $5 for every mile shown above the limit. The authorities might go out to the Speedway on some eventful afternoon and get enough to pay off the city debt.

CHEER UP

Nobody ever expected to welcome a prohibition commissioner with a double chin, but that is what we are doing. He readily passes for what, in the old days, they called a good scout.

IN THE PICTURES

Even David Belasco has surrendered to the lure of the screen. He is not only permitting the filming of some of his productions, but he participates in the direction and distribution. First thing we know Dave will be building him a home on Hollywood Boulevard. They all come to it in time.

BACK TO BRITAIN

Ambassador Harvey has returned to his English post. It is understood that he has taken a special course in watchful waiting and that his activities as a speaker will be slightly curtailed. It seems that our national diplomacy calls rather for observers than orators. We may be seen but not heard.

THE OIL BOOMERS

Judge Monroe holds that marketing oil "units" is the same as selling oil stock and must come under the supervision of the Corporation Commissioner. Units are the same as securities so far as the investor is concerned and there must be the same protection of the public interest. If this conclusion of the judge is to hold clear down the line it will put a crimp in a lot of oil speculation. It is the men like John D. Rockefeller who never have to worry.

A GOOD SIGN

Some critics are indicating a grouch because the President conferred with Justice Taft concerning the qualifications of possible appointees to the Supreme bench. There should be congratulation instead. If the Supreme Court could always indicate its own succession it would be even more erudite and distinguished than it is now. The judges are ever trying to build up and to obtain the best and the most competent for service. In the interests of the nation it is well that the Chief Justice be consulted as to the merits and qualifications of his associates. If the President advises with Justice Taft there is nothing to worry about.

HOW ABOUT THE OATH?

Do not State legislators take an oath to uphold the constitution of the State or something like that?

It seems that maybe some of them don't when they plot to directly abrogate the constitution by denying the reapportionment for which the constitution expressly calls.

It isn't as if there were any equivocation about the matter. It isn't as if the constitutional direction could possibly be misunderstood. It sets forth the law in language which any schoolboy can understand. It says that after every census taken by the national government there shall be a reapportionment in accordance with the figures brought out by that census.

It doesn't say that this provision shall become null and void as soon as San Francisco ceases to be the biggest city in the State. It is quite clear and explicit in saying that the majority of the Senators and Assemblymen shall represent the majority of the people, the districts in which the people are.

Therefore, it must be that some of the legislators do not take any solemn oath to uphold the constitution. For no honorable man could take such an oath and then scuttify himself. And are they not all honorable men?

THE CHANGING STYLES

"Fifty Years Ago and Now" was the caption of two contrasted pictures of a prominent Alhambra couple in the paper the other day and doubtless it was noted by many readers that they looked a good deal younger and vastly livelier and better in the "now" picture than in the "fifty-years-ago" one.

The latter picture was taken on their wedding day and showed the bridegroom wearing a flare-top stovepipe hat, a vigorous crop of facial alfalfa and, apparently, an unbendable board down his back. He wore other things, too, but those were outstanding. He was seated in a chair and was posed with ease and lack of stiffness which suggested that he was balancing invisible eggs on his knees and was scared to breathe for fear of shaking one off.

The bride was handsomely gowned in a hoop-skirt and other things which gave all the shapeliness of an elongated squash, and on her head she wore a hat, or something, which doubtless was the last word in fashion in its day, but no modern girl would wear it to the corner grocery for a whole year's supply of chewing gum.

Now and then we look on modern style innovations with dubious headshakings and are inclined to criticise. Sometimes we even feel that we are losing our national better judgment. But at such times nothing is more cheering than to take a look at a few photographs of the styles of bygone years.

A SILVER LINING

Measured from the standpoint of the idealist, whose hopes have been centered on the nations of Europe turning from militarism and toward the more peaceful paths of commerce and industry, the military occupation of the Ruhr by France is deplorable. In spite of this, however, the student of European affairs cannot fail to look upon it as a blessing in disguise.

It may be fairly assumed that France intends to hold permanently the territory she has taken. This being the case, it is reasonable to suppose that she may be readily persuaded that she can hope for no further reparations of indemnity from Germany.

While it never has been officially admitted, there is reason to believe that Great Britain, if properly approached, would be willing to remit all further claims upon Germany for indemnity or reparations. It must be evident to British statesmen, as it has long been evident to British commercial interests and economists, that her claims are hopeless. That collection can only be secured over a long period and in a form that is distasteful to her, for Germany can only pay in goods and Britain has more goods and facilities, now idle, for the manufacture of goods than she knows what to do with. Many expressions, purely informal and entirely unofficial, have filtered through from official circles that indicate that Britain is satisfied, as she may well be, with her booty in the form of Germany's West African colonies and the rich oil resources of the Mosul which she has practically taken over as her own.

Belgium, as a partner of France in the occupation of the Ruhr, may well be considered as having secured all that she can hope for in the way of reparations. That leaves only the reparation demands of Italy and the Balkan group of allies to be cared for, and it is not unreasonable to assume that Britain, in order to bring about settled economic and commercial conditions in Europe, will be willing, at the proper time, to undertake to reimburse these countries, either by territory, concessions or cash, for their claims against Germany. For, once Germany is released from the necessity of making further reparations payments, economic conditions in Europe will rapidly clear up.

Should these conditions become a reality, and there are sound reasons for hope that they will, the dawn of at least a reasonably prolonged era of peace in Europe is in sight. And this, too, in spite of the muddling of the politicians. The influence of the commercial and industrial forces is at last beginning to be felt. These forces, if not entirely guided by the economists, at least are being led by their own enlightened self-interest. It is this class that has finally forced the governments to see the folly of reparations and the economic decay that that policy was leading to.

With reparations eliminated it may not be wholly unreasonable to look for a period of unprecedented industrial and commercial activity that will rapidly operate to rehabilitate all of Western Europe and at the same time have an invigorating effect on the economic conditions throughout the entire world.

Great Britain needs markets. She needs the German market and the French market. In fact, she needs her entire European market. In 1913 one-third of her enormous foreign trade was with Europe, and in the single year of 1913 she shipped $200,000,000 worth of goods to Germany alone. It is the stagnation of this market that is the fly in Britain's economic ointment and, in view of its importance to her, it is entirely reasonable to assume that she will make a considerable sacrifice of gain that is only problematical at best, for the sure gain that this market affords under stable conditions.

Another factor that strengthens the belief that activity would follow the bringing about of these conditions is this. Germany, once freed from the nightmare of reparations with its constant financial drain, will buckle down to work. She will be spurred by the double purpose of necessity and hatred. Necessity to rebuild her shattered fortunes and actually provide for her physical needs. Hatred of her ancient enemy, France, for she sees that only by hard work can she prepare against the day of revenge.

Britain sees this, but, in spite of the threat of a war in some future day, she is willing to gamble on meeting that when it comes. What she wants is the advantage of the present. The opening of the present rich German market has more charm than the threat of a future Germany in arms. She is willing to grab the present advantage and let the future hazards take care of themselves.

AMONG THE AMAZONS

Listen to the words of the prophet. He says that the Amazons will return and that in the latter days the world will be ruled by skirts. Through processes of selection, propagation and training a mighty race of women will be developed. Possibly the weaklings and the males will be drowned, but, anyhow, the reins of power and authority will pass into the keeping of the Amazons. There will be a flock of Brunhildes capable of wielding the sword. There will be a petticoat in the seats of the mighty.

Luckily lots of us will have passed on before the day of the new Hippolyte comes. The Amazon inundation cannot possibly come while so many of the ladies are busy creaming their faces. If we are to have a race of regular fighting women it will be after Jack Dempsey has fled the scene. Just now the ladies are too busy with their hairpins and vanity cases to carry heavy artillery. A hatpin is a nasty weapon, but it is seldom fatal and it does not inspire dread.

But the prophet says that the reconstruction of the world must come through a race of mighty women—reared for that purpose. They must not only be able to meet force with force, but to overcome it. They will arise from various nations. The new Russian women will be conspicuous in strength and leadership and they will sweep Bolshevism from the world by might of arm. Possibly they may give us a sex Socialism instead, but, at any rate, the men will not be intrusted with office or responsibility. It will be the junk pile for kings and walking delegates.

We have had a race of Amazons on earth before and the world easily survived. The renaissance can be awaited without great apprehension. Most of us will be gone before it can possibly materialize. Neither are we going to run away from the mere threat of a skirt. We have faced powder before—especially face powder.

The ancient Amazons are said to have founded the city of Smyrna. If they did they made a fair and an enduring job of it. The Amazons were reported by Homer as fighting the Greeks in the Trojan war. They were friends of Priam. That is why the laundries in Troy are run by women to this day. But the Amazons were with Alexander when he started out to scuff the world. They knew how to pick a winner. The queen of the Amazons herself did not disdain to have a flirtation with the conqueror. She fancied it might strengthen the strain. The Amazons were a swarm of regular Dianas. Originally they were believed to be moon worshipers. They hunted by the light of the lunar orb. They had their moonshine, but it was the pure stuff.

One of the labors exacted from Hercules was the obtaining of the belt-buckle from the queen of the Amazons, but it is significant that he had to take another strong man with him to carry out the task. If the world is to pass into the keeping of a new race of Amazons there will be something to gossip about.

OCEAN WANDERERS

They may talk all they please of the old days of adventure and romance—there never was so extraordinary and sensational a century as the one we are now living in.

In every part of the earth unheard-of things are happening. The last strange story to come out of the east is one of the sea. In this one story are incidents enough to fashion a dozen old-time sea romances or tales of mythical wanderers.

Its main plot centers about a group of 500 Russian refugees, doomed apparently by the mysterious influences at present controlling the planet, to sail for ever over the waters of the vasty deep.

Think of it! Seven ship's companies of homeless Siberians with no piece of dry land whereon to set their weary feet. Compelled, like the wandering Jew, to keep moving on—from Vladivostok to Korea, from Korea to Japan, from Japan to the Philippines and from the Philippines to who knows what harbor of refuge or to what grave beneath the ocean waves?

The drama goes back to the bloody days when the hosts of Red Russia swept across White Siberia and drove these modern Acadians from their peaceful homes. The return means death. If they go forward the dry land is barred against them by popular dislikes and prejudices or by immigration laws.

Alaska was the land of their forefathers—there they might be at home. But Alaska has passed into other hands that may again thrust them back into the ocean to still wander around again like Noah's dove seeking some sign of dry land.

Far off in the Pacific the League of Nations might find them a mandated island no one else was quarreling over—but that would involve endless conferences and by the time the conferences were over there would be no refugees left to land on that mandated island.

And if malign influences at present affecting this planet persist other people beside these White Siberians may find themselves permanently "all at sea."

ROW OVER GRAVES

Threats are following diplomatic exchange of views in the dispute between Great Britain and Turkey over the Near East settlement and the dreaded "ultimatum" now hangs like a thunder cloud over the two governments.

Although the Mosul oil region has so far been the crux of the difficulty separating Angora and Westminster, other questions being on a fair way to settlement, Great Britain has suddenly thrust into the foreground possession of the territory of Gallipoli that contains the graves of the Anzacs who fell there fighting for the empire.

On their behalf the Turks contend these graves are scattered over too large a territory—some five square miles in extent—and that these five square miles cover positions commanding strategic control of the straits. They are willing to grant Great Britain's right to the graves themselves, but not to the intervening country.

European affairs resemble the face of a watch—you see the hands go round, but not the spring that moves them. Were both sides as concerned about the protection of the graves as they assume to be that question could certainly be adjusted without adding to the number of the cemeteries in the Near East by issuing an ultimatum.

To find out whether the British government is swayed more by sentiment or materialism the Turks have only to give way in the matter of the Mosul mandate and to stand pat on Gallipoli. The British are entitled to every consideration and respect in their determination to honor and to hold sacred the soil covering the last resting place of the Anzac heroic dead.

Alas! in dealing with European diplomacy, however, one can take nothing for granted. It may be sentiment, it may be materialism—it may be graves, it may be oil wells. Only one thing is certain. So far sentiment and idealism have taken no part in the actual drafting of European treaties.

WOMEN IN CONGRESS

Our gentler solons do not gain their stations on their personal prowess. There is a sentiment attached. Mrs. Winifred Mason Huck is in Congress as the successor of her dead father, Representative William E. Mason—also a one-time Senator. She was elected to fill his unexpired term. Now Mrs. Mae Nolan has been elected to Congress from San Francisco as the successor of Congressman John I. Nolan, her dead husband. She will complete his term. Both women have had a lot of practical experience. They are familiar with Washington and with the pangs and diversions of politics. Mrs. Huck had served as secretary to her distinguished father during much of his political career and Mrs. Nolan was intimately associated with the Washington chapters of her husband's life. She will represent him as well as her district.

Just now Mrs. Huck is specializing in the urge for a constitutional amendment which shall provide that war cannot ever again be declared except after the passage of a referendum or popular vote. As for Mrs. Nolan she avers that she will press those policies to which her dead husband was committed. Lawmaking ladies are no longer an experiment. Whether a woman will ever be elected to twenty or more consecutive terms of Congress—like Joe Cannon—may be doubted. They do not appear to last as long as men in politics. But give them time.

THE WHITE SPOT

Government investigators are able to report that the percentage of drug addicts is higher in New York than in Hollywood. The Atlantic Coast also beats the Pacific in the use of booze at the ratio of 16 to 1. As the truth spreads it is becoming known that Southern California is the most virtuous, wholesome and law-abiding section of our estimable country. We are almost prepared to admit it now.

RIPPLING RHYMES

MEMOIRS

All my friends are writing books treating their misspent lives, telling tales about their cooks and their uncles and their wives; memoirs writers come in troops, writing stories of their coops; modesty will loop the loops, if this memoir graft survives. Ten-cent people buy some ink and indulge in pompous prose, telling of the dope they drink and the color of their hose; of their journeys far and near, of the kind of cars they steer, of adventures making beer where the wild budweiser grows. Silly women take their pens and relate in great detail narratives of setting hens and of doings flat and stale; gossip of a frowsy past makes the reader cry, "Dodgast! These punk memoirs are the last I shall read while out of jail!" Every gent his pen will grab, since we have the memoirs itch, though his life may be as drab as a mudhole in a ditch; though he has no writing skill, endless pages he will fill with his egotistic swill, memoirs readers to bewitch. Every delegate embarks on the moaning memoirs tide, and we are such easy marks that no writer is denied; and we tread the pavement stones to blow in our hard-earned bones for "The Book of Jackass Jones," by all dealers now supplied.

MEN IN THE NEWS

BY RANDOLPH LEIGH

Two Past Masters in Cuckoory and Some Rare Birds.

The scene and the eggs in this drama are laid in a treetop—somewhere in Germany. The villain is the European cuckoo, long hardened to the role and to the abuse which goes with it. The innocent sufferers are the magpie, the wren and the warbler—rather frail material for hero-making, but bolstered up for the role by the publicity which dozens of able scientists and writers have given them. The accredited dramatic critics are Frederick von Lucanus and Horst Wacha. Those who should be interested and probably will be sooner or later, if they are not already, are: Prof. Coue and the general public.

Lucanus and Wacha, scientists of high standing abroad, have just announced the result of years of study of birds' eggs. Their work, it seems, began in the marvelous collection in Berlin and extended throughout Central Europe. When they first undertook it they were laughed at. Before long they were forgotten.

Today they have come back with data regarding the cuckoo which, apparently, has direct bearing on the question of autosuggestion, particularly as applied to Coue's doctrine that a mother, in the period before the birth of her child, can form its character and virtually shape its career by means of suggestion.

* * *

We have all been familiar with the story of the trick which the cuckoo plays upon other birds—placing its own eggs in the nest of a bird of another species and leaving to it all the burdens and responsibilities of parenthood.

In this country the cuckoo leads a more respectable life—building its own nest, hatching and raising its own young and causing no scandals in birdland. But in Europe he is just as villainous as he was centuries ago, when his antics became the subject of comment in the finest salons of France.

The greatest writers in both France and England have been captivated by the bohemianism of the cuckoo and have given him a lasting place in literature. Now, however, he is coming into vogue among scientists and psychologists.

"THE PLAY'S THE THING"

By The Foothill Philosopher

It is gratifying to note, in local theatrical circles and also and especially among dramatic students in public and private schools, the manifest desire (and in many cases the successful attempt) to revive the old-fashioned stock company.

Modern life is not so restricted that it must needs sacrifice one art for the sake of another. Men, women and even children of today are capable of enjoying beauty from many angles. In fact, as a rule, the person who can take delight in looking at a painting by Raphael will be, because of his development, all the more capable of appreciating a symphony by Beethoven.

Because "moving pictures have come to stay" is surely no reason why we should discourage spoken drama. To assume such a position would be to deny ourselves the wealth of one of the oldest, grandest of arts—if not, indeed, to doubt our capacity for enjoyment and growth. Such an attitude would be just as foolish as the determination, on the part of an evolving species of the animal kingdom, to dispense with eyesight merely because of the acquisition of a sense of hearing.

The art of acting is at once one of the simplest and most sublime of the arts. And because acting is a "natural art," because the desire to express the thoughts and emotions through the control of the body and mind is almost an instinctive trait, therefore the place of the drama in education cannot be overemphasized.

All life is a drama, and perhaps the better one realizes this fact the happier he is—for then he will not take anything or condition so seriously as to be adversely affected by it. He will not be hurt when the little joys, which he feels he might have had, pass him by—nor will he be deeply affected by those tragic occurrences "which, also, must pass away."

One of the first things a child does when he becomes conscious of himself, as differentiated from other things and beings around him, is to engage in play—either by himself or with other little companions. His imagination at once goes to work—and it usually works overtime. He converts sticks into castles, mud into pies, tin cans into grocery stores. In company with companions he acts as the father of a household—goes to work, comes home weary, eats mud pies, lies down to sleep, gives "medicine" to his sick "child"—is, in short, the hero of his own little drama.

And yet it is not only, nor primarily, in the development of the imagination that the study of drama and the participation in dramatic productions are of greatest benefit to the student, but in the development of the will which controls imagination and without which man would be forever unprotected from the countless images of the phenomenal world.

The child, living naturally, functionally, sees only "natural," beautiful images and is thus protected, even without the exercise of personal will. However, when one "eats of the tree of knowledge of good and evil" it is then that the ... conscious exercise of ... necessary, so that, ... parently evil ... required ... for the ... are and ... right.

FOUR DRY MEN ACCUSED BY BOY

a graphic recital of events of the four hours the agents were in his house. He asserted he was hung by handcuffs from a curtain rod and that while helpless he was beaten with revolvers and kicked by the agents, who he said demanded that he identify his partners in making or selling liquor.

Fiore was lowered to the floor three times, he said, and each time collapsed. He was warned that he would be killed if he told of the torture, he declared.

WITH DRAWN REVOLVERS

The agents entered his place with drawn revolvers, he said, and commenced the torture after finding a quantity of liquor. He identified the four agents as the men involved and accused Krumhansel of saying: "I'll be satisfied when I get all you ——— Wops in jail." When he begged for mercy, Fiore quoted Krumhansel as having said: "Shut up you ———, I have the law on my side."

Rev. Robert Shuler, Rev. Gustave Brieglab and S. T. Montgomery, executive secretary of the State Anti-Saloon organization, were court spectators.

"I suggest to the court that we put leg irons on him," said Dep. Dist.-Atty. McClelland, in charge of the prosecution. "Maybe he'll stay then."

Two County Jail turnkeys were in court waiting to testify. They were summoned to tell the condition of Fiore's wrists when the dry agents brought him to be locked up. Bartola, who was 10 years of age at that time, also was brought to the County Jail, but the turnkeys refused to accept him as a prisoner. The boy was taken to Juvenile Hall and later released.

RELATIVE IS WITNESS

Tony Ferraro, a relative of Bartola, testified that when he remonstrated with the dry officers for their assorted treatment of Fiore, they slapped him and spit in his face.

The hearing was continued until 10 a.m. today. Deputy Dist.-Atty. McClelland asked that Krumhansel, Doyle and Pierce be compelled to furnish bonds, and Justice Baird told them they would be required to put up $5000 at the hearing today.

Wheeler, it was found, is already under $5000 on this assault charge. This was disclosed when Asst. U. S. Dist.-Atty. McMeador said Wheeler was under $100,000 bonds in the present and similar suits. As Wheeler was leaving the courtroom he was taken in charge by Deputy Constable Adam, who arraigned him before Justice Scott on a charge of assault under color of authority growing out of the asserted attack on Mrs. D'Aiuto. Justice Scott set bail at $30,000, which was given by Herman Zubor and George H. Bloom. The case will be set for hearing today. R. C. Neal, who was charged jointly with the beating of Mrs. D'Aiuto is under $5000 bond.

Wheeler was accused of having kicked Mrs. D'Aiuto in the abdomen during a raid at her husband's home. Wheeler denied the charge and said she bit him and attempted to interfere with the arrest of her husband, Joseph D'Aiuto, on charge of Volstead Act violation.

that obligation is such that when it comes to upholding and enforcing the law we are not supposed to have any friends. In other words, in that respect at least, "Justice is blind." We do not hold that the positions we occupy were created that we might punish our enemies or those with whom we are not acquainted and to protect friends of ours or let them off as easily as possible, that is being lenient to them, regardless of whether they have violated the law.

Personally, I know of nothing that is doing more to break down the respect for law and constituted authority than this spirit of favoritism which seems to be altogether too much in evidence; it sometimes appears to be the popular conception that if the accused has a friend or is a friend of one who has influence with the court, regardless of the gravity of the offense, he will not be molested, while the unknown or friendless person "gets the limit." Now, judge, don't you think that we should conduct ourselves and our courts in a way to dispel this conception, for nothing seems more detestable to all lovers of "fair play." For this, as well as many other reasons not necessary for me to relate here, and while we may regret exceedingly to have a friend cited to "appear," I have never requested any similar court to make exception in favor of one of them. I say to you frankly, Judge Richardson, that if those occupying like positions to ours conduct their offices according to decency and their obligations, it will not be long before a more wholesome respect for the law is manifest in the land.

All I can say to you, Judge Richardson, is this: that your friend, Mr. Berkson, when he appears, will be given the same courteous treatment that is given to others; if innocent, he has nothing to fear, if guilty, he will be treated so far as this court is concerned, in the same manner as any other person who is similarly guilty of similar offense.

I trust, therefore, Judge Richardson, that this letter fully answers yours of the 15th inst., and that my position therein is entirely clear and satisfactory.

Very respectfully yours.

J. H. MURRAY.

Recorder of the city of Lynwood, Cal.

Police Judge Richardson, when invited to issue a statement on the exchange of letters with City Recorder Murray, laughingly "poohpoohed" the incident and waved it aside with a flourish of his hand.

"My stenographer should not have written the letter in that phraseology," he said. "I remember the incident, but I really don't remember if I signed it myself.

"I told the girl to write a letter to the Lynwood Recorder, but I merely instructed her to inquire the amount of bail and the time set for trial. I saw no harm in doing this much for Mr. Berkson. I only wanted to assist him in avoiding any unnecessary trips to Lynwood. That was all the information I sought but my girl, it seems, failed to follow out my instructions. I think she sent the letter without having me read it over. Anyway, I bawled her out when I did learn the contents of the letter and told her she should not have worded it as she had done.

DIDN'T STOP; ARRESTED

Charge is Failing to Aid Person Run Down

George W. Rose, 38 years of age, 226 West Avenue 54, was arrested by Detectives Oker and Craig yesterday evening on a charge of failure to stop and render aid.

He is accused of having continued to drive his car after running down and seriously injuring Mrs. Vera Lodgi, 812 Rose Villa avenue, and Guadelupe Sandobal, 323 Macy street, at the intersection of Macy and Alameda streets, Thursday evening.

PICKPOCKET THEFT REPORTED TO POLICE

Pickpockets, believed to have trailed A. C. Masson, 135 East Avenue 41, from the Farmers' and Merchants' Bank yesterday afternoon, robbed him of $895, he reported to the police. The victim boarded a Garvanza street car at the intersection of Fourth and Spring streets, and found that his money had been taken when he reached the intersection of College and North Broadway.

GRATIFIED OVER INCREASED PAY

Mayor and Fire and Police Chiefs Laud Council

Salaries of 2006 Employees to Go Up March 1

No Action on Personnel Plan of Crime Commission

The motion to adopt the ordinance recommended by the committee was made by Councilman Wheeler, who is acting as a member of the Finance Committee during the absence in Washington of President Criswell, who had also approved before he went East the increases granted yesterday.

Police department: 1099 patrolmen, present salary $120 to $150 a month, based on length of service in the department, new salary, $140 to $170 a month; seventeen policemen, present salary, $120 to $150 a month, new salary, $140 to $170; one woman probation officer, present salary $120 to $150 a month, new salary, $140 to $170; one man probation officer, present salary, $155 to $175 a month, new salary, $165 to $185 a month; thirty-one motorcycle officers, present salary, $175 a month, new salary, $185 a month; seventy-four sergeants, present salary, $175 a month, new salary, $185, and one city mother, present salary $165 a month, new salary, $175.

FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire department: Five hundred and nine firemen, present salary, $120 to $150 a month, new salary, $140 to $170 a month; eighty-three auto firemen, present salary, $150 a month to $170 a month; seventy-six engineers, present salary, $170 a month, new salary, $180; sixty-eight lieutenants, present salary, $175 a month, new salary, $185 a month, and forty-six captains, present salary, $175 a month, new salary, $185.

At present a patrolman entering the department receives $120 a month the first year and after four years' service receives $150 a month. Under the new schedule, a patrolman entering the service will receive $140 a month and after four years will receive $170 a month. No action was taken to increase the salaries of the chiefs and other superior officers of the police and fire departments.

Mayor Cryer expressed his appreciation of the Council's action and said he hoped serious consideration would be given soon by the Council to the Crime Commission's recommendation that the police force be increased 500 men so as adequately to police the city.

FROM RESERVE FUND

The $140,000 required to pay the salary increases for the remainder of the fiscal year was ordered by the Council transferred from the reserve fund. The police department increases will require $90,000 and the fire department rises $50,000.

Councilman Sparks, who seconded the motion for suspension of the rules so that the ordinance increasing salaries could be immediately adopted, said:

"I voted for the Finance Committee's proposed increases so as not to confuse the issue and delay the granting of raises, but I had hoped that the entering salary for policemen and firemen would be raised to $150 a month instead of $140. The Crime Commission recommended $150 a month and I stand with the commission, not only on this but also for increasing the police force 500 men. If it is found that we cannot retain efficient men in the police department and fire department at the new salaries, then I shall endeavor to assure higher salaries."

LOYALTY ISSUE IN STATE FIGHT

Rominger and Representative Allen G. Mitchell at Sacramento. They read:

"Resolved by the directors of the Pomona Chamber of Commerce that we earnestly request and urge that the members of the present legislative session discharge their full and unquestioned duty to the State and their respective districts by the adoption of a Reapportionment Act in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the State of California."

[Signed]

B. L. COOPER, president
J. M. PAIGE, secretary.

By a unanimously approved resolution the Republican Study Club in session yesterday afternoon at the Union League Club registered its sentiment regarding reapportionment.

That a reapportionment be made in strict conformity to the State constitution was urged and the club sent a letter to Assemblymen and Senators asking them to support the proposition with their votes when the Legislature reconvenes in February.

Plans were outlined to devote the entire program at the next session, two weeks from yesterday, to discussion of the question. Prominent speakers will be heard.

MRS. KELLY'S VIEWS

Mrs. Frank A. Kelly in her semi-monthly discussion of current politics said of the reapportionment plan:

"According to our State constitution, the number of our Assemblymen, State Senators and Congressmen shall be regulated by the population and provision is made for changes in number of representatives and for redistricting at periods following the taking of the census, which occurs every ten years. This is the plan by means of which the people may be assured of a fair and equitable representation. This is the plan approved by our Republican form of government; it is the law.

"California has increased mightily in population within the past ten years, some sections more rapidly than others. We have many more people and we are, under the law, entitled to a good many more representatives at Sacramento and Washington. The location from which these representatives shall be chosen is plainly stated. A certain number of residents of a certain locality are entitled to a representative. That is the law, the whole law and nothing but the law.

"But here we have at Sacramento the edifying spectacle of a number of law makers seeking to become law breakers. They would redistrict according to their own ideas; ideas opposed to constitutional enactment or they will not redistrict at all. What wonder that there can be no law enforcement at this time. The Governor wants redistricting and declares strongly in favor of it being done promptly and strictly in accordance with the letter of the law. The people, residents of certain sections who are entitled to more adequate representation, want it and are calling insistently for it.

POINT OF RESPONSIBILITY

"Who are responsible for the delay in this matter? There are stories afloat of compromise and of gerrymandering? This is not a thing which admits of compromise and any attempt at gerrymandering should be met with instant rebuke. And any member of either house who attempt any such step, or even countenances it, betrays the trust placed in him by the people who elected him. Any such member should be retired as promptly as possible from public service as unworthy of public trust and he should be listed as such for all future time.

"Efforts of the northern gang to rob the south of the legal representation is acting as a boomerang by arousing a strong sentiment in favor of dividing the State."

"Members of the Current Events Club, the largest women's organization in Ontario, were urged yesterday by Mrs. George T. Barr, chairman of legislation in the club, to give thought and study to the question of reapportionment of representation in the State Assembly and Senate.

In presenting the matter to the club, Mrs. Barr said the Constitution of California provided for the proposed reapportionment and that she had been unable to find any logical argument against it.

STOKOWSKI HONORED BY ROMAN AUDIENCE

PARIS, Jan. 26.—On account of the great success of the concert conducted by Leopold Stokowski in Rome, on the 21st inst., it was necessary for him to give a second concert yesterday when an entirely different program was presented.

Dr. Stokowski was deluged with flowers. He will sail for home on the Mauretania Saturday.

NEW RAIL OFFICE

Southern Pacific Leases Hollywood Boulevard Building

Announcement was made yesterday by the C. E. Toberman Company, Hollywood realtors, that the Southern Pacific Railway Company had leased the premises at 6768 Hollywood Boulevard and would open a ticket office at that address.

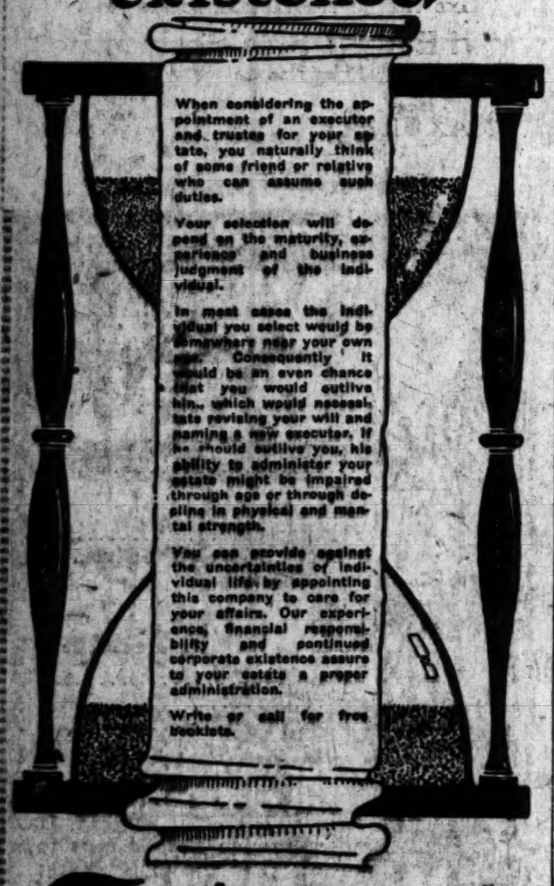
Choose an executor who will have continuous existence;



When considering the appointment of an executor and trustee for your estate, you naturally think of some friend or relative who can assume such duties.

Your selection will depend on the maturity, experience and business judgment of the individual.

In most cases the individual you select would be somewhere near your own age. Consequently it would be an even chance that you would outlive him, which would necessitate revising your will and naming a new executor. If he should outlive you, his ability to administer your estate might be impaired through age or through decline in physical and mental strength.

You can provide against the uncertainties of individual life by appointing this company to care for your affairs. Our experience, financial responsibility and continued corporate existence assure to your estate a proper administration.

SINGER VIEWS RADIO FAMILY

Visualizes Picture as She Entertains

Entertainment Supreme for KHJ Fans

Quartet of Noted Artists on the Bill

Soprano, 'cellist, harpist and reader—a quartet of radio artists—united last night to give listeners-in entertainment supreme.

"As I look into the tiny hooded microphone," declared Gladys Blackwell Pickering, whose soprano voice has delighted radio listeners from KHJ many times, "I visualize a composite picture of the whole radio family of listeners. I picture the head of a confirmed radio enthusiast, ears covered with the little black ear phones, eyes closed, intent upon catching every word, every note. Sensing this inspires me to give those who hear the best of which I am capable, combining the three essentials with which a singer seeks to appear by radio—unstrained vocal quality, melody and clear diction."

Those who have heard Mrs. Pickering fully appreciate the superb vocal quality which is hers. There is a delicate lyricism, harmonique coloring and a flexibility of phrasing that makes her songs superior vocal portraits. Five selections made up her contribution to last night's broadcast, with which was blended the sympathetic piano accompaniment of Ruth Bressem Payette, who is shortly to give a group of lyric soprano songs on one of KHJ'S evening concert bills.

GARDEN OF HARMONY

The feature of Mrs. Pickering's solo group was "In Your Garden of Harmony," written and composed by Charles Arthur Porter. The inspiration for this song came to the composer as he was endeavoring to select a Christmas gift for his wife. Knowing her love for flowers, a bouquet of roses brought to his mind the words "may the fairies remain with you in your garden of harmony," to which was added the remainder of the composition.

Dr. H. A. Berkes, 'cellist, who has a large following of admirers in musical circles, and in radioland as well, since he has favored KHJ listeners before, gave generously of his art to the radio family during last night's feature broadcast. He was accompanied by Carolyn North Berkes. Among his contributions were Goldermann's, "Nocturne," and Eberhard's "Song Without Words." Moreover, Dr. Berkes gave a 'cello obbligato to some of Mrs. Pickering's solos.

Kathryn Thompson lent much melody to last night's feature concert bill with harp solos that carried the acme of charm and appeal. Her "Fantasie," by A. Huhn, was featured by delightful runs and harmonious chords. Among her other contributions were "Song Without Words," by Dulez, and "Lullaby," by Schuecker.

Bernice Bennett-Peskett, reader and impersonator, and a member of the noted American Girls' Quartet, gave two readings, James J. Foley's "On the Road" and Edmund Vance Cooke's "How Did You Die?" She has appeared throughout the country in Chautauqua work and her presentations are always delightful. She has made a study of juvenile subjects, and entertained the kiddies last night in the early concert with one of Edgar A. Guest's poems, and also with one of her own.

Jewel Ott, soprano, accompanied by Mrs. Grover Probin, gave juvenile listeners three solos, "California is Calling Me," by Gilbert, "The Sugar Dolly," by Gaynor, and "The Cuckoo Clock," by Grant Schafer. Miss Ott's voice is distinctly charming, her interpretative ability ranks high, and she sings with equal ease in all registers.

Four artists joined in giving noontide listeners an enjoyable forty-five minutes from KHJ yesterday. Ruth L. Aldrich, whistler, accompanied by Henry Plumm, beautifully interpreted MacClymont's "Sunflower Dance," Penn's "Smilin' Thru," and Ball's "Mother Machree."

Hubert Finley and Lolita Mahn, violinists, were heard in duets that included "La Golondrina," by Serradell, "Sally," by Victor Herbert, and "Wild Irish Rose," by Olcott. Their muted instruments blended to produce an excellent result. That their music reached attentive ears was evidenced by numerous requests coming from listeners-in asking that they be heard again. They are to take part in the sacred service from KHJ tomorrow morning.

CHILDREN'S PROGRAM

Music and Lecture to be Heard at Southwest Museum

A program of unusual interest for children will be given at the Southwest Museum at 11 a.m. today. Several whistling numbers are to be given by little Dorothea Creist from the California School of Whistling.

Samuel Pettigrew, a young Indian from the Bible Institute, will sing several of Charles Wakefield Cadman's selections, and Frederick R. Maude will speak on the "Crystal Caves of California." The lecture will be illustrated by several beautifully colored lantern slides. An educational film will conclude the program.

The museum will give a musical program arranged by Mr. and Mrs. J. Spenser-Kelly at 3 p.m. Sunday.

FAIR BOWLERS MEET

Mrs. Harry Hopping, star woman bowler of San Francisco, will play Mrs. Gruber, star ten-pin artist of San Francisco, in a special match tonight at the Angelus Academy.

TWO COUPLES CELEBRATE

Four Angelenos Refute Play That "First Fifty Years" Are Hardest by Observance of Golden Weddings

BY ALMA WHITAKER

The week has been notable for two golden wedding anniversaries. And, unlike that rather lonesome and doubtfully joyous one portrayed in the last act of "The First Fifty Years" at the Little Theater, these two fortunate couples celebrated theirs in the company of many friends and relatives.

Today the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Chisek, 134 South Johnstone street, is the scene of a party at which more than 100 friends are assembling to congratulate this much beloved couple upon fifty years of truly happy wedded bliss. Many of these friends and relatives have come from the old home town, Wahpeton, N. D., whence Mr. and Mrs. Chisek came three years ago to make their home in Los Angeles.

Radiant golden floral decorations, comprising all the flowers that can be so lavishly culled at this time of year here, have transformed their home into a picture of sunshine. Their neice, Mrs. Alfred Fourmaneck, will herald the appearance of this fifty-year bride and groom with the Lohengrin wedding march, and Rev. J. Donohue will pronounce the blessing for them. All the old songs will aid in the romance of the occasion—"Silver Threads Among the Gold," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" and "Love's Old Sweet Song."

Telegrams from distant friends have been raining in upon the couple all day, ad many beautiful presents have testified to the love they enjoy. Their four children are with them—Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Graghill, of Williston, N. D., Mrs. M. W. Barry of St. Louis, Minn., H. E. Chisek of Wahpeton, N. D., and Miss Vena Chisek, who resides with them here.

The other golden wedding is that of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Brown of 340 N. Broad street, Boyle Heights whose friends also assembled to do them honor yesterday, and who are another example of fifty years of wedded happiness. Mrs. Brown, who is 84 years of age, is still a prominent and active member of the Hollenback Heights Woman's Club. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were married fifty years ago last Tuesday at Shakotee, Minn., and when the ladies of the Hollenbeck Heights Club entertained in their honor last Tuesday, a delightful mock ceremony followed the dinner, when the couple were married all over again by a replica of Uncle Sam to the tune of the wedding march, and joyous in the honor of their friends.

These are but two examples of "The First Fifty Years" as Los Angeles knows them, but two of the happy golden anniversaries that are celebrated every year in this city. And a splendid concrete refutation of that peculiarly glum and pessimistic play now showing.

FIGURES OF SKATER ARE FANCY BORN

Ice Performer is Held for Issuinng Worthless Checks Promiscuously

A. S. Jacques, who, police say, made fancy figures with a pair of skates on indoor ice rinks and still fancier figures on checks drawn on fanciful bank accounts throughout the country, was arrested for the third time within a week at Redondo yesterday.

C. T. Rule of the Burns Detective agency had pursued Jacques for a week after his escape from deputy sheriffs on the 17th inst., when he was arrested on a charge of passing worthless checks. The fancy skater's operations with both skates and pen extend over the country, Mr. Rule asserts. Jacques confessed some of the charges against him yesterday, Mr. Rule declared.

The complaint on which Jacques was first arrested here charges the embezzlement of an automobile. He was arraigned before Justice Baird, who permitted him to go with a deputy sheriff to a motion-picture studio to complete a picture in which he was working. Returned to court by the officer, Jacques was released on his own recognizance but a few hours later his second arrest was ordered on a charge of passing worthless checks.

When a deputy sheriff appeared at Jacques's home, 354 West Sixty-fifth street, the figurer asked that he be allowed a few moments in which to bid his wife and three children farewell. While the officer waited at the front door Jacques walked through the back door.

Mr. Rule took up the trail there the next day and yesterday aided by Chief of Police Henry and Patrolman Peterson, arrested Jacques in Redondo.

TO STUDY OURS

ENGLISH ACTRESS TO PRODUCE FILMS AT HOME
By Grace Kingsley

A woman picture producer is probably something of a novelty in England. However, there is to be at least one, if her present plans are carried out. This producer will be Miss Shirley Kellogg, well known to the London stage.

And in order that she may be a credit not only to her sex but to pictures, Miss Kellogg is even now en route to Hollywood to study picture making at its source, according to a telegram just received.

Would Have His Joke

There's at least one philosopher in pictures whom nothing can stop from having his little joke. This philosopher is Carter de Haven, working at the Robertson-Cole Studios. A couple of reels of de Haven's recently completed comedy, "Say It With Diamonds," were destroyed in the fire that swept the Chester Bennett laboratory the other day. When the comedian heard of it, did he rave and tear his hair? He did not. He looked startled a minute, scratched his head, then a light broke on his face as he thought up a good gag:

Mary O'Connor Coins One

Mary O'Connor, scenario editor at the Lasky studio, got lost downtown while driving her new car the other day. She lives in Hollywood. She couldn't decide just where she was until she caught sight of The Times clock.

"Why, what's the matter, Mary?" a friend asked.

"Oh, I don't know," retorted Mary. "I don't come downtown very often and I guess I'm getting Hollywooden!"

Here and There

Tully Marshall, playing the role of the criminal attorney in "Temporary Marriage," has never appeared in a courtroom scene before, either on the screen or in real life.

Kenneth Harlan worked more than ninety hours last week, a daily average of fifteen, in the feature role in "Temporary Marriage," the initial production of the Sacramento Pictures Corporation, in order to play the feature male role in "April Showers" at Schulberg studios.

"When Civilization Failed," the first of the three big specials made by the Leah Baird Productions for Associated Exhibitors, will be released March 11, according to announcement just made by Arthur S. Kane.

Will Rogers Visits Hiers

On their honeymoon tour the Hiers, newlyweds, spent one evening attending the New York City performance of the Ziegfeld Frolics. It was here that Rogers, one of the big stars of the presentation, recognized an old friend seated at a table near the center. Amid a roar of applause from parties seated at other tables on the roof garden, the film star and his wife were forced to stand up when Rogers called on them.

"Probably all these two people can talk about now," he said, "is how happy they are and the California climate. We know all about both. And we wish them joy of both and envy them, too!"

Billy Russell to Travel

Billy Russell, starring in a Blackie Daw story for Fox, is to take his company to San Quentin to make some of the scenes. Scott Dunlap is directing.

CROWDS AT OPENING GREETED WITH MUSIC

Festive music was offered to the thousands of people who assembled last evening for the opening of Grauman's Metropolitan Theater, those who entered the portals of this cinema temple, and also those who were disappointed in obtaining seats for the brilliant affair.

This music which greeted the crowds as they arrived was arranged as a tribute to Sid Grauman and in honor of Will H. Hays, president of the Motion-Picture Producers and Exhibitors, and formerly Postmaster-General, by the Los Angeles Letter Carriers Band.

The band numbers sixty pieces and under the leadership of Arthur Balus they offered royal entertainment for those outside the theater.

VIOLA DANA IN FIRST LOCAL APPEARANCE

Viola Dana is to make her first personal appearance in Los Angeles tomorrow night at Loew's State Theater. This event is in conjunction with the premiere of "June Madness," this petite star's newest comedy. Miss Dana's leading man is Bryant Washburn, with a brilliant supporting cast.

ORGANIST COMPLIMENTED

Ella Miller, featured organist of the Miller Theater is a very much-elated young lady. The officials of the Metro Company sent her a very nice letter the other day complimenting her for her clever musical score to their feature "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which is the current feature at the downtown house.

HOLLYWOOD SEES SELF IN COMEDY

Studio Club Girls Give Preview of New Christie Satire

Three hundred members of the Hollywod Business Men's Club caught a glimpse of the now world-famous Hollywood scene from a comedy vein when the girls of the Studio Club showed them a special preview of Christie's latest production "Hazel From Hollywood," a satire on the movies.

The first showing of "Hazel From Hollywood" was given as part of the Hollywood Studio Club's entertainment of the Business Men and was appropriate because the Studio Club's membership is made up partially of girls who are breaking into the pictures.

Miss Marjorie Williams, manager of the Studio Club for the National Board of the Y.W.C.A. is in charge of the campaign to enlarge the scope of the studio girl's organization, and she declared after the preview showing that every girl who hopes to come to Hollywood and get into the movies should see this picture, but that she should not take it too seriously as a real picture of breaking in. Christie's "Hazel" in other words is purely for amusement, and while the experiences of a movie-struck maiden getting a job in a Hollywood studio are more or less enlightening, it is not to be supposed that every girl can get into the movies as easily as does the "Hazel" of the satirical comedy.

LOBBY DECORATIONS BY FAMOUS ARTIST

Flohri, painter of stars, whose portraits for several years have adorned the cover pages of prominent motion-picture magazines, and who also is a regular contributor to Judge and Leslie's has come to Los Angeles at the instigation of D. W. Griffith, to paint for the Mission Theater the lobby display of "One Exciting Night."

Among the oil portraits which are to be given prominence are two of Carrol Dempster, who plays the leading feminine role in the Griffith mystery ten-reeler.

Flohri will paint six portraits which will be on exhibition during the run of "One Exciting Night." They will be the most expensive lobby paintings ever furnished any theater in the United States, and perhaps the most beautiful. He is working at his studio in Hollywood, and has already delivered two of the paintings.

"TO HAVE AND HOLD" A POPULAR PICTURE

The George Fitzmaurice production "To Have and To Hold," featuring Betty Compson and Bert Lytell, playing to capacity houses at Grauman's Rialto is still going strong.

One will revel in the shimmering luxury of the court of King James I. It is a good place to forget the worries of a workaday world and journey in the quest of romantic fighting, with red-blooded men, into the arms of a soldier of fortune who dares a hundred deaths to win one's love.

Betty Compson, Bert Lytell and Theodore Kosloff are perfect in their portrayals. Miss Compson makes a charming Lady Jocelyn, Bert Lytell a daring captain.

Fan Mail Big Expense to Film Actors

What are the biggest items of expense the stars and leading players of the screen are forced to undergo? That is, of course, excepting their personal living expenses.

Edward Martindel, one of Hollywood's leading character actors, gives three big items. First, he declares, fan mail is a terrific expense. Secondly, clothing not required in natural life but necessary to the screen. And third, personal publicity and advertising.

"I place the fan letters first because the expense is larger than any other single item," declares Martindel. "Requests for $0 to 100 photographs a day (and in the cases of many feminine stars the requests average hundreds daily,) are very expensive to fulfill. Pictures, bought wholesale, cost about 30 cents each. Stamps, printing, autographing, folders, a secretary to attend to the mailing and other items bring the cost of each picture mailed to approximately 60 cents. This means a total of from $90 to $150 weekly, a big drain on the salary of a film player."

DIRECTING MADGE

William Selter, who has the honor of directing the initial Madge Bellamy starring productions, has officiated at the debut of several screen stars, including Doris May, Helen Jerome Eddy and the Carter De Havens. With the completion of "The Tinsel Harvest," the first Eagle production starring Miss Bellamy at the Ince studio, Selter has started the filming of "Lost."

ANNA LURES SEA GULLS

We have heard of the lure of the sea. We have also heard of the potent charm of Anna Q. Nilsson. The latter appears to be the stronger, for she has succeeded in making landlubbers out of Neptune's gulls.

Anna Q. Nilsson, who is appearing this week at the Loew State Theater in "Hearts Aflame," has a fondness for birds.

Yesterday she was observed feeding the gulls between scenes at the Lasky studio in the Herbert Brenon production for Paramount, "The Rustle of Silk" with Betty Compson and Conway Tearle.

Hundreds of gulls swarm about the studio where venders of popcorn and confections set up their stands. They gather up any spare kernels of popcorn that might wriggle through the fingers of some hearty eater of the confection.

Miss Nilsson took pity on the gulls, who, one day, set up a plaintive wail because nothing more nourishing than a paper bag had dropped from the hands of the patrons. She purchased five bags of popcorn and fed the birds. Since that time she has kept up the practice, bringing different kinds of feed for them. The winged creatures never fail to keep their early morning appointment with the star.

TO FLY ACROSS COUNTRY

Negotiations are under way whereby a specially constructed airplane, designed to withstand the rigors of a transcontinental flight, will be placed at the disposal of Andree Peyre, Pathe player and aviatrix, in her forthcoming attempt to fly from New York to Hollywood according to a telegram received here from Mlle. Peyre yesterday.

The aviatrix left Los Angeles for New York several days ago for the execution of personal business at the conclusion of which she has begun preparations for her flight across the continent.

Mlle. Peyre, an experienced flyer holding licenses both in this country and France, where she is known as "the most daring woman in the world," will pilot her machine herself.

Her purpose of essaying the transcontinental flight, the difficulties of which she fully realizes, is to seek to hasten the day when the airplane is popularly regarded as a means of conveyance rather than a novelty. The fact that she is one of the "weaker sex," Mlle Peyr declared before leaving Hollywood, should not militate against her success.

Lois Wilson Not Engaged to Kerrigan

The published rumor that Lois Wilson and J. Warren Kerrigan are engaged is emphatically denied in a statement given out by the popular Paramount actress. Miss Wilson and Mr. Kerrigan recently finished playing the featured roles in "The Covered Wagon," the Emerson Hough epic story of the West, transferred to the screen as a James Cruze production, and Miss Wilson believes the rumor started because the two were brought together in the making of this picture.

Miss Wilson, in her denial, said: "An article, which recently appeared in a motion-picture magazine, coupled my name with that of Mr. J. Warren Kerrigan in a manner most embarrassing to me. I wish to state that I am not and never have been engaged to Mr. Kerrigan. Mr. Kerrigan and I are good and close friends. Both families have been intimate throughout the years that we have lived in Hollywood. I adored his mother, who recently passed on, and since first I met Mr. Kerrigan, I have regarded him as one of the finest men it has been my privilege to know. We shall always be staunch friends. My first three years in motion pictures I worked with Mr. Kerrigan and I shall always be grateful to him for his kindness to me. A few weeks ago Mr. Kerrigan and I were brought together, in the eyes of the public, because we played together in "The Covered Wagon" and at once the rumor, which I wish to check instantly, started."

SOME STATISTICS ON "FOUR HORSEMEN"

Here are a few statistics regarding Rex Ingram's "Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," which has been revived by Miller and is now playing to record-breaking crowds at the Miller Theater:

Field kitchens and a complete commissary organization were required to feed the army of 12,500 persons engaged in the production.

Experts Will Discuss Liabilities and Insurance

Industrial traffic managers of Los Angeles are invited to attend the meeting Wednesday of the Transportation Club at the Stowell Hotel, 416 South Spring street where a number of experts will speak.

Sallie at the Markets

Household Needs and Sallie's Helpful Hints for Saturday Shoppers

[Advertisement]

"Just being a "mere woman" is no longer an excuse for any of us to keep our noses so buried in domestic affairs which revolve, say, within our own "four walls," that we should become entirely unconscious of the world without, and the opportunities which may be taken advantage of with a substantial gain, which is always to our liking; especially when the "Lord of the Manor" is wont to believe that we, of the feminine gender, are incapable of business judgment. Let's fool them, let's get out the proverbial woolen sock in which we have slipped the pennies and dollars saved on marketing and household expenses and start that money to work. Here is how to do it: Do you know that the L. A. Gas and Electric Company, a corporation which makes our daily existence possible by supplying us heat for cooking, and in many cases warmth for our bodies, is now offering preferred stock at $92.50 a share, which will pay interest at the rate of 6.48 per cent yearly for life? Knowing the reliability of this company, its integrity and all that those words imply, should convince us that here is indeed a splendid chance to invest in a company that supplies the daily necessities for every Los Angeles family.

Thrift is the order of the day, and this offer is a most pleasant way to practice it. We first of all get a bargain by buying shares at $92.50, and then the anticipation of a generous interest, not saying a word of the reality of collecting the interest if we wish. The interest, of course, can be reinvested to still swell our funds.

Do give this proposition your most earnest consideration! Perhaps some day in the future, when pressed for a little extra money to make ends meet, the interest on a share or two in the L. A. Gas and Electric Company will tide you over your financial trouble and enable you to reach smooth waters again. In that event won't you just bless the day you took this advice to heart and sent in a request for the company's information relative to making money in a safe and sure and profitable manner. One of the biggest lessons women can learn is to invest their savings with safety. So often one hears or reads of losses by investing in almost unknown and unreliable companies with impossible but glittering prospectuses. Therefore, when a solid financially equipped and ably-managed growing institution as the L. A. Gas and Electric Company, one need have no fear but what her money is safe, safe beyond all idea of loss. But, get in direct touch with the company's office, Telephone, write or, better still, call for full information. Phone L. A. Gas and Electric Company, Pico 5300, or call at 645 South Hill street, room 391, any day.

Orange Icing—Rind of one orange, two teaspoons lemon juice, one cup confectioner's or powdered sugar, white of one egg. Grate orange rind and allow gratings to soak for some time in lemon juice; stir juice, sugar and egg together and beat thoroughly. Spread on warm cake.

Blue Mondays were never given that name for any other reason but because the family washing was done on that day and so the housewife actually dreaded the dawn of the first of the week, because, if the sun was reluctant to shine, all sorts of dire results followed. Not so today, because we have a laundry like the Crown to send out weekly bundle to. In their immense plant your clothes may be rough dried for a mere song, or washed, ironed and sent back to you snowy white and ironed in a way you never have had done at home.

Vinegar and yellow corn meal is a splendid preparation to use on your hands to soften, cleanse and even whiten.

Drink more water! Physicians are continually making this plea for they realize the benefits to be derived from a greater consumption of Arrowhead water, and so convincing has been their argument that Uncle Sam has deemed it of enough importance to purchase Arrowhead Springs for his convalescent soldiers, though the agreement entered into permits the Arrowhead Company to retain an interest, of course, thereby supplying their customers with Arrowhead water, which they couldn't get along without now.

To prevent custard from curdling put the custard cups in cold water instead of hot. You will find they are firm and without a drop of whey.

You never can tell when you will be called upon unexpectedly to play the part of hostess, or to supply the beverages your husband will call for if the party is to be "stag" and you as wife are supposed to take care of all such details.

Now then, if your cooler has a dozen, or so bottles of Arrowhead Ginger Ale or Kwan, "all is well." No confusion; no flurry. Just satisfaction is felt by you because you were thoughtful enough to keep well supplied with Arrowhead beverages and by your husband because you showed rare judgment, a quality all men appreciate. By the by, South 381 is the Arrowhead Springs telephone number. Give them a buzz if you are in need of replenishing.

One doesn't ordinarily dream of finding such a large assortment of beautiful new wall papers under ordinary circumstances in so small a store at Horace H. Mann's, 2411 So. Vermont. A small shop but very exclusive with papers, both domestic and imported, of surpassing beauty. Take a peep. You will surely leave an order before you depart.

Enthusiasm runs high with women who have but recently begun to use Schoutan's 100 per cent whole Wheat Bread. Made at the grist mill, 2300 South Vermont, where the flour is daily ground and baked with utmost care. Every one declares it perfectly delicious, and oh, so beneficial. Phone West 6179 if your grocer doesn't sell it.

Raisins put in the center of an apple cored and pealed for baking makes them ever so much more delicious, especially when the syrup is thickened and whipped cream put on before serving.

What there is about chocolate which ranks it first in popularity when eating and cooking is concerned—would be hard to state, but grant you must that McDonald's Roof Garden Chocolate has been extremely well received from the beginning.

A fresh chocolate cake makes an instant hit with every one in the family, doesn't it, and is so little trouble to make when you use the above mentioned brand. Housewives all over the city are becoming more enthusiastic daily over "McDonald's," either in powder form or in solid cake, though the former is much the more convenient to use, when making hot chocolate or mixing up a little icing. All good grocers sell McDonald's Roof Garden Chocolate so you will have no difficulty in buying it.

Just by way of variety why not give your family some of Young's Turkey brand corned beef? It isn't at all "proletarian," believe me, not that which you buy at Young's for you see it is superior to the old-time kind, especially treated for one thing. To best appreciate the difference you must taste it. Really you will receive the surprise of your life because instantly one can detect the difference. Ask for the Turkey brand. Get enough for Sunday night supper and the children's school lunch. See what a hit it makes with the whole family.

Keep a small bottle of turpentine in the kitchen for burns. You will find the fire is taken out immediately by such an application and no pain is felt.

A luncheon party repast—French cocktail, celery hearts, ripe and green olives, grilled mushrooms on toast, potato croquettes, stuffed tomato, Honey Bread, asparagus salad, fresh strawberry parfait, demi-tasse.

The Evening Bridge Supper—Thin bread and butter sandwiches made with Honey Bread, Glen Rosa apricot jam, pineapple and almond salad, Delmonico pudding, coffee.

1 egg
½ cup L. A. Cottage Cheese
1 cup sour cream whipped
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
2 teaspoons flour
1½ teaspoons melted butter

Mix the dry ingredients together and cream them with the melted butter. Add the creamed mixture to the heated milk and stir until very thick. After the mixture has boiled add vinegar, slowly stirring all the while. Cool slightly and add beaten egg. Put the cottage cheese through a sieve if necessary to break up lumps, using an egg beater, beat the cottage cheese gradually into the dressing until smooth. Lastly, fold whipped cream into dressing.

Are you certain you haven't some treasured silver put away—perhaps forced to discard because of being badly worn? Why not enjoy them for years to come and preserve them as well by having Mr. Greenyard, 239½ So. Spring st., replate them? No, indeed, the expense is not great. His work is most satisfactory and when finished can't be told from new. Just give him a chance to prove his capability, that's all.

Bobrick's Cloudy Ammonia has in it one of the purest antiseptic soaps made. Therefore, by using it in all your dishwater, cleaning and wash water you save in soap alone almost as much as the ammonia costs, to say nothing of the time and labor saved by reason of its getting results quickly and thoroughly without drudgery.

Coue's theory regarding auto-suggestion has been applied times without number to many things besides health. Could we not make up a little rhyme something like this: "Every day in every way White King Washing Machine does our work better and better?" and it would be true, as you will soon find out if you aren't acquainted with its uses in your home. White King Washing Machine Soap in its granule form so easily solvable is made for all washing purposes, though many are apt to think it may only be used in automatic tubs, which cleanse our clothes. That is an altogether erroneous idea. Lose no time in ordering a box, preferably the large size for economy's sake, you know. Truly, 'tis splendid, one of the biggest labor savers a woman can use.

Who said they couldn't afford to own a sewing machine? That's all "tush and nonsense" about the expense. You know what a perfectly wonderful machine the White it, how satisfactory for every kind of sewing! Tea towels, curtains, hubby's shirts, son's suits and blouses, all of daughter's garments as well as your own, made quickly and at such a saving, because terms are given both on new and used machines at the White Sewing Machine Co., 917 S. Broadway. Suppose you stop in and see what they have in bargains?

Why not change to Frozen Steam if you see a chance to "raise the standard of your home?" Out of curiosity some women have tried "Frozen Steam" because of the name. They quickly saw its value for it takes but a few days to prove that "Frozen Steam" is as different from common ice as day is from night.

True, few women delve into the technical reasons for "Frozen Steam's" superior advantage. They do want results though, and they are not long in forthcoming after the Merchants Ice and Cold Storage wagon has been making deliveries for a week even.

Remember this about "Frozen Steam"—it's pure; can be eaten or drunk with perfect impunity; is germ free and economical because it lasts so much longer. More reasons next week.

Why debate as to where to go for a worth-while luncheon or dinner when Mora's Grill can supply you with extremely delicious genuine Italian dishes and oceans of old Los Angeles atmosphere, because of its being situated at 107 West Market street, one-half block from the postoffice.

Put a little cloudy ammonia in the water to be used for washing windows. Makes them shine and they also seem to clean easier.

Maybap you have a friend who had a friend, who bought one of the wedding cakes made by the Elite Catering Company, on Flower street. Stories so often travel in that way and good things to eat must be talked about and spoken of to our friends, n'est ce pas? At any rate wedding cakes, in particular, made by the Elite are of a surpassing deliciousness, as is everything bought of this exclusive establishment.

Try shaking salt on your grapefruit instead of sugar. Many find it much more to their liking.

Just remember this when you go to buy chocolates or caramels. Betty Bolton Candy is made with creamery butter, pure cream and crystal sugar. Could one wish for anything more delicious and wholesome? Just try a box and note the individuality of each piece.

Tricolators are admittedly something "out of the ordinary" in coffee pots, made of china. Think of it, and you percolate your beverage in them, using half the usual quantity of coffee. Don't forget. Besides the economy there is the taste, the lasting strength and the price at the Cleo Koe Coffee Co., 316 W. 5th. They sell complete at the special price of $3.50.

Hurry up! Get some fruit trees planted now while such exceptional values may be secured at Winsel-Gibbs Seed Store, 211 S. Main and Nursery, 43rd and Main.

To remove old stains of chocolate, coffee or tea, moisten the spots with cold water, cover with borax and let stand a few minutes. Rinse by applying boiling water.

"Never tasted Dad's Favorite Cookies? That's half your life gone," was the amusing way in which just plain Bill—sturdy, small son of a dear friend spoke his regards for those delectable toothsome cookies which are so good for you along with their pleasing taste. Ask your grocer to get them if he can't supply you today. Um, but they're good!

Is there any sight more pleasing than a room full of little tots who have been having a party and have come to the best part of all—the ice cream, of course? Make it Hughes and then you are confident the children will not only adore it, but will be muchly benefited by eating something which nourishes their little bodies and helps make them plump and rosy—for Hughes Ice Cream is made of the finest materials obtainable. All that is necessary for you to do is to seek your nearby dealer, buy a quart to try, then the first taste will convince you of the truth of this statement.

Many women used to spoil their summer vacations and make not only themselves miserable but every one with whom they came in contact unhappy because they insisted upon putting up jams the whole summer long. Endless work, many failures, much heartache. Then, now, all is smiles and do you know why? Glen Rosa has solved the trouble. It's made like home-made, the same care, finest fruits, best sugar, and all you have to do is call up your grocer and give the order.

You would be surprised if you knew how many women are now buying second-hand furniture, in good condition, and making each piece over up-to-date and fashionable by doing the painting and enameling themselves with Frederick O'Brien's "Wedgewood" flat white paint, white enamel or varnish. It's an excellent brand, does the work well, costs little, and should certainly be given a trial. Remember the name and accept no substitute. You are certain to be pleased with the results.

PRACTICAL RECIPES

Helps for Epicures and All Who Appreciate Good Cooking

[Note—This department is conducted for the benefit of readers of The Times in the hope that the information herein contained will help in effecting economies in the home. Advertising considerations have no weight in determining the choice of this matter and no free publicity is given any product because it appears to be the subject of paid advertising. The Times considers that the public is entitled to absolute integrity in the news and other reading matter appearing in its columns and will justify full confidence in this policy.

Requests for recipes and information pertaining to the proper preparation and serving of foods will be observed in this column every Saturday. Address all requests to Chef A. D. Wyman, Laboratory Kitchen, 434 Ardee avenue, Glendale.—Ed.]

By Chef A. D. Wyman, M.C.A.

The next section of The Times recipe contest, which starts today, should prove the most interesting of the series. Fish or fish sauces will offer to the modern cook a wonderful opportunity to submit new and unusual recipes. Southern California markets furnish a large variety of fish of both the fresh and salt-water kinds, besides shellfish, such as lobsters, crabs, clams, abalones, mussels and oysters.

Fish furnish the best, cheapest and most digestible of all foods and good cooks the world over pride themselves on their ability to prepare them in many appetizing ways.

GOLDEN BUCK

M. Y. L., Long Beach, would like the proper recipe for preparing a golden buck.

Place in a saucepan one-third of a pound of finely grated cheese, add one tablespoon of butter and two tablespoons of buttermilk. Stir until the consistency of cream. Add two well-beaten eggs beaten with half a teapsoon of Worcestershire sauce, and a seasoning of salt and paprika. Stir until thick, do not boil, add half a teaspoon of lemon juice and pour over fingers of hot buttered toast on hot plates. Serve immediately.

FRUIT HARDTACK

L. R. T., city, wants to know how to make a fruit bar called hardtack. Sift one cup of sifted flour with a pinch of salt and a quarter of a teaspoon of baking powder. Add to it one cup of finely chopped walnut meats, half a cup of chopped seeded raisins, half a cup of chopped seeded dates, half a cup of sugar, two well-beaten eggs and half a teaspoon of almond extract. Mix well, put in a shallow pan and bake in a moderate oven thirty minutes. Cool, cut in short strips and roll in powdered sugar. Nice with ice cream.

MINCED CLAM CHOWDER

J. F. K., Hollywood, requests a recipe for clam chowder made with minced canned clams.

Place in a shute pan a cup of finely chopped bacon and heat, add to the hot bacon one finely chopped clove of garlic, and one finely chopped large onion. Cook until the onion is clear, not brown. Heat four cups of milk in a large saucepan and add to it two cups of boiling water and one large can of minced clams that have had all of the juice drained off. Heat in a saute pan six tablespoons of olive oil and stir into it half a cup of sifted flour; when well blended add the bacon and onion mixture to all the milk mixture and beat with a wire beater until thick. Add the clam juice and two cups of boiled potato cubes and the water in which the potato cubes were cooked. Season with salt, pepper and finely chopped parsley. Just before serving stir in two level tablespoons of butter.

PRESERVING RIPE OLIVES

E. H., Long Beach, asks that we give in this department directions for preparing ripe olives. As this information would not be of general interest and as it would require too much space would advise that she write to the information bureau of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and request that they send her their bulletin on preserving ripe olives.

APPLE DUMPLINGS

Pare and core six even-sized tart apples, fill the core spaces with a mixture of creamed butter and sugar. Dust with cinnamon and set the apples on pieces of rich pie pastry. Wet the edges of the squares of pastry and fold over the apples and join the edges. Set the dumplings in a baking pan just large enough to hold them. Melt half a cup of sugar and one tablespoon of butter in a cup of hot water, add two tablespoons of lemon juice and pour all around the dumplings. Cover pan and bake in a medium hot oven until done. Uncover the pan and brown. Serve on a hot plate with hard and golden sauce.

GOLDEN SAUCE

Place in a double boiler set over hot water one and one-half cups of sugar, five whole eggs and two tablespoons of vanilla extract. Beat until light and foamy; do not boil or cook.

WAFFLES

Sift two cups of sifted flour with four level teaspoons of baking powder, two tablespoons of sugar and one-third of a teaspoon of salt. Beat until light the yolks of two eggs and add to the flour mixture with four tablespoons of melted butter and one and a third cups of milk, beat smooth and fold in the stiffly-beaten whites of two eggs. Bake in a hot waffle mold.

LOBSTER OR CRAB COCKTAIL

F. A. H., city, requests a recipe for a sauce used for lobster or crab cocktails by one of the local clubs.

Dissolve one tablespoon of paprika in two tablespoons of tarragon vinegar and stir into half a cup of mayonnaise, half a cup of whipped cream, half a cup of strained chile sauce and six pitted and chopped green olives. Mix well; fill cocktail or supreme glasses two-thirds full with cold cooked lobster or crab meat cut in cubes and fill up with the sauce. Serve ice-cold and garnish glasses with lemon slices.

SOUR-CREAM COOKIES

F. O., Monrovia, asks that we print a recipe for cookies made with sour cream.

Beat to a cream one cup of sugar and half a cup of butter, add one well-beaten egg, beat well and add two and a half cups of sifted flour sifted with one-quarter of a teaspoon of soda and two and a half teaspoons of baking powder. Add half a cup of sour cream and when well mixed drop from the tip of a spoon on a buttered baking sheet one inch apart. Place on the top of each a seeded raisin and bake in hot oven ten minutes.

INDIVIDUAL RICE PUDDINGS

R. W., Long Beach, writes that she would like to have a recipe served by one of the popular lunch rooms of Boston.

Try this: Beat the yolks of three eggs slightly and beat into them half a cup of sugar, a pinch of salt, a seasoning of nutmeg and two cups of scalded milk. Butter well individual molds and place in the bottom of each six seedless raisins, fill lightly with cooked rice, pour over the custard mixture to fill and bake in a slow oven until set. Serve cold with jelly sauce.

ROAST SQUABS

For roasting use only plump squab pigeons. Clean, singe and remove the pin feathers. Cut off feet and the neck close to the body, and carefully draw and remove the windpipe and crop. Wipe thoroughly with a damp cloth; press legs against the body and fix in place with skewers. Rub the squabs with mixed salt and pepper, tie over the breast a thin slice of larding pork, place on a rack set in a baking-pan and bake in a hot oven fifteen minutes. Baste every four or five minutes, the first two times with two tablespoons of melted clarified butter. Remove the skewers and twine and place each bird on a thick slice of hot buttered toast, pour over a little gravy in the pan and garnish with branches of watercress and a lemon slice. For a vegetable to serve with squabs use green peas or salted Brussels sprouts or cauliflower maitre d'hotel.

RAMEKIN OF TUNA

S.O.S., city, asks that we give a recipe for tuna in ramekins without white sauce.

Drain the oil from a one-pound can of tuna, remove skin and bones and break in flakes. Beat four eggs until light and beat into them one cup of whipped cream, add the flaked tuna, season with salt and paprika, and fill buttered ramekins with the mixture. Place the ramekins in a pan of hot water and bake fifteen minutes. Unmold on a hot platter, pour over a good Spanish sauce and garnish with chopped parsley and ripe olives.

ITALIAN FRUIT PUDDING

M. A. E., city, would like a recipe for a fruit pudding made with stale cake.

Place in a bowl two cups of stale cake pieces and pour over them four cups of scalded milk, let stand until cool and then add four tablespoons of sugar, four tablespoons of melted butter, two slightly beaten eggs, half a teaspoon each of salt, cinnamon and nutmeg, half a cup of chopped seeded raisins, and two tablespoons of chopped candied orange peel. Mix well, pour into a buttered baking dish and bake forty-five minutes in a slow oven.

MIXED MUSTARD

F. G. R., city, says that dry mustard mixed with vinegar is too strong, and asks if we will give a recipe for a milder mixture.

Rub a bowl with a clove of garlic and after the juice of the garlic has been pressed out remove and place in the bowl four tablespoons of dry mustard and two tablespoons of olive oil, work to a smooth paste and work in half a teaspoon of celery salt, half a teaspoon of white pepper, two teaspoons of salt, two teaspoons of sugar and enough tarragon vinegar to make a thin paste.

TURKISH JELLY

R. D. A., Hollywood, tasted a dessert at one of the oriental restaurants when in New York that looked like cornstarch pudding, and asks if we can give her the recipe.

Mix one cup of rice flour to a smooth paste with one cup of water, add one cup of sugar and stir smooth with three cups of water. Place in a saucepan over a slow fire and stir constantly until thick and smooth. Pour into a deep dish and sprinkle over the top half a cup of finely chopped toasted almonds mixed with one teaspoon of ground cinnamon. Serve cold.

ESCALLOPED CLAMS

D. H., city, would like a recipe for escalloped clams, using fresh clams.

Open fifty of the small white clams and place a layer of them in a well-buttered baking dish, cover the clams with a layer of fine bread crumbs, dust with paprika and dot with small bits of butter. Continue this method until all of the clams are used. Pour over all one and a half cups of thin, rich cream sauce, cover with grated cheese and bake in a medium oven thirty minutes.

WALNUT GRAVY

W. K. M., Pasadena, asks for a recipe for walnut gravy to serve with boned breast of chicken.

Grind fine five tablespoons of walnut meats, place in a saucepan with two tablespoons of butter, cook, stirring constantly, until nicely browned. Pour in two cups of rich meat stock and let simmer for thirty minutes. Just before serving stir in one tablespoon of flour rubbed smooth with two teaspoons of butter, half a teaspoon of onion juice, half a teaspoon of kitchen bouquet, and a teaspoon of Mandalay chutney. Lay in the chicken breasts, let heat for two minutes, arrange on serving plates, cover with sauce and garnish with olive rings, sprays of parsley and lemon slices.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

Mrs. J.: By a bland diet is meant a nonstimulating and nonirritating diet. This would eliminate excess meat and protein or excesses of any food spices, tea, coffee, alcohol. It would include the foodstuffs that are smooth and not highly flavored. Cane sugar and acids would have to be eliminated.

Such a diet would be required only in such conditions as acute burns of the mouth or throat, or acute inflammation of the stomach. Sometimes feeble people who cannot chew and in certain surgical cases it is also necessary.

Dear Doctor: I get up often at midnight to 3 a.m. and have a desire to eat something. Will you please tell me some kind of a hay ration I can snatch at night that would not have excess calories? I am 64 years old. J. D.

Although you did not say you were overweight, I gather you must be or you would not be interested in low calorie hay rations.

About the best thing for you at night would be a glass of hot skim milk. You can have ten ounces of that for 100 calories. If you want to put a couple of teaspoonfuls of cocoa in it that would make it another 100 calories. Or you might have four ordinary crackers for 100 calories. A half slice of bread with a half level tablespoonful of butter would not be over 100 calories.

Send for our list of foods of 100 calorie portions if you haven't them. If you are on a reducing reform and you take this midnight banquet, you have to eat just so many calories less during the day to allow for them.

C. G.: You say you are 6 feet 4 inches tall and weigh only 148 pounds. You should weigh around 175 pounds. Undoubtedly your excess smoking helps keep you thin and you should sleep and rest more than you say you do.

Have you our instructions on gaining? It is a safe wager, not to say a cinch, that if you have nothing organically wrong with you you are not getting enough of the well-known calories. We are getting results with our gaining instructions. Better send for them.

F. M.: It will be much easier for your friends to write individual requests for our little pamphlet on reducing than for you to type them from yours. I am sorry that we cannot comply with your request for a number of the pamphlets even though you sent the additional stamps, because it is the rule of the office that only one pamphlet is to be given for one letter. We have had to refuse other physical culture classes and high schools and other concerns because of this ruling.

Tell your friends to write to me in care of this paper, sending a self-addressed stamped envelope and 4 cents in stamps, and we will be glad to send each of them the instructions.

Mrs. E.: No, bathing is not injurious to the expectant mother. Ocean bathing where you might be buffeted too vigorously by the waves, especially in the latter months, might be inadvisable.

We have a list of books for the expectant mother which you can have if you would like them.

MARRIAGES PROVED NOT ALL MISFITS

More Than 250 Who Have Lived Together for Half Century Attend Party

The first fifty years of marriage may be the hardest, as is commonly said, but that they are not very hard was proved yesterday afternoon at the Egan Theater, when more than 250 people who have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary gathered at the invitation of the management.

White-headed men and women, quaint, charming and living examples of courtesy which has become all but a memory in these days of haste and curtness, formed an audience which was unique in more ways than one.

It was a gala occasion, for many of them who rarely are able to get to the theater, and to go with their contemporaries served to heighten their enjoyment.

Many notables were among the audience, which included former Senator Cornelius Cole, William H. Crane, the noted actor, Gen. John S. Wilcox of Civil War fame, and Mrs. Ruby La Fayette, one of the best-known mothers on the screen, and who has just finished making "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine."

Mrs. Crane and Mr. Egan received the guests as they arrived and after the performance Mr. Rainey and Miss Vaughn held a reception on the stage for their guests who had so successfully weathered the trials of marriage.

DOLLING UP THE FAMILY MEALS

Mrs. Aatums Shows How to Make Them Attractive

Grapefruit Preparation is Discussed

Luncheon Salad and Dinner Oysters Improved

BY WINIFRED STUART GIBBS,
Food Specialist

"Good morning, Miss Eatums. How soon may we expect the arrival of the president of the diplomatic corps?"

Fatty swept a flourishing bow to Eleanor, housekeeper for the month under the new regime, in the course of which each member of the Eatums family was pledged to a program of watchfulness in the matter of clean hands, quiet voices and polite manners.

"Smarty! Come and buttle for me and maybe you'll have waffles for breakfast."

"Not on your life! Me, a free-born citizen of this broad land to wear the livery of a menial! No, ma'am."

It was not long before all the young Eatums were busily engaged in carrying out their appointed tasks. There was a great washing of hands and smoothing of hair as both boys and girls prepared to carry out their side of the bargain.

Mother Eatums found a very circumspect group of youngsters when she came in, and as soon as breakfast was over she prepared to show Eleanor how to make some of the little "party touches" she had promised.

"We are not going to do anything elaborate, children, but before we begin I want to ask if you have taken care of everything as we agreed."

"Yes, indeed, Mums," came the general chorus.

"Esther is taking care of the table linen, beginning the time it comes from the laundry, mending and sorting and putting it in the linen closet. I'm looking out for the brass polishing, the table decorations, the windows in the dining-room, the setting of the table and the pantry.

Mother Eatums laughed.

"You make me quite in awe of you, but I'll try to live up to my part of the bargain. Let me see, I think we were to have an extra touch, something a little 'different' for each meal. So today I'll show Eleanor how to take special pains with the breakfast grapefruit, the luncheon salad and the dinner oysters.

"You all know we've been apt to hurry and cut the grapefruit 'any old way,' as the boys would call it, but as we are henceforth to think of the family as 'company' we must serve this just as if company were present.

"First, cut the grapefruit in halves across the grain, to form two portions. With a small penknife cut round the pulp of each little section of the fruit, so that each one can be removed from the membrane with a fork or orange spoon. Then cut the membrane that separates the sections and also the core from the skin. In this way you can take out the membrane and core, all in one piece. Each half of the fruit may be served on small lace paper doilies. We have not done this as you know, but it is just one of the trifles that mean extra care in serving. Another touch is to add a spoonful of powdered sugar and Bar-le-Duc currants to the center of each half.

"Now for the luncheon salad.

"I think today we'll just concentrate on the cleansing and preparation of lettuce, tomatoes and celery, as those are the chief parts of today's salad.

PREPARING LETTUCE

"(1.) Remove root and coarse outer leaves.

"(2.) Clean each leaf separately by rinsing in cold water, using several waters.

"(3.) Freshen wilted leaves in very cold water.

PREPARING TOMATOES

"Peel tomatoes and remove hard centers near the stems, then place on ice to chill.

PREPARING CELERY

"When served 'clubhouse fashion' the celery root is retained. To do this remove the coarse outer stalks, cut off ends down to the solid portion and trim roots, discarding the outer part that may be discolored by exposure to the outer air.

"As a special stunt suppose we curl the celery. Select the thick stalks, scrape off the tough strings and cut the stalks into two or three-inch pieces. Slit half the length into five or six strips. After curling chill the prepared stalks by placing in ice water.

"As to oysters for dinner, you must scrub the shells very thoroughly with a small brush, then rinse them and wipe very dry.

"The boys may open the shells."

"Who said he wouldn't buttle?" jeered Grubby at his twin

"Abductor," announced Grubby.

A general shout followed.

"Change one letter, Son," answered Mother Eatums, "and you have it. "They are the adductors. When you have taken off the upper shell clean both the shells and put the upper back in place and set the oysters in a pan, cover the pan and set on the ice.

"Just before dinner shave enough ice to serve each person's oysters, setting five or six on individual beds of the ice. Serve with lemon.

"Now this all seems very simple, children, but my idea is to get you in the habit of taking great pains with the details. It is only in this way that you will come to do everything automatically and as a matter of course."

Note.—Any reader of Our Family Food who cares to suggest any other points about special service is requested to write to the editor. The Eatums family will be glad to discuss anything in which our readers are particularly interested.

REAL ECONOMY DISCUSSED

Mothers' Meeting Decides That There is Very Little Saved in Buying Cheaper Foods

The mothers' meeting was almost over when one member rose timidly and said: "Madam Chairman, it is my turn to suggest the topic for next week's discussion, and I should like to hear the mothers talk on the question, "What is economy and does it pay?"

There was a general smile at first, but the chairman was a person of discernment and she announced:

"That is a good question and I hope the ladies will think about it this week and let us know their views."

As the meeting broke up there was much earnest conversation, little groups of mothers exchanged experiences and general interest was expressed as to how the chairman would develop this topic at the next meeting.

The following week some interesting contributions were made to the discussion, a few of which were:

"Except for occasional 'change' and variety it is cheaper and more satisfactory to buy bread than to bake at home."

"It is not true economy to spend effort and fuel on the preparation of old winter vegetables, when delicious canned vegetables may be had so reasonably."

"Unless the fire is to be used for cooking other foods at the same time cereals requiring several hours' cooking should be placed in a fireless cooker at bed time, when they will be ready for breakfast without undue expenditure of fuel."

"When one buys inexpensive cuts of meat this rule about planning for other uses of the fire holds equally good. The tougher cuts require long slow cooking and if the fuel is not to be partially wasted several things should be cooked at one time."

"It is a wise plan to ascertain the difference between the apparent or market price of meats and the actual or food value price. In other words a cut selling at a low price per pound may not furnish as much real food as one that sells for several cents more per pound while offering an appreciable increase in solid meat or food."

Any reader of Our Family Food desiring detailed information on this point may learn where to obtain the same if he will send a self-addressed stamped envelope.

RAID SPAGHETTI PARLOR

Federal prohibition agents, armed with a search warrant, went through the spaghetti "parlor" of Frank Monterano, 210 East Eleventh street, yesterday and seized thirty gallons of wine, they said. The program at Sawtelle will include the latest syncopated selections with a liberal sprinkling of old-time songs and patriotic airs.

The orchestra is composed of eleven college men, graduates of the Pennsylvania State University. They play a total of thirty-five instruments.

Jail Sentence Dealt Out to Medium Cohen

Sentence of eighteen months in the County Jail was imposed yesterday by Judge Hahn in Superior Court on Harry Y. Cohen, alias Harry Y. Newman, love seer convicted of contributing to the delinquency of Mrs. Lillian Hildreth.

Motion for an appeal was made immediately by attorneys for the medium. The court announced that the motion would be taken up later.

Newman, or Cohen, was convicted of having "mentally photographed" Mrs. Hildreth while she was partially disrobed. Many other charges also were made against the defendant.

SUIT AGAINST BANK TO BE TRIED AGAIN

Not satisfied with the disagreement of the jury in the suit brought by Thomas Donahoe, to recover from the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank and Otis B. Berry, manager of the Hollywood branch of that corporation, $43,176.45, asserted to have been lost through the negligence of Berry, as a result of the "Big Hutch" bunko operations in this city two years ago, the case has been set for another hearing in U. S. District Judge Bledsoe's court, next Tuesday. Numerically the jury stood 10 to 2, but in whose favor is not known.

NEW STATION PROPOSED

Sandwiches of HOLSUM Bread constitute the ideal food to keep the body fit for physical labor. HOLSUM is made with an understanding of food values. It is baked up to a standard—not down to a price. You get the full food value you pay for. HOLSUM is the cheapest food you can buy.

BAN ASKED ON STREET TALKS

Merchants in Downtown District Protest

Declare Soap-Box Oratory Is Hurting Business

Council to Receive Petition With Many Signers

Merchants of Los Angeles street between Aliso and Second streets have prepared a petition which they will submit next Monday afternoon to the Public Safety Committe of the City Council protesting against the use of that section of the city by curbstone orators and men temporarily out of work, whose activities there it is said are resulting in a severe depreciation of property and are undermining the health of the district. An amendment will be asked by the petitioners to the street-speaking ordinance which will prohibit such activities in that section.

A protest meeting was held yesterday morning in the offices of G. W. Duncan, general manager of the Sierra Paper Company, 130 South Los Angeles street, at which more than a dozen prominent business men of the district formulated plans to remedy the condition.

It was pointed out by different merchants that the valuation of property in that vicinity at a conservative estimate approximates $3,500,000, over $40,000,000 worth of business being done there every year. In the past year, it was said, conditions have become such that the health and the safety of its workers has been endangered and expansion of business has been seriously curtailed.

AMENDMENT ASKED

The petition which will be submitted reads: "The undersigned, owners of real property and engaged in business on Los Angeles street, south of Aliso street, do hereby petition your honorable body to amend Ordinance No. 20,534 (new series) so as to include within the district where street speaking is prohibited that portion of Los Angeles between Aliso and Second streets.

"This modification to the ordinance regulating street speaking is imperative for the purpose of protecting public health and safety and preserving the security of property on the street mentioned."

Merchants at the meeting emphasized that the business district there has great possibilities of expansion but that it is being retarded by certain liberties taken with their property by outsiders and the immediate environment. It was said that the streets sometimes are so crowded with street congregations that it is a menace to traffic, especially on Sunday.

"We have no desire to stop free speech," Mr. Duncan said yesterday," but we do not want it where it becomes a detriment to business, and the health and the promotion of our district. We don't want it at the front door of our business houses."

CARS TAKEN BY DRY MEN AUCTIONED

There were twelve Fords and one each of the Buick, Overland, Dodge, Oldsmobile, Auburn, Briscoe and Maxwell makes disposed of in quick order.

A great crowd of buyers and onlookers attended the sale, and it is evident some of the smooth-fingered gentry were on hand to take advantage of the opportunity. C. Alport bid off the Maxwell automobile at $30, and when he went down in his clothes for the money, he discovered that some unconscionable thief had picked his pocket, and it was necessary to sell the machine over again. Young Alport said he had saved the money dollar by dollar to get a machine to assist him in making a living. His forlorn situation excited much sympathy.

Certificates of Treasury for Tax Sums

Collector Goodcell was authorized yesterday by the United States Treasury Department to receive at par United States Treasury certificates of indebtedness of series TM-1923, dated March 15, 1922, and series TM2-1923, dated Dec. 15, 1922, both maturing March 15, 1923, in payment of income and profits taxes payable March 15, 1923; series TJ-1923, dated June 15, 1922, maturing June 15, 1923, in payment of income and profits taxes payable June 15, 1923; series TS-1923, dated Sept. 15, 1922, maturing Sept. 15, 1923, in payment of income and profits taxes payable Sept. 15, 1923; and series TD-1923, dated Dec. 15, 1922 and maturing Dec. 15, 1923, in payment of income and profits taxes payable Dec. 15, 1923.

The collector was further authorized to receive at par, in payment of income and profits taxes payable at the maturity of the certificates. Treasury certificates of indebtedness of any other series which may be issued to mature March 15, June 15, September 15, or December 15, respectively, and expressed to be acceptable in payment of income and profits taxes.

Treasury certificates of indebtedness that are acceptable may be received in advance of the dates in which they mature, but all interest coupons must be detached by the taxpayer before presentation to the collector and collected in ordinary course when due.

The deposit of these certificates so received in payment of taxes must be made with the Federal reserve bank of the district in which the collector's head office is located.

Mrs. Wallace's Funeral to be This Afternoon

The funeral of Mrs. Millie P. Wallace, wife of Charles A. Wallace, city license clerk, will be conducted at 1 o'clock this afternoon at the Ruppe mortuary, 842 South Figueroa street. Burial will be at Hollywood Cemetery. Dean William MacCormack of St. Paul's ProCathedral will officiate at the services.

Mrs. Walace's death was unexpected. When Mr. Wallace left his home at 4524 West Washington street Thursday morning she was apparently well and in good spirits. When Mr. Wallace returned shortly after 6 o'clock he found his wife's body lying on the floor in an upstairs room. It is believed that during the morning she died of heart disease.

Mrs. Wallace was born in Minnesota. She and Mr. Wallace celebrated their thirty-first wedding anniversary on the 17th inst. There is one son, Charles W. Wallace, who served as an officer in the Navy during the World War.

At this morning's meeting of the City Council Councilman Sparks will introduce a resolution of sympathy on behalf of the city government to Mr. Wallace and his son.

INITIAL RECIPE CONTEST OVER

Judges About to Start on Soups and Appetizers

Southland Cooks Develop Distinctive Cuisine

Secrets on Fish and Sauce Now Pouring In

The first Times' recipe contest closes today, and the second, for fish and fish sauces, begins. Recipes postmarked after today for the first contest will not be considered nor will those received after Wednesday next, when the final selection work of the judges takes place.

So many new and original recipes for soups and appetizers, most of them making use of typical California products, have been submitted that the work of the judges will be difficult. Every mail brings more of them, and if Southern California is unable to develop a distinctive cuisine of its own, it will not be, evidently, for want of trying.

Contestants must observe the rules strictly. Recipes must be written on one side of the paper only, and where more than one recipe is submitted by a contestant each must be signed. The culinary experts, who will decide the contest, will not consider recipes that do not conform to the rules.

Following are some of the recipes submitted:

FRUIT SOUP

One pound raisins, one-half pound currants, one-half pound prunes, one-half pound red raspberries (dried,) one-half pound apples (fresh or dried, one stick cinnamon, three or four quarts of water, one tablespoon sago, five tablespoons sugar.

Put the fruit and the cinnamon in water and boil for three hours, adding water as needed to make two and a half quarts of soup when done. Take from fire and strain through cheesecloth. Next day return to fire and add the sago and sugar. When thick put aside to cool. Just before serving in cups add cracked ice.—[Mrs. John Sturgess, 503 East Cypress street, Glendale.

FRUIT APPETIZER

Chill ripe cantaloupes thoroughly, cut in halves and remove seeds and stringy portion. Then with a round potato or fruit cutter scoop out the melon in the shape of large plums. Serve with the juice of the melon chilled and colored with a little currant or any red jelly dissolved with the juice and added when ready to serve. Season with salt and pepper.—[Mrs. Belle Hoyt, 335 South Van Ness avenue.

LIVER DUMPLING SOUP

Boil one small soup bone or a small quantity of soup meat, one diced potato, one chopped carrot, one medium-sized onion, three cloves and a small bay leaf. Add salt to taste and simmer for about two hours. To make enough dumplings for three take one cup of bread crumbs, one egg, one tablespoonful finely chopped onion and salt and pepper to taste. Mix with this one slice of beef or lamb liver which has been scraped to a pulp. Moisten the mixture with a spoonful of the hot soup. Put a little flour in a saucer and roll the crumb mixture in little balls about the size of a walnut, rolling each ball in the flour so that they will hold together. Put them in the soup and boil for about half an hour, boiling slowly so that they will keep together.—[Mrs. Will Wackerle, 845 East Ninth street, Long Beach.

STRAINED VEGETABLE SOUP

Take a small, marrow soup bone, cover with three quarts of water, add to it bones from dressed meats, trimmings of poultry or beef gravy, a couple of large onions, three tomatoes, one turnip, two carrots and salt to taste. Set over a slow fire and let simmer gently for five or six hours. Remove all scum as it rises. About thirty minutes before the soup is done, stir thoroughly, strain, reheat and serve a spoonful of rice with each portion.—[Miss Lillian Ferris, 1730 LaBrea street.

HUNGARIAN TOMATO PAPRIKA SOUP

One can of tomatoes cooked and strained. One-fourth cup of cooked rice. Two onions fried a light brown in butter. One tablespoon of browned flour in butter. Salt and paprika to taste. Serve in very hot dishes with toasted crackers.—[B. Shunk, 237 Garfield avenue, Pasadena.

CARROT AND LENTIL SOUP

Three quarts of stock or water. One pint of lentils. Four carrots sliced. Two onions sliced. One head of lettuce shredded. Two tablespoonfuls of cooked rice. Two tablespoonfuls of butter or fat. Salt and pepper. Let lentils soak over night, then wash and drain well. Heat butter or fat in pan, put in vegetables and let them dry slowly for fifteen minutes. Now add lentils and stock or water, season with salt and pepper and simmer gently for one hour or until the lentils are tender. Pass the whole through a sieve, return to pan, heat thoroughly and then add cooked rice. Season to taste and serve.—[Mrs. J. N. Weldon, 122 West Sixty-first street.

TOMATOES A LA BONNE FLANGUETTE

Eight fresh tomatoes. Two hard-boiled eggs. One onion and a very little garlic. Four tablespoons salad oil. Two tablespoons vinegar. Shervil and parsley. Salt, pepper and tarrogon. Scald the ripe tomatoes, peel and slice, arranging on a platter. Place in cold place or on ice while preparing the dressing. Chop the eggs, onion, shervil and parsley. Mix with the oil, vinegar and seasoning, blend thoroughly and pour on the tomatoes when ready to serve.—Will serve six persons at a cost of approximately 42 cents. —[John Raffard, 2137 Branden street.

POTAGE OF HEALTH
(Leek and Potato Soup)

Two leeks or two onions. Three potatoes. One soupspoon of flour. One-half gallon stock or water. Two ounces butter. Two rolls or two slices of bread. Let simmer gently the chopped leeks or onions. Add flour, stir and pour on stock or water. Add the potatoes sliced and later when cooked whip lightly and pour on the sliced bread which has been crisped.—[John Raffard, 2137 Branden street.

CRANBERRY FRUIT COCKTAIL

One pound of cranberries. Three cups of water. Two cups of sugar. Cook for ten minutes and strain, then add three grapefruit. Three oranges. One banana. One small can grated pineapple. Juice of two lemons. Use the juice and pulp of the grapefruit and oranges, discarding white rind, and slice the banana. Chill after mixing thoroughly and serve in sherbet glasses. This will serve twelve people—[Mrs. W. K. Gillett, Trona, San Bernardino county.

AVOCADO CANAPE

One large, ripe avocado. One-third pound pimento pepper. One dessert spoon mayonnaise. Six drops anchovy sauce. One-fourth teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, salt, pepper and cayenne. Mash avocado and pimento through sieve, stir in the mayonnaise, add the anchovy sauce, Worcestershire and seasoning. Spread on buttered, fancy-shaped toast and garnish with chopped hard-boiled egg and chopped parsley. This should serve ten.—[P. R. Smallwood, 633 South Ardmore treet.

REFUSED TO WIRE WIFE TRAIN FARE

Minister - School Director is No Longer Husband of Mrs. Ruth Shumway

After sending his wife to California for her health, Rev. C. W. Shumway, director of the Evansville School of Religious Education, refused to send her money to return, Mrs. Ruth Shumway testified yesterday in Superior Court in her suit for divorce. Judge Summerfield granted Mrs. Shumway a decree on the grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Shumway declared that after her husband refused to fortoward return fare, she communicated with the president of the school, who requested Rev. Mr. Shumway to live with his wife or leave the school. He refused to do either, she asserted.

"I confess to considerable surprise at your mention of coming home. You fixed my reputation to suit yourself and I am doing my best to live down the black mark you yourself have placed opposite my qualifications as a husband, father and preacher.

"Remember, Ruth, I can't do the kind of work I am trying to do here and be bullyragged, browbeaten and 'cussed.' After talking with Hughes, and after most careful and prayerful thought, I am driven against influential personal sentiments to decide irrevocably that we must be legally separated. No law of State or church shall change that determination. With your strong inclination to sneer, you may choose to regard this letter lightly, but my mind is made up."

The couple have been married about ten years and have several children.

BAKERS OF CITY EQUAL TO THE BEST

American Baking Institute Manager Praises Makers of Los Angeles Bread

"Bakers of Los Angeles are equal to the most efficient members of the baking profession in any city of the United States," declared Dr. H. E. Bernard, manager of the American Institute of Baking, in an address yesterday before the Rotary Club at the Hotel Alexandria.

"That may be 'the language of compliment, the honey of sentiment on the dry bread of life,' but it is not flattery," said Dr. Bernard. "Evidence of the truth of my statement is to be found in the fact that 85 per cent of the bread eaten in Los Angeles is made by professional bakers.

"The fact that the people of this city consume, daily, 450,000 pounds of commercially-made bread is a tribute not only to your bakers, but also to the good sense of the citizenry. I came out here to teach you people to make toast a part of your breakfast menue and I find that you serve it for breakfast dessert. I have never eaten better bread anywhere than I have been served by the hospitable citizens of Los Angeles."

JURIES TO WIND UP WORK

There will be a general wind-up of all the criminal cases pending before the two Federal grand juries next Friday. The new grand jury impaneled ten days ago was in session yesterday forenoon, but no report was made. The old grand jury, in existence since last July, will wind up its business, next Friday, when reports on a number of important cases are expected.

"TIMES" RECIPE CONTEST

Readers of The Times are invited to participate in a series of culinary contests in which this journal will pay cash prizes for the best recipes submitted. There will be six contests, each lasting two weeks. In each contest the best recipe submitted will win a first prize of $10, the next best $7.50 and the third best $3. In addition to these there will be two special prizes of $10 and $5 for the two best recipes for Spanish dishes. These Spanish-dish recipes may be submitted at any time during the twelve weeks, or until April 7. All other recipes must be submitted before the end of the two weeks allotted to the contest in which each is intended as an entry.

The first contest began January 13, and closes Saturday, January 27. It is a contest for the best recipe for a soup or an appetizer. The winners will be announced in The Times on Saturday, February 3.

The second contest, which will be for the best recipe for preparing fish or a fish sauce, will begin January 27 and close February 10. Winners will be announced February 17.

The third contest will be for the best recipe for preparing meat or a meat sauce. It will run from February 10 to February 24. Winners will be announced March 3.

The fourth contest, to run from February 24 to March 10, will be for the best recipe for the preparation of vegetables. Winners announced March 17.

The fifth contest, March 10 to March 24, will be for the best salad or salad dressing. Winners announced March 31.

The sixth contest will run from March 24 to April 7. It will be for the best recipe for a dessert. This may be cake, pastry or frozen or moulded desserts. Winners in this and in the special Spanish-dish contest will be announced April 14.

The Times reserves the right to print any recipe submitted in its columns or in book form. In such case the name of the author will also appear.

Recipes must be written on one side of the paper only, must be legible and plainly marked with the name and address of the author.

No manuscripts will be returned.

It is not necessary to be a subscriber to The Times to compete. Anyone may enter any or all of the contests, submitting as many recipes as desired.

Originality, economy and adaptability to Southern California conditions will be considered in judging the recipes. Contestants should submit only recipes that have been thoroughly tested out in their own kitchens.

Specify exact amounts of ingredients, using level measurements. Do not use trade-marked names of ingredients.

Recipes should be sent in as early as possible. A recipe may be sent in before the actual start of the contest in which it is entered but in this case the fact must be noted at the top.

Address all recipes to The Times Recipe Editor, Times Building, Los Angeles.
